Courage Not Lost.
This Wide Round World.
Rome's Old Mountain.
Mr. Lynch Came Home.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GERMANY LOST the war and victorious nations have been milking her of her gold, industriously. But Germany did not lose courage.

As this was written, 3:40 p. m. New York City daylight saving time yesterday, the giant German airplane, DO-X, was roaring 3,000 feet above the old Brooklyn Bridge, outside this office window, on her way up the East River after a 12,000-mile flight via South America. Our biggest airplanes, flying with DO-X, look smaller than kingbirds pursuing a crow.

TAKING SAMUEL Johnson's advice,

"Let observation with extensive view Survey mankind, from China to Peru," you find a world busy, worried and excited, from China to Peru, from Peru to Maine, and from Maine around to Japan.

WALL STREET decides to lend $300,000,000 to Great Britain. The proposition is that the loan shall have substantial guarantees.

What interest will Britain pay?

IN LISBON, where they have revolutions every little while, artillery from the hills is "raking" the rebels, a few dozen killed, a few hundred wounded.

BRAZIL IS throwing surplus coffee overboard. If you don't believe it, you may see the actual photographs. Uncle Sam should get that coffee in exchange for wheat, keep the coffee and enough of the wheat to feed anybody that may need food during the coming winter. On hot coffee and good bread a man can live. The government could help the farmer by adding a little bacon.

MUSSOLINI is planning his first visit to Pope Pius XI, to settle permanently the "Catholic Action" controversy.

Thus Mohammed went to the mountain, when the mountain would not budge.

The mountain that Mussolini is to visit was there long before Mussolini's day, and will be there long after Mussolini. It doesn't move, and doesn't hurry.

MR. LYNCH, the Chicago "turf magnate," a polite euphemism for "gambler," home as predicted, driving his own car, says the kidnapers were "most courteous." That reminds you of Abe Kabibble's letter from a German prison, telling how wonderfully he was treated, with the postscript "they shot Meyer yesterday for complaining."

IN RESPONSE to pitiful appeals the "big shot," Mr. Capone, had said, "I shall see what I can do." He did see, and the kidnaped man came home. And now Chicago's police are looking for Capone to arrest him as knowing something about the kidnaping in the first place. What do you think of that for ingratitude?

AN INVESTIGATING committee alleges that Bishop James Cannon, Jr., received contributions amounting to $100,000 to help him in his fight against former Gov. Smith for President. This emphasizes the fact that the campaign in 1928 was a religious campaign and not all a prohibition campaign, as many have erroneously believed.

HERNDON, who flew with Pangborn from New York to Japan, tells Senator Borah "We are still in a jam. Please get us permission from Japan to fly the Pacific, nonstop to the United States.

Senator Borah will probably do his best, and the wise Japanese will say "all right, go fly, but don't fly over and photograph our fortifications this time."

Before we criticise Japan, let us ask what we should say if two estimable Japanese pilots flew to this country, over our fortifications, taking photographs on the way.

THE ITALIAN KING and Mussolini, having watched nearly one thousand Italian airplanes in a mock war, do not deceive themselves or the public. They announce that if it had been a real battle, it would have wiped out Spezia, Italy's shipbuilding center, in short order while the King and Mussolini looked on.

FRANCE HAS perhaps five times as many fighting planes as Italy, more than Italy and England combined.

But a man with five revolvers respects the man with only one, because one is enough to do a job. A thousand English or Italian airplanes, starting unexpectedly, would be enough to work unpleasant wonders over Paris or any other European capital.

ARMSTRONG FOLLOWERS ASSESSED

Names Put on Tax Books by Scores Despite Schad Ban Affecting All Other Wards

Residents of the Seventeenth Ward, the home of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, were being assessed by the score today, while those of the city and county in general were denied that privilege.

Chairman George J. Schad, of the Board for Revision and Assessment of Taxes, closed his books to additional assessments yesterday when he was notified that the Allegheny County Bar Association had petitioned Common Pleas Court to compel him to certify to the County Treasurer all names now on the additional assessment books, in which these residents not listed by their district in his house-to-house canvass are placed.

HEARING POSTPONED

The hearing, set for 10:30 a. m. today, was postponed until 10:30 Monday. Then, after a conference with County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher, Schad announced his books would continue to be closed until after the hearing.

Attorney Joseph A. Richardson, acting chairman of the Bar Association Committee on Election Frauds, said there was nothing in the petition which would require Schad to discontinue assessments. He said the action had been taken to compel Schad to place the assessment lists where proper authorities could scan them for possible registrations of "ghost voters."

With Schad's office refusing to accept assessment, however, a branch office located in Alderman John P. Kearcher's office, 79

Gov. Roosevelt Urges Tax On Rich to Feed Jobless

Proposes 20 Million Fund to Meet Winter's Need

DEMANDS ACTION

Special Session of N. Y. Assembly to Meet Crisis

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, Aug. 28.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt personally transmitted to the special session of the Legislature today a message in which he recommended a comprehensive state unemployment relief program of $20,000,000, to be financed by a 50 per cent increase in personal income tax.

In his 4,000-word message, Gov. Roosevelt took what some regarded as an indirect slap at President Hoover's handling of the problem. He said:

"It is idle for us to speculate on actions which may be taken by the federal government, just as it is idle to speculate about the causes of the national depression.

SCORES DELAY

"It is true that times may get better; it is true the federal government may take action to eradicate some of the basic causes of our present troubles; it is true that the federal government may come forward with a definite construction program on a truly large scale; it is true that the federal government may adopt a well-thought-out concrete policy which will start the wheels of industry moving and give to the farmer at least the cost of making his crop.

"The state of New York can not wait for that. I face and you face and 13,000,000 people face the problems of providing immediate relief."

If Roosevelt's recommendations are carried out by the Republican-controlled Legislature, it will mean the wealthy persons of the

COAL CZAR PLAN DISCUSSED BY OPERATORS

Pinchot Action Awaited on Proposal for Conference Of Mine State Governors

Selection of a czar or dictator for the coal business—a man to occupy a position similar to that of Will Hays in the movies—has been discussed by numerous Pittsburgh district coal operators within the last few weeks, it was learned today.

The purpose of the gatherings where these discussions took place has been to obtain some action that will result in bringing about a stabilization of the coal industry. Other meetings are scheduled. If such a plan is acceptable, the man selected would be empowered to obtain information on costs and all other data that would aid in solving the problem.

PINCHOT ACTION AWAITED

During these discussions various plans have been proposed by individual groups, the suggestion of the dictator having come to light as a result of requests for action to state and federal authorities.

Many leading coal men of Western Pennsylvania are awaiting Gov. Gifford Pinchot's action toward calling a conference of the Governors of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky, and leading operators, to discuss restriction of coal production, elimination of high-cost mines, or both.

J. T. M. Stoneroad, president of the Carnegie Coal Company, is the author of the conference idea. He would like to see the exercise of police powers in those states

BLOODSTAINS AFFRIGHT SUSPECT

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 28.—Visibly shaken at the sight of bloodstains on the floor of a garage he admits having built at Quiet Dell, near here, several week sago, Harry F. Powers, alias Cornelius O. Pierson, today denied knowledge of how the stains got there.

Intentified as a 45-year-old matrimonal agency, Romeo Powers is being held in jail here in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Asto Buick Eicher and her three childrn, Harry, 12; Grta, 14, and Anabel, 9, missing from their home at Park Ridge, Ill., since June, while Clarksburg police began digging the earth around the garage for trace of the bodies of the Eicher family.

LETTERS FOUND

Powers was brought to the garage shortly before noon, following the discovery of the ramshackle building several hours before, containing several trunks and suitcases filled with children's toys, household effects and letters to both the Eicher woman and to Pierson, the name used by the suspect in corresponding with many women throughout the United States and Canada. A blood-stained cot, Powers claims he owns, who also found in the garage.

Grilled by Chief of Police Clarence A. Duckworth, Powers, a short, heavy-et man, wearing horn-rim glasses, told conflicting stories as to the manner in which Mrs. Eicher's effects came into his possession. At one time he said she sent them; then abruptly said he brought them there and later said that Mrs. Eicher had sent them.

SOLUTION BELIEVED NEAR

Tucked away in one of the trunks was a pair of women's shoes, encrusted with mud. Pierson identified them as having belonged to Mrs. Eicher, but did not explain how they got there. Chief Duckworth advanced the opinion that Mrs. Eicher, alive, had worn them to the garage.

Fully convinced that the end of the trail for the missing family is

9 FOUND GUILTY IN MINE RIOT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 28.—Eight men and one woman, tried for conspiracy, unlawful assembly and rioting in connection with the Canonsburg riot July 19 between United Mine Workers and the National Miners, were convicted on all accounts by a jury in Criminal Court here today.

Peter Wagner, the ninth of the men on trial, was acquitted, while one of the two women, Anna Rasefske, was found guilty only of unlawful assembly.

The case was given to the jury at 6 o'clock last night, and the verdict was returned at 12:30 p. m. Trials of other charges against persons arrested in connection with the disorder will be begun next week here, it was said at the District Attorney's office.

Sentence was postponed pending action on a motion for a new trial.

MELLON PEACE MOVE FAILS

Conferences of W. L. Mellon with County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Senator James J. Coyne have failed to develop anything suggestive of an alliance between these two Republican candidates for County Commissioner. The former state chairman met Coyne and Armstrong separately, and is expected to talk with both again before he leaves Pittsburgh, which will probably not be until next week.

There was a disposition today in the Coyne camp to believe the commissioner battle would continue, at least until near the end of the campaign, and probably until election day, as a single-handed fight, at least as far as their leader is concerned.

COUNCIL WORRIES KLINE

Coyne has been deferring to Mayor Kline in the settling of many recent political problems, and it is evident that the Mayor,

Bandits Get $55 In Store Holdup

Two armed men entered the P. H. Butler store at 925 Mellon street early today, held up John Porter, manager, and John Basal, clerk, and escaped in an auto with $55.

Carole Lombard Ill Of Pleurisy in Home

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Physicians stated that Carole Lombard, motion picture actress and recent bride of William Powell, actor, will be confined to her home for several weeks as the result of a severe attack of pleurisy.

HOOVER REPLIES TO PINCHOT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—President Hoover has answered the letter of Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, urging him to call a special session of Congress to deal with unemployment.

It was said at the White House today that the letter had been acknowledged, but the reply was not made public.

The President has been represented repeatedly as opposed to an extra session.

PITTSBURGHER DIES IN FALL

His roommate, Ben Isaacson, of Altoona, Pa., told officers Wilson jumped to death despite efforts to restrain him.

Isaacson, who identified himself as a hitchhiker en route to California, said Wilson, aged about 40, had accepted him as a traveling companion at Wheeling, W. Va., and told him he was on his way to Clinton, Okla., to join Mrs. Wilson and their two children.

Wilson lived at 618 Worth street, Squirrel Hill. He had been employed as local representative of a New York trade publication, residing here about five years.

Infantile Paralysis Victim Guarded

Two Wilmerding firemen were maintaining continuous vigil at the home of James Varacalli, 513 Station street, Wilmerding, today, where his 17-months-old daughter, Rose, lies stricken with infantile paralysis. Chief of Police J. F. Corteal swore in the firemen as special officers to keep persons from entering or leaving the place. The child, stricken last week, was removed home after the illness had been diagnosed at the Children's Hospital.

Auto Kills Boy, 8; Driver Under Arrest

Timothy Leonard, aged 8, of 170 Forty-seventh street, was fatally injured today when struck by an automobile at Forty-sixth and Butler streets.

He was pronounced dead at St. Margaret's Hospital. Joseph Bryan, of 148 Brighton street, East Pittsburgh, driver of the car, was arrested.

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Rounding out a day crowded with official and social functions, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were formally welcomed to Japan tonight at a banquet given by members of the Cabinet.

The banquet came at the end of the hottest day of the year in Tokio and those attending it were attired informally because of the severity of the temperature. Both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh appeared a little tired, but the former showed enthusiasm when he spoke of aviation in his address.

The large number of entertainments in honor of the Lindberghs resulted in some complications, but both Japanese and Americans in charge of the festivities said the mixup was "nothing serious."

The largest affair involved in the mixup was a geisha party arranged by the newspaper Nichi Nichi. The party had to be called off. Nichi Nichi officials said the Colonel accepted their invitation with thanks in behalf of himself and Mrs. Lindbergh, but at the last moment sent regrets.

Steamship company agents today quoted Lindbergh as having said he and Mrs. Lindbergh would return to America by plane, but that the aviator did not mention their route.

Exceptional clarity marked the reception of the Lindbergh broadcast from Tokio, Japan, by KDKA and WJAS here this morning from 7:30 to 8:11 a. m.

Divorcee Kidnaped Child, Ex-Husband Charges

Seeking custody of his two children, John N. Crombie, Jr., 9, and Mary Louise Crombie, 3, John N. Crombie, of New Castle, assistant manager of the Shenango Works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, today testified in a habeas corpus action against Mrs. Kathleen C. Crombie, 34, his divorced wife. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Coll. Mr. Coll is president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank. They live in Mt. Lebanon.

Crombie told Judge Sylvester J. Snee that they were divorced last April, the mother being awarded custody of Mary Louise and he, John N., Jr.

A week ago, he said, Mrs. Crombie drove to New Castle and took charge of the boy, who was playing in the front yard. Crombie asserted his former wife had been given treatment in sanitariums in Mercer, Miami, Fla., Baltimore and Washington, and that custody of the children made her nervous and unstrung. The hearing may continue several days.

PITTSBURGHER FEARED DEAD FIGHTING FOREST FIRE

4 BODIES FOUND ON MONTANA MOUNTAIN

Men Part of Crew Trapped Battling Flames Sweeping Lewis and Clark Preserve

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—The death of four fire fighters in the Lewis and Clark National Forest caused volunteers and National Guardsmen to redouble efforts today to check the flames which have swept thousands of acres in the Northwest.

The toll of lives this season mounted to 32 with the trapping of four of a party of five men by a circle of fire in the Montana preserve. The fate of the fifth man was not determined.

Forest officials said the party was composed of Charles Allen, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Helbert Novotny, Harry Gunnerson, Ted Bielchen and Frank Williams, all of Great Falls, Mont. The bodies will be taken today to Choteau, Mont., 35 miles away, where definite identification is expected.

While weather workers carried the bodies across seven miles of rugged country to a road, others threw up camps in front of flames advancing toward the Clark Fork River. This fire has swept into Montana from Idaho. Another dangerous section was at Lost Creek, where the fire had burned to within six miles of the town of Whitefish.

Although California forestry officials reported control of fires throughout that state as slightly better, thousands of acres still smouldered and flared. Forecasters said the weather would continue hot and dry, which will increase the fire menace.

Fire fighters in Central Idaho were concentrating against flames which had advanced to within 10 miles of the town of Lowman. National Guardsmen were rushed to the scene yesterday. Plans were made to trench and clear away timber six miles ahead of the fire.

Military officers patrolled the 25-mile front searching for men they believe have set new fires.

LABOR DEPOSES MACDONALD AS LEADER

British Premier Ousted by Former Followers; Big Loan for Britain Sure

BY OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, head of the only two Socialist governments in Britain's history and Premier of the present national coalition government, was formally deposed as leader of the British Labor party today and Arthur Henderson, his former foreign secretary, was elected in his stead.

J. R. Clynes, home secretary in the late Labourite cabinet, was installed as deputy leader. The party definitely went on record in opposition to the economy program of the coalition ministry.

LOAN EXPECTED

Meanwhile, with Britain expecting formal announcement shortly of a Franco-American credit of between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000, MacDonald's new cabinet went about its task of balancing the budget with virtually unanimous Liberal and Conservative support.

With only one dissenting vote, the Liberal party meeting in caucus passed a resolution supporting the national government while the Conservative party gave its unqualified indorsement to the participation of Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, in the cabinet.

As a result of Labor's opposition, it became a virtual certainty that neither Premier MacDonald nor Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden would again seek parliamentary election after the present emergency is over and the coalition industry dissolved.

SNOWDEN RUMOR

London was agitated for a while this afternoon by a rumor Chancellor Snowden had resigned from the national government, but this was soon denied. He formally notified the Labor party, however, that he would not run again for office.

Premier MacDonald went to his country home at Lossiemouth, Scotland, for a brief rest today. He said he had not decided definitely whether he would seek reelection, and it was understood his decision rested largely upon the reaction of his home constituency, Durham, to his action in heading the coalition government after downfall of the Labor ministry.

CANNON'S AIDE AGAIN DEFIES SENATE

Woman Secretary Refuses to Give Information About Anti-Smith Expenditures

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Miss Ada L. Burroughs, secretary to Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and his chief lieutenant in his 1928 campaign to win the Democratic South for Hoover, defied the Nye Campaign Fund Committee today for the second time. She refused to answer any questions concerning their joint political activities.

Miss Burroughs, a middle-aged woman, challenged the right of the committee to continue its inquiry into Cannon's banking accounts. She bases her defiance on the same reasons given last spring when she previously refused to answer any questions.

PREPARES STATEMENT

When summoned to the witness stand she asked permission to read a prepared statement and it was granted. The statement said:

"Referring to subpena for my appearance today to testify before this committee under the terms of Senate Resolution 103, I beg, with all due respect, to refer the committee to a protest heretofore filed by me with this committee on May 7, 1931; and I hereby adopt said protest for the purposes of this hearing. However, in further deference to the committee and its subpena, I beg to state that none of the books, accounts, checks, or other documents, called for by the committee's subpena are now in my possession.

"All the books, accounts, records, etc., which were in my possession as treasurer of the headquarters committee Anti-Smith Democrats, were retained in my possession for the statutory period of two years from the time of the receipt of all moneys by said committee, and were thereafter turned over and delivered to James Cannon, Jr., and I have no knowledge as to their present whereabouts.

REFUSES EVIDENCE

"For the further information of the committee, I beg to state that I never at any time had any connection with a committee designated in the committee's subpena as 'Committee on Temperance and Tolerance.'

"Believing, as stated in my protest of May 7, 1931, that this committee is without authority or jurisdiction to investigate or inquire into any of the matters relating to the private transactions of James Cannon, Jr., or my connections therewith, and being so legally advised, I again respectfully decline to give any testimony in this investigation."

WITNESS EXCUSED

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, sought repeatedly to get some information from Miss Burroughs about the anti-Smith Democrats but she refused to give any testimony. She was excused, whether the committee would take any action in her case was in doubt.

W. H. Wood, president of the American Trust Company, of Charlotte, N. C., and a member of the anti-Smith Democratic organization in that state, told of receiving $5,000 from Bishop Cannon's committee to fight Smith in North Carolina.

"Did you ever report that fund to the clerk of the House?"

"No—I never did."

The witness said he reported receipt of the money to Frank R. McNinch, then head of the North Carolina Anti-Smith Democrats. McNinch is now a member of the Federal Power Commission.

Wood surprised the committee by declaring McNinch had been a "life-long Democrat." At the time of his appointment to the power Commission McNinch was regarded as a Republican.

FIREMEN MARCH AT DRAVOSBURG

Forty-one volunteer fire companies of Western Pennsylvania took part last night in a parade sponsored by the Dravosburg Volunteer Fire Company, which is holding its second annual street fair. The parade was witnessed by more than 8,000 people. It included eight bands and 12 drum corps.

The following companies were awarded prizes: Baldwin Township for the most men in line of march; Leechburg for coming the furthest distance; Penn for the largest musical organization in line and Elizabeth for the best equipped apparatus. The parade was headed by Dravosburg borough officials. Fire Chief Michael Quinn, of McKeesport, was the grand marshal.

The fair, which started Monday, will end tomorrow with a water battle between the Dravosburg and Springdale fire companies.

United Artists, Fox Make Film Peace

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Lou Anger, representative of Joseph M. Schenck, president of the United Artists theater chain, said last night dissention between United Artists and the Fox Film Corporation had been settled.

The settlement means that Fox will show United Artist pictures in cities where there are no United Artists theaters, it was understood.

COAL CZAR PLAN DISCUSSED

to accomplish results, just as has been done in the oil situation in Oklahoma and Texas.

RELIEF HOPES HELD

It is held here if the governors of the states named meet, discuss conditions and get the inside picture of the coal industry's plight and do nothing, it would result in good. There is a strong feeling that something however can be done to temporarily relieve the situation with federal legislation probably to follow, favorable to both operators and miners.

In any event, coal men are anxious that the governors of the leading bituminous states shall find out what is wrong with the coal business.

Western Pennsylvania operators, as far as could be learned here, appear to fear West Virginia will kick over the traces in doing anything. Some have formed that opinion since word from Gov. Conley of that state is lacking. However, it is not doubted that the governor has been in consultation with operators of that state, because coal it is held, is the the state's chief industry.

J. F. Ebeling, Harry Jungling and other sponsors of the Wheeling plan, designed to form a new competitive bituminous coal field in the Panhandle district, were in Pittsburgh yesterday, planning a meeting of mayors of this district to discuss that project.

THREE JAILED IN SHOOTING

Oakland police today held three men while they investigated the shooting shortly after midnight of Earl Mackey, 21, of 3539 Beechwood boulevard, in the home of Samuel Lott, 42, of 3518 Frazier street. Besides Lott those under arrest were James Reed, 21, of R. D. 2, Grove City, and Samuel Cavins, 27, of 28 Nansen street. They are charged with being suspicious persons.

Police were told they said that during a quarrel over the payment of a liquor bill for $1.70 Lott fired a revolver, the bullet striking Mackey in the face. At Montefiore Hospital it was said the condition of the victim was serious.

Police who raided the Lott home a short time later said they confiscated a quantity of liquor.

LABOR INDORSES HEARST PLAN

SYRACUSE, Aug. 27.—(Universal)—Without a dissenting vote, and after several leaders had indorsed it as "offering the greatest promise of immediate relief of any remedy advanced for unemployment," the New York State Federation of Labor today adopted a resolution advocating the William Randolph Hearst proposal for a $5,000,000,000 federal "prosperity bond issue."

The resolution urged President Hoover to convene Congress immediately to float a prosperity loan for the financing of extension of public improvement throughout the nation, with the Federal Treasury loaning money to states and municipalities where needed. It fixes no amount for the loan which Mr. Hearst has declared should be "at least $5,000,000,000."

President John Sullivan said:

"I doubt if there is a man in the labor movement who can honestly object to the plan.

"To me it ranks with the five-day week and the repeal of prohibition in importance at this time.

"The government demonstrated in war time that it could use its credit to raise billions for the people of other nations. It is time now for it to show us that it can raise billions in the same way for us."

Boy's Death Caused By Overturned Auto

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—The Associated Press corrects an error in its dispatch of August 26 from this city, concerning the death of John C. Becker, 10, of Pittsburgh, in an automobile accident. It was erroneously stated that the car was operated by Henry Becker III of Pittsburgh, and that the boy's head had been pinned between the car and a bank.

The report of Deputy Coroner J. P. Holton, of Chester County, who investigated the accident, states that the boy "died of a fractured skull due to striking his head on the side of an automobile driven by his brother when he accidentally lost control and overturned the car on Chatham Pike in Londonderry Township near Chatham."

Henry Becker III was in Pittsburgh at the time of the accident.

6TH MAN DIES IN PRISON RIOT

MARQUETTE, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—A trusty who helped frustrate an attempt at escape by four long-term convicts in Michigan Branch Prison here yesterday became the sixth fatality of the break for liberty last night.

The trusty, Frank Olzschlager, serving a life term for killing a Detroit policeman, died of a gunshot wound.

Olzschlager was shot when he grappled with Andrew Germano after Germano, Leo Duver and Charles Rossbury had begun their break by killing Dr. W. A. Hornbogen, acting prison physician, while answering sick call.

The convicts fled across the prison yard and were cornered in a second floor dormitory. There the three used the guns with which they had intended shooting their way to liberty to kill themselves.

Locked in a distant cell, Frank Hohfer, a pal of Germano, fired futilely at a guard, then killed himself.

state will have to provide for the unemployed this winter.

Accompanying the governor's message were favorable bills to carry out his program.

Specific recommendations in Roosevelt's message are:

That personal income taxes be increased 50 per cent.

EMERGENCY GROUP

That a temporary emergency relief commission on three members appointed by the governor be created to administer the $20,000,000 which the governor estimated would come into the state's coffers as a result of the 50 per cent increase in income taxes.

That cities and counties be authorized for one year to issue three-year bonds to provide unemployment relief through enlargement of their public works program.

That the Legislature declare in favor of the principle of a five-day working week for state and municipal public work.

That out of the $20,000,000 an appropriation of $548,000 be made to provide bonuses for World War veterans who failed to apply for the original bonus a few years ago.

Gov. Roosevelt made it clear in his message to the lawmakers that he was not in sympathy with the dole system, but he declared that the state owed a duty to its citizens who are unable to obtain work to see to it that they do not starve or freeze during the coming winter.

Democratic leaders were firmly convinced that if Gov. Roosevelt's broad plan for unemployment relief is approved by the Legislature it will greatly enhance his chances for winning the Democratic presidential nomination a year hence.

Honolulu Vacation For Allan Hoover

HONOLULU, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Allan Hoover, son of President Hoover, arrived on the Malolo from San Pedro, Cal., yesterday for a vacation visit of several weeks. He will be a guest at a private home.

Bolt Fires Chapel, 175 Pray in Rain

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—When lightning struck the steeple of the chapel at the Presbyterial Theological Seminary, the Rev. John Timothy Stone, its head, marched 175 students into the rain where they knelt in prayer to save the chapel from destruction. Firemen put out the blaze after $2,000 damage was done.

Ginter's Successor Named by Pinchot

HARRISBURG, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Capt. Albert H. Stackpole, of Harrisburg, today was appointed by Gov. Pinchot as a member and vice-chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission. He succeeds Robert M. Ginter, of Pittsburgh, who resigned July 31. The position pays $7,500.

Bride of Year Sues Lott, Tennis Star, for Divorce

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Although married less than a year, Mrs. Abigail Bispleford Allen Lott, member of a socially prominent family, is seeking a divorce from George M. Lott, Davis Cup tennis star, it was revealed here today. The couple eloped to Elkton and were married last October 14.

The ceremony followed a whirlwind courtship that began when they were introduced at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fitz-Eugene Dixon at Elkins Park. Dixon was captain of the Davis Cup team at the time and Lott had accepted an invitation to dine at the Dixon home along with his fellow players. Lott was 23 at the time of the elopement, while his bride was 21.

The grounds for the divorce plea could not be learned. Mrs. Allen, the mother of Mrs. Lott, said she was unaware of the ground on which her daughter was seeking to break up the romance.

Lott himself now defending the national doubles tennis championship at Brookline, Mass., refused to discuss the suit, asserting that he didn't know anything about it. He is world-famous for his skill behind the net. On one occasion he defeated William T. Tilden at Ormond Beach and followed that by a victory over Rene Lacoste at Southampton, L. I.

Chicago Grand Jury Lauds Police, Flays Dry Law

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Chicago's police department is the foremost in America in respect to honesty, efficiency and freedom from graft, a special grand jury reported today.

Police Commissioner John H. Alcock's 14 months at the head of the department has produced a highly creditable record in combating crime, the report said. About 75 per cent of all murder and manslaughter cases in that time have been cleared through the arrest or death of the guilty.

Whatever minor graft or corruption exists is directly traceable to the prohibition law, the jurors discovered. One of the jury's chief duties was to run down reports of graft and collusion with crime on the part of police.

The reputation of Chicago as a crime center is due to the exaggerations of reformers, whose stories, unsupported by fact, have been broadcast through the country, according to the report. Not one of these reformers presented anything but hearsay, the jury claimed.

During the eight months' investigation the jurors questioned 1,000 witnesses, were responsible for raids in which 800 persons were arrested, and spent an appropriation of $30,000.

N. Y. BROKER FREED, GIRL BELIEVED DECOY FOR KIDNAPERS

Young Financier Tells of Being Kept Bound and Blindfolded for 2 Weeks

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Unkempt and unshaved, Charles Rosenthal, youthful broker and heir to a large estate, apepared at a police station in the Bronx today and said he was kidnaped, blindfolded and held prisoner in a New York apartment for more than two weeks.

He said he was released today by his captors, who tossed him out of an automobile in the Bronx, then sped away.

During his absence his friend and attorney, Edward Nathan, announced he had received letters demanding $100,000 ransom. Traps were set for the kidnappers, but they failed. Efforts by relatives to communicate with the missing 24-year-old broker's captors through the "agony" columns of newspapers also were without result.

Rosenthal, who lives in Lawrence, L. I., said that on August 11 he took a young woman to a midtown restaurant for dinner, then entered a taxicab with her, driving toward the Bronx. They were stopped by three men in another car, who overpowered the broker, blindfolded him and took him to a flat he believes is in Manhattan. He was not injured.

Later detectives, who continued to question Rosenthal, said his story indicated the young woman was used as a decoy.

During the entire period of his captivity, Rosenthal said, he was forced to wear glasses with pieces of paper pasted on the lenses, and was bound securely.

A sum of money was paid his kidnapers for his release, Rosenthal told police at Mineola, L. I., where he was taken after telling his story in New York. The authorities, however, refused to divulge how large the payment had been.

Before releasing him, he said, the kidnapers, who appeared to be foreigners, handed him a $10 bill. He hailed a cab, and drove to the police station.

The young man planned to hasten as soon as possible to see his mother, Mrs. Nellie Rosenthal, who was said to be suffering a nervous breakdown.

PLANE TO TRAIL PIGEON

Another race between a carrier pigeon and an airplane was planned today in an effort to locate blackmailers who may have kidnaped Edgar F. Hazelton, Jr., 16. The boy disappeared August 20.

A pigeon left for the elder Hazelton to use in sending $25,000 ransom to blackmailers will be followed by a plane in an effort to chase it to the home cote. In a first attempt a pigeon distanced the plane.

Hazelton insisted his son probably was lost and that the men who had demanded the ransom had not kidnaped him. One report said the boy was seen hitchhiking in New England.

GANGSTER CLUE IN KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—A gangster generally believed to have been slain 18 months ago was sought today as the leader of the gang which kept John J. Lynch, wealthy gambler, captive for a week. He was Leo Mongoven, who was seen near Kankakee shortly before Lynch was released there yesterday morning.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney, received this information last night after interviewing the Lynch family at Lake Geneva, Wis. Mongoven was believed to have carried away the ransom exacted for the turfman's release when he was chased by highway police.

Leonard Wood Rites Awaiting Brother

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Funeral services for Leonard Wood, Jr., son of the late major general, were to be announced today, following the arrival here of his brother, Brig. Gen. Osborne C. Wood. Gen. Wood, adjutant general of the New Mexico National Guard, is arriving by airplane from the West. Wood, who was 39, died here yesterday from pneumonia.

Cartoonist Feared Victim of Amnesia

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Peoria police asked Chicago officials to watch the homes of friends of John P. Evans, 21, missing cartoonist of the Peoria Star. Evans disappeared two weeks ago. Authorities suggested he might have fallen a victim to amnesia due to overwork.

WIDOW MYSTERY NET TIGHTENS

in the West Virginia hills, four Chicago detectives were en route to Clarksburg today to take part in the grilling and investigation of Powers. Two of the detectives immediately upon their arrival in Clarksburg will go to Fairmont to trace movements of the Eicher family from July 27, when they were last heard from.

Among the effects taken from the trunks were several pictures of the missing woman. Stored in another trunk were scores upon scores of letters written to Pierson by girls and women from all parts of the United States. All of the letters, police said, were written through a matrimonial agency.

The garage, a crude affair, was built over a heavy concrete foundation divided into four cell-like rooms. On the wooden floor of the garage were found the bloodstains before which Powers paled when he was lead there by detectives. Blood had trickled through the floor, spattering the walls of the concrete sub-basement.

WIFE QUESTIONED

Powers was grilled intermittently during the night by Chief Duckworth. To most of Duckworth's questions he gave conflicting answers. Duckworth is convinced, however, that he is hiding something.

During the day police questioned Powers' wife and Mrs. Luella Powers, his sister-in-law, partners in a grocery store here. Their straightforward story convinced authorities that the dual life of Powers was unknown to them. Mrs. Powers, the wife, is ill.

Powers told Chief Duckworth that he had met Mrs. Eicher in Fairmont, W. Va., with a man named Charles F. Rodgers, or Snyder, from Pittsburgh, and at that time he arranged with the widow to take a trip to Denver. Duckworth discounted that part of the story.

Efforts to locate Mrs. Eicher and her family in Denver today were futile, according to dispatches from that city.

Ex-Millionaire Arrested In Sale of Drink

HARRISBURG, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—J. K. White, once rated as a millionaire, today was under $1,500 bail charged with dispensing liquor from his room in a hotel.

A dry agent said he purchased a pint of whisky from White yesterday and the raid followed. The hotel management knew nothing of White's activities, the agents said.

While a salesman for the Harrisburg Pipe and Pipe Bending Company, White negotiated a contract with the Russian government before the war which netted him more than a million dollars. Since the war fortune has not smiled upon him. For a time he was a taxi starter at the hotel in which he was living when arrested.

MAN DROWNS, 12 RESCUED AS PLANE SINKS

Pilot and Radio Operator of Big Amphibian Credited With Hero Roles at Sea

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—A pilot's skill and a radio operator's daring were credited today with saving the lives of 12 persons as a Pan-American Airways amphibian plane plunged into the sea off Gloucester in a heavy fog.

Edward Banwell, of Auburn, Me., drowned unnoticed as the passengers were transferred from the plane to a rubber life raft.

The fishing schooner Nova Julia, entering the harbor, came upon the nine passengers and three members of the crew of the Halifax-Boston-bound plane. They had been clinging to the small rubber raft for more than an hour.

PASSENGER LOST

W. L. Elmore, of Miami, Fla., pilot, brought the plane down when fog set in. A wave struck one of the pontoons, crushing it, and within a few minutes the amphibian sank.

Elmore, cut on the jaw, aided the passengers to the wings of the plane and dived repeatedly into the water-filled cabin to get the rubber life raft. Alfred W. Eston, of North Abington, Mass., radio operator, took up the task of locating the raft as Elmore became exhausted.

Once launched, the passengers were led aboard the raft. During the transfer, Banwell was lost overboard.

RESCUED BY SHIP

With darkness approaching, the survivors were about to give up hope when the Nova Julia edged through the fog. Capt. Leo Savaloro hove alongside, launched a dory, and took passengers and crew to Gloucester. The nine passengers were suffering from minor injuries, shock and immersion.

Those rescued were: Mrs. Lois M. Draper, Waltham, Mass.; Mabel F. Ryan, Waltham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Fineson, New York; Irving Bloom, New York; Gilbert E. Hodge, Baltimore; H. Wade Randall, Newton, Mass.; Irving S. Dauphine, Gloucester, Mass.; William H. Noonan, Halifax, N. S.; W. E. Elmore, Miami, Fla., pilot; John Novarro, Boston, steward; Alfred W. Eston, North Abinton, Mass., radio operator.

Pittsburgh Woman, Ill, Slashes Wrists

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 28.—Despondent over ill health, Mrs. Lillian Martin, 50, of Pittsburgh, slashed her wrists with a pair of scissors at a lodging house on the Lincoln highway, near here, according to a report received by the Westmoreland Hospital where she was brought. Mrs. Martin was enroute to Pittsburgh.

FOUR ARRESTED IN POISON PLOT INVESTIGATION

Detroit Woman, Two Sons Held There, Roomer Jailed In West Virginia Town

DETROIT, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Four persons were in custody today as authorities sought to learn whether the deaths of 10 men over a period of eight years in Mrs. Rose Veras' rooming house were from natural causes or by violence.

Mrs. Veras, 48-year-old Hungarian immigrant, who held insurance policies on the 10 who died, has been in custody since Tuesday on a technical charge of murder. Other policies, 75 in all, were found by officers in her home, and investigators were attempting to learn the fate of the insured.

The list of deaths under investigation had reached 11 today, with discovery that Valet Peterman, 68, a boarder in the Veras home, died shortly after moving to another house.

Sam Denyen who, police said, lived in the Veras home until two weeks ago, was arrested in Logan, W. Va., late yesterday, and a detective left last night to question him. Mrs. Veras' 15-year-old son, Gaber, was detained for questioning yesterday. Another son, William, 18, has been held for several days.

N. Y. WELCOMES DO-X CREW

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—As the German flying boat DO-X swung at anchor in the quiet waters of Bowery Bay today after its long adventurous voyage, its officers and men were formally welcomed at City Hall.

When the giant plane arrived at the Battery yesterday with 72 persons aboard there was a hasty welcoming ceremony at the pier but the formal greeting was postponed until today.

Acting Mayor Joseph McKee praised the sky sailors for their feat.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Flying straight as a crow on a theoretical air line 11,000 feet in the air between Friedrichshafen and Spezia, Italy—an altitude unprecedented for a long flight—the DO-X II, sister ship of the flying boat just arrived in New York, crossed the Alps near the St. Gothard Pass shortly after noon today, according to a radio message picked up in Berlin. Later advices said a safe landing had been made at Spezia.

MRS. THADEN'S DERBY RATING ADVANCED

Women Still in Lead as Planes Are Groomed for Dash to East St. Louis

By LOUISE THADEN

Winner of the 1929 National Air Derby for Women, and Pittsburgh's Representative in the 1931 Cross-Country Derby

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 28.—Fifty planes in the Santa Monica to Cleveland Derby were ready to jump off from here this morning for East St. Louis, our stop tonight. We shall be in Jefferson City at noon.

Gladys O'Donnell, who led the race from Amarillo into Bartlesville, is of the opinion that the reason women are making better showings in the derby than men is because they make wrong calculations, holding that the handicaps for some of the ships have not been computed correctly. In this she differs from derby officials, who take the stand that the women are doing better flying. Phoebe Omlie, who lead out of Armarillo and made Bartlesville second, declares she believes poor navigation responsible for lagging of men fliers.

ADVANCES IN STANDING

Although I arrived at Amarillo fifth Wednesday night, I made Bartlesville third, which is very encouraging.

There was fairly strong wind at Amarillo when we got in Wednesday night, which freshened so considerably that half the pilots were calling English Field every hour to see if their airplanes had blown away.

How we love the winds of Texas and Oklahoma! The women think they might have shut them off today. We picked up a terrific tail wind between Amarillo and Enid yesterday and averaged only 180 miles an hour. O'Donnell had the fastest average of 210. When we came down close to the ground we found we had a stiff cross wind, so strong that I had to point my ship almost due south in order to go east. It was very bumpy.

(Mrs. Thaden is writing exclusively for the Sun-Telegraph of her air experiences in this year's races.)

MRS. O'DONNELL LEADS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 28.—Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Cal., led the Santa Monica-Cleveland air derby fliers into the Jefferson City airport today.

W. F. Musgrave, Jr., of San Francisco, piloting a Cessna, led the men's division at the noon control point, landing 25 minutes behind Mrs. O'Donnell. In quick order came Phoebe Omlie, of Memphis, Tenn., and Jean La Rene, of Dallas, Tex.

JAMES J. KIRBY DIES IN HOME

James J. Kirby, 65, former police magistrate and alderman, died this morning of bronchial pneumonia at his home, 321 South Evaline street. Mr. Kirby had been suffering from heart trouble.

He served for 14 years as police magistrate during the terms of Mayor W. B. Hays, George W. Guthrie and William A. Magee. He also served for 22 years as alderman of the old Ninth Ward of Pittsburgh and later the new Second Ward.

Kirby had earned his living since he was 9 years old. He was an iron worker in the old Zug mill and became a puddler.

His widow, Mrs. Helen Kirby, and one daughter, Mrs. Frank M. Crowley, of Thirty-eighth street, and one son, Edward J. Kirby, police lieutenant, at home, survive. He was a member of the St. Lawrence Catholic Church.

Douds, Ex-W.-J. Grid Star To Wed West Park Girl

A gridiron romance of two years' duration will culminate tomorrow morning in the marriage of Forest M. (Jap) Douds, former Washington and Jefferson tackle and Miss Mary Catherine McLaughlin, of West Park. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Philip Savage, of St. Francis de Sales Church, McKees Rocks, at 10 a. m.

The couple met two years ago at a college social function in Washington and their romance continued after Douds graduated.

Douds' home is in Carnegie. Miss McLaughlin is 24, and resides at 649 Broadway, West Park. She is a daughter of J. W. McLaughlin, Stowe Township clerk, and has been a teacher in the township schools for three years following her graduation from the Slippery Rock Teachers' Training College. After a short Western honeymoon the couple will go to Portsmouth, O., where Douds is to begin training for a professional football engagement.

PARTY BREACH UNHEALED

while actively interested in the fortunes of the Senator is giving much thought to the City Council race. It was on orders of the Mayor that E. D. Freiberthauser, Coyne entry withdrew as a candidate for Register of Wills practically assuring the re-election of Joseph N. Mackrell, between Coyne and whom there is no friendship.

Kline's indorsement of Mackrell was said by the latter to be unconditional discrediting a story originating in Coyne circles that the Register of Wills had agreed to give assistance to some of the Kline-Coyne slate consisting of Councilmen Robert J. Alderdice and John M. Phillips, Traffic Magistrate W. J. Soosé and Representative James P. Rooney.

Mackrell already slated by the Independents led by County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern has made speeches at Independent headquarters but has spoken for the candidacy of none but himself. The Independent councilmanic slate consists of Councilmen Robert Garland and Charley Anderson, former Councilman P. J. McArdle and John D. Houston. Mackrell was long associated with Garland and Anderson in the faction of former Senator M. G. Leslie.

Mackrell has kept clear of the commissioner fight but Leslieites generally have been hurling toward Senator William D. Mansfield, who is maintaining separate headquarters but who is being linked as a candidate with Armstrong in many sections of the county. Armstrong and Mansfield have appeared together at meetings in a friendly spirit recently, the only commissioner candidate singled out for attack by Armstrong being McGovern.

Representative James H. McClure, of Glassport, today took charge of Mansfield's headquarters as the Senator's campaign manager. If there is not almost immediately activity in the headquarters toward the formation of a complete county organization, [illegible] behalf of Mansfield credence will be given the persistent report that the Senator and Armstrong eventually will get together.

There is little doubt that Mansfield will be backed in his desire to be the second man on the ticket of each of the other three candidates. McGovern particularly will agree to no such arrangement and it is predicted he will open fire on the McKeesporter unless he comes openly into alliance with McGovern, an outcome which is unlikely.

FATHER CAUSES SONS' ARREST

A father appeared in Morals Court today against his two sons and their cousin, arrested last night at his request after a tour of Pennsylvania and Ohio in the man's automobile.

Marionia Tarmina, 42, of 2215 Penn avenue, testified his sons, Mike, 18, and Dominic, 17, and their cousin, Paul Tarmina, 19, of 118 Twenty-fourth street, went riding Sunday and failed to return until last night.

Police said the car driven by the youths answered the description of one used by two young men in an attempted holdup of Robert McMullen, of 7201 Travelia boulevard, in Highland Park, Wednesday night. Mike Tarmina admitted he and his brother had asked a man in the park for $1 to buy gasoline and had been refused. The youths were held over by Magistrate T. D. Jones until East End police investigate.

Walsh's Political Ban Broken by Son

Despite the edict of Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh banning political rallies in city-owned property, one was held last night in the traffic division offices of the City-County Building at which the candidacy of Paul J. Walsh, son of the police superintendent, for constable of the First Ward was indorsed. The meeting was attended by constables and residents.

ARMSTRONG'S FOLLOWERS ASSESSED

SCHAD AIDE IN CHARGE

Herbert Cook, a subordinate assessor from Schad's office, was in charge.

He said the listings were legal and that he was inserting all information from each person put on the books setting forth that he or she was a bona fide resident of the Seventeenth Ward.

Commissioner Armstrong is backing Alderman Kaercher for re-election against F. F. Riley, who, with the support of State Senator James J. Coyne is waging a strong battle.

The Seventeenth Ward assessments and the appointment of subordinate assessors in other districts were taken by politicians to indicate that the Republican Organization is utilizing provisions of the recently passed 50-cent poll tax legislation to strengthen its assessments and, of course, its vote potentiality in contested districts.

RECENT RULING

Under a ruling of Judge James H. Gray several weeks ago subordinate assessors were assigned to McKeesport to work in conjunction with the branch office of the Treasurer established there for tax collection. McKeesport officials took the Board for the Assessment of Taxes into court in a friendly action because heretofore it had not been considered legal for subordinate assessors to be assigned outside of the office of the board.

Judge Gray's ruling was that wherever there was a demand for assessors that the board should provide them for the convenience of residents of the district.

ORGANIZATION MOVE

It developed yesterday that there has been need for assessors particularly in city wards where the organization wanted to swell the vote and in a couple of semi-independent wards where the increased assessment would probably vote organization and offset the independent vote. At least this was the conclusion drawn by political observers.

Assessors were assigned to the following wards:

Third Ward, known as John J. Verona's ward and which will turn in for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and State Senator James J. Coyne.

Ninth Ward, L. J. Conley, chairman, a Coyne-Armstrong ward.

TWELFTH WARD BATTLE

Twelfth Ward, Michael De Rosa, chairman credited to Coyne and Armstrong and where a hot battle is being waged by De Rosa's son, Michael, Jr., against Alderman William A. Means.

Twenty-fifth Ward — Another Coyne-Armstrong ward of which County Superintendent of Property Justus Shroedel is chairman.

Field assessors were also placed in McKees Rocks, Wilmerding, East Pittsburgh, and the townships of Snowden, Findley, Elizabeth and Robinson, where Armstrong has the edge on any other candidate.

On the face of it the placing of assessors in these districts has increased the enrollment to such an extent that it will have an extremely favorable reaction to Commissioner Armstrong and Senator Coyne.

Russians Shown Pictures of N. Y. Workers Shot

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(INS)—Pictures showing workers being shot down in New York are being circulated in Russia, Percival Chubb, Yale student, said today. Chubb, who returned last night from a visit in Moscow, said he saw one such picture in a museum. It was labeled "Typical scene in New York City, where workers are shot down every two or three weeks."

Deaf Man Killed On Railroad Tracks

STONEBORO, Pa., Aug. 28.—(AP)—John Parker, 78, was killed yesterday by a switching engine on tracks of the New York Central Railroad. The man, who was deaf, was walking on the tracks. Efforts to warn him of the approaching train were unavailing.

YOUNG JUDGES ADVOCATED

Attorney James Philip O'Connor, Republican candidate for Judge of County Court, discussed the need of youth on the bench in two speeches last night. His name is first on the primary ballot.

O'Connor's first speech was delivered before an audience attending the American Legion Bugle and Drum Corps competition at McKeesport.

Mr. O'Connor

The second was made at the community celebration under auspices of the Dravosburg Volunteer Firemen. He will broadcast at 5:30 tonight over WWSW.

Judge Gets Plenty Of Peaches For Marrying Pair

HENDERSON, Ky., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Two bushels of peaches were Magistrate Louis Kleidet's fee for marrying Miss Mary Louise Ferver, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and George Lee Bugg, of Evansville, Ind.

The fruit was turned over to the Welfare Association for distribution to the poor.

The couple was the first to take advantage of the Magistrate's recent offer to perform marriage ceremonies for two bushels of grain or fruit during the depression. Peaches retail here at 25 cents a bushel and may be picked in orchards for 10 cents a bushel.

PHILLIPS TALKS IN OVERBROOK

Councilman John M. Phillips, candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself, will carry his campaign tonight to his home neighborhood at a meeting in the Overbrook municipal building, Thirty-second Ward. He also will speak tonight at a meeting of the Eighteenth Ward Colored Civic Republican Club in McKinley Park.

Negroes representing seven wards have formed a committee to promote Phillips' candidacy. Members include Robert L. Vann, Wilbur C. Douglass, Charles N. Rickmond, Donald C. Jefferson, Henry C. Kennedy, William G. Greenlee, Mrs. Daisy Lamkins, Mrs. Ada G. Cutts, Mrs. H. K. Craft, Mrs. Evelyn Payne, Mrs. Ruby Thompson and Mrs. Mary Trueman Terry.

INDEPENDENTS MEET MONDAY

The Braddock offensive for the election of the full "independent" Republican ticket will begin with a mass meeting at 7 p. m. Monday at 715 Braddock avenue, Charles T. Beebe, chairman of the Braddock Independent Republican Committee, will preside.

Candidate-speakers include County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, Ralph H. Smith, for district attorney; Henry Trainer, for county treasurer; Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, Prothonotary John Vogt, Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, James O. Corbett, for recorder of deeds; Mat William T. Rees, for county controller.

U. S. Official Urges Flying Dry Patrol

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—AP—Curtis M. [illegible], supervising [illegible] customs at Detroit, [illegible] Washington [illegible] the creation of a dry patrol along the Canadian border from Pigeon River, Minn., to North Dakota, to combat smuggling and narcotic smuggling.

Johnson said he had conferred with customs officials and planned to see President Hoover later. Customs officials declined to comment.

Candidate Pledges Air Industry Boost

Promising [illegible] if he became [illegible] Mayor Bess [illegible] for City Council in a statement issued today from his William Penn Hotel headquarters. He declared:

"Because of its strategic position with relation to the steel machinery and [illegible] industries Pittsburgh is the logical center for airplane manufacturing in America."

Back Slate, Walsh Urges Detectives

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh addressed [illegible] detectives and members of motorcycle [illegible] squad today in Central Police Station in behalf of the Kline primary ticket, Walsh said:

"You men are all employed by the city, and the Mayor, as well as myself, would appreciate [illegible] would vote for the entire administration ticket."

JUDGES' CLAIMS CHALLENGED BY COLEMAN

Appointed Jurists Should Have No Advantage Over Rival Candidates, He Says

The battle of the seven Common Pleas judges—six of them sitting through appointments—seeking return to the bench, and their 17 rivals for the Republican nominations, went on merrily today, with spokesmen hurling claim and counter-claim.

Attorney William Coleman, an Independent candidate took exception to the plea of the seven sitting judges that they be returned to office because of their incumbency when he addressed today's noon meeting in the Independent Republican headquarters, Fourth avenue.

POLITICS DENIED

Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, one of the appointees, issued a statement scoffing at charges that politics played the predominant part in elevation of the six to the bench. Coleman said:

"Judges of our courts are to be elected by the people, just as other elective officials are chosen. Vacancies occuring between elections are filled by appointments by the Governor, but such appointments are good only until the next election, when the people, by ballot, are to choose the successors.

"The appointed Judges should hold no advantage over their 18 opponents and should be judged by the voter in comparison with their opponents."

Stadtfeld's running mates are Judges Ambrose B. Reid, Samuel H. Gardner, Sylvester J. Sneed, W. Heber Dithrich, William H. McNaugher and John P. Egan.

Judge Stadtfeld headed the lawyers' referendum on the most fitting candidates for Judges with 1,126 votes out of a maximum of 1,356, the largest vote ever given an Allegheny County lawyer.

LAUDS JURY SYSTEM

Candidate Thomas M. Marshall spoke last night to an audience in Central High School, Overbrook, expressing his admiration for the jury system as a safer tribunal for determining facts than the decisions of those judges who are appointed under the present system with its political background.

Citizens were urged, in a statement by Charles A. Waldschmidt to give importance to the selection of judges as they might be the arbiters of their lives, liberty and property.

Candidate J. Boyd Duff has replied to Attorney Frank C. McGirr, who spoke in favor of the seven present judges and urged their re-election. Duff stated:

"Again, let me point out that in dismissing as 'rot' methods proposed for modernizing the procedure of the courts and ending delay, you fall into errors."

APPOINTED JUDGES

An appointed Judge should be given no greater standing before the people than one who has never applied for appointment, according to Candidate Alexander P. Lindsay, in a speech last night in Overbrook High School.

All murder, racket, election fraud and labor injunction cases should be heard by local Judges and not turned over to visiting jurists because of political repercussions that might be feared, was the opinion expressed in a statement yesterday by Candidate Raymond D. Evans.

Mrs. Anna Winner, only woman candidate for City Council, will broadcast over WWSW at 9 p. m. today in behalf of Candidate Frank Canuti.

In a speech last night in Central Junior High School, Candidate Frank A. Piekarski attacked the seven present judges.

Attacking the slogan of the seven sitting Judges "we have proven our worth" and questioning their plea for election on the grounds of incumbency, William M. Ewing asked voters of West Homestead to support his candidacy.

County Court Candidates Indorsed By Taxpayers

Judge D. Paulson Foster, candidate for another term on the County Court bench, spoke last night to the American Legion Post of McKeesport, and to the Mercator Club at noon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. In the latter address, he said that 30.8 per cent of delinquency in Allegheny County is committed by children under 15.

The Taxpayers League of Allegheny County, with a membership of more than 45,000, has indorsed three candidates for Judge of County Court. Judges Foster, Sara M. Soffel and Richard A. Kennedy.

The Lawyers' Committee furthering the candidacy of Attorney N. L. Wymard today issued a statement approving Wymard using his nickname of "Skip" in his campaign publicity.

Glenshaw Branch, No. 76, of the Glass Blowers Association of the United States, has announced the indorsement of M. A. Musmanno.

'Doc' Suttner Denies Quitting Squire Race

Simon (Doc) Suttner, of Sceneridge avenue, Brentwood Borough, today denied a report that he had withdrawn from the race for Justice of the Peace and emphatically declared that he is not aligned with any faction or group.

He has been a resident of the borough for 18 years, is Borough Auditor, an officer of the Volunteer Fire and the Community Association.

PARK AND SMITH IN CLASH AT TARENTUM

Truce on 'Personalities' Ends; District Attorney Assailed on Racketeers

The campaigns of District Attorney Andrew T. Park and State Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith, his rival on the "Independent" ticket, crossed trails last night when both addressed a political rally in Riverview Park, Tarentum.

Each has announced that his campaign would be conducted without dealing in personalities. But

More than 1,000 residents of Allegheny Valley communities heard:

Smith charge that Park is aligned with racketeers.

Park declare that Smith is unfitted for the office because its responsibilities warrant it's being given to a man and not to a boy.

CITES VOLPE MEETING

Smith's speech dealt largely with a recent political meeting at which Park, as well as several judicial candidates, spoke at a meeting held under the direction of John and James Volpe, Republican leaders there. He said:

"My opponent, whose task it is to safeguard the public from money-making schemes of racketeers, sat the other night on a platform in Wilmerding with two men who are known as two of the county's biggest racket men—the Volpe brothers.

"That he has cast his lot with these men is evident by the fact that the independent citizens had to shame him into some sort of action by threatening to call in state police to solve a recent bombing in a community lorded over by one of his backers—Miles Bryan, of McKees Rocks."

UNTRAMMELED—PARK

Park said he was untrammeled in the conduct of his office and sought the votes of citizens who were interested in "a clean efficient administration."

He dismissed Smith's reference to the Volpe meeting with the remark that he did not intend to deal in personalities. Then, continuing, he called his hearers' attention to his youthful opponent with the remark that the office was not one to be given to a boy. Here Smith interrupted Park to say:

"You've been in office long enough to know how to conduct it better than you are."

Others who spoke during the meeting were County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Controller Robert G. Woodside, Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster and James O. Corbett, another recorder candidate.

Kline Ticket Speaks In East Liberty

State Senator James J. Coyne, candidate for County Commissioner, and others on the slate supported by Mayor Charles H. Kline, spoke last night at a meeting under auspices of the East End Boosters' Organization in Carnegie Library, Station street and Larimer avenue. Mrs. Evelyn R. Payne presided.

The speakers included William J. Soost, John M. Phillips, R. J. Alderdice and James P. Rooney, councilmanic candidates; B. Meredith Reid, Attorney W. L. Jacobs, J. J. McGrath, candidate for Judge of County Court; Michael De Rosa, Jr., a candidate for Alderman of the Twelfth Ward, and Councilmen M. J. Muldowney and C. B. Connelley.

Leaving the East End, Coyne and his party attended Old Home Week at Holy Cross Church, Thirty-first and Carson streets.

BOARD TO OUST REGISTRARS

Investigators for the Board of Registration Commissioners are busy "lifting" the notifications of appointment of registrars appointed last week. The registration books of the first six wards are being withheld until completion of investigation of complaints.

With the first registration day less than two weeks away, the Registration Commissioners are faced with the task of reappointing a huge number of their recent appointees.

Chairman John K. Morrow made no comment on the matter yesterday. E. Lowry Humes, designated official spokesman several weeks ago, left Wednesday for his Conneaut Lake summer home.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern announced, after disclosure in the Sun-Telegraph that all was not well in so far as the appointments of the Registration Board were concerned, that he had no complaint to make. It was revealed that a city-wide investigation was being conducted and that many appointees favorable to County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Former State Secretary of Supplies James F. Malone would be replaced.

Tell a Glad, New Story for Fall

See this group tomorrow, and discover what is new in dresses for early fall street wear and for afternoon . . . Models with lines suggesting fashions of the Second Empire, models with white or light contrasting color inset at the top, models with the wide-shoulder effect, models with the molded hipline and fullness placed gracefully low.

Take your choice of rich, dark browns, rust tones, dark greens, black; and these colors combined with white or contrasting shades.

Have You Seen the New Suits?

You'll like these youthful, two-piece, short-jacket suits with fur collars—of the new spongy and uneven-surfaced woolens in deep autumn browns, dark green, warm wine shades and black.

...With square or round cornered jackets, having various shaped collars or scarfs of fur. Those at $25 trimmed with lapin, and the others with baronduki, skunk, lapin, or raccoon . . . Women's and misses' sizes.

...Horne's, Suit Section, Second Floor...

Regularly $2.95 Silk-and-Rayon

All-in-One Undies
$1.75

A surprisingly low price for these nationally popular undergarments with the bandeau tops, snug waistlines that fit almost like girdles, and French panties legs. Choose a supply at this price to take back to school . . . they're so easy to launder, and don't have to be ironed.

Of striped glove silk-and-rayon, in ivory, flesh, and nile. Sizes 32 to 38.

A Special for Scholastics, Prepsters and College Under-Classmen —

Varsity Shop

A demonstration of Horne value-giving—new two-trouser suits, university-styled, Horne-tailored—with the youthful flair that nominates the wearer as a candidate for the "best-dressed" title the minute he crashes the campus.

Made by a large house specializing exclusively in student clothes—offered in The Varsity Shop, a secluded section for youngfellows—at a price most interesting to dad, who writes the checks! Sizes 31 to 40.

Super-Six Shoes

Either foot is his best foot to put forward when the young man steps out to the first class of the year in a pair of Super-Sixes. A number of styles here that youngfellows like—as well as conservative lasts.

AUGUST SALES

FURNITURE

One thing that every prospective furniture buyer should do is to pay a visit to the Horne Furniture Floor before the August Sale ends. It is an exhibition of modern quality furniture that is not surpassed on a single floor anywhere in the United States, and every piece of it is specially priced below prevailing furniture price levels—the lowest since before the war.

This beautiful furniture and the extraordinarily low August prices are an argument for home improvements that have influenced thousands of people to make furniture purchases this month, and which may still influence you, if you look into the facts. See the Inspirational Rooms with their entirely new treatments and decorative suggestions; see the Stylthrift Section with its complete stocks of tasteful furniture at extremely moderate prices; see the Early American Wing, the largest showing of authentic Early American furniture in Pittsburgh; see the Interior Decorating Studios with their displays of beautiful decorative furniture; but most important of all, see the August Sale prices affecting every piece of furniture here for just two days more!

Deferred payments may be readily arranged. A reasonable first payment is all that is required for delivery; the balance may be paid in convenient monthly sums.

...Horne's, Sixth Floor...

Occasional Chair, $29.50

Chinese Chippendale Occasional Chair, mahogany frame and choice of fifteen coverings. An example of the lovely furniture available at August prices.

BEDDING

This August has brought the prices of bedding down to prices that the oldest housekeepers have to admit are amazing. This is the time to supply winter bedding needs at real savings!

All-Wool Blankets

70x80 Inches $6.95 Pair

Large size, heavy, warm, pure wool blankets with four-inch sateen bindings. In block plaids or plain colors, cut and bound separately. Last year these blankets were several dollars more.

...Horne's, Fourth Floor...

FURS

All the popular furs included in the August Sale—at prices the lowest in 17 years—are still available on this next-to-the-last day. Among the outstanding favorites of the young crowd, are:

Silver Muskrat Coats

Their fresh, NEW skins are arranged to give unusually attractive effects; they are designed on slightly fitted, flared lines, and they offer choice of sports or large, crush collars.

A deposit of 25% will hold coats for later delivery

...Horne's, Fur Salon, Second Floor...

And Fur-Trimmed COATS
$55 $75

Choose your fall and winter coat in the August Sale tomorrow, make the initial payment, ($10 on a $55 coat and $15 on a $75 one), then arrange to pay the rest by October 1st—making a grand saving in price by thus buying out of season!

Wonderful choice of new models, fabrics, colors and furs, in coats for Women, Short Women, Misses and Junior-Misses. See them tomorrow!

Hoover Dam Strike Laid to Heat by Federal Aide

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 (AP)—A report which labeled contractors at Hoover Dam made to the Bureau of Reclamation by federal conciliation engineer John C. Page placed principal responsibility for the strike of August 7 on the heat. Page reported:

"The men were in such a frame of mind that they did not care whether they worked or not."

The heat was such he added that "it is a general belief current on the job" that the contractors "encouraged that most employes were able to perform only approximately one-third of a normal day's work." The average temperature had been 107.4 degrees, with the mean daily maximum at 119.8.

PAPAL BLESSING TO END NOVENA

The dispensing of the blessing of Pope Pius XI will close the novena in honor of St. Theresa of Lisieux, the "Little Flower of Jesus," on Monday afternoon. The novena, which opened at the Carmelite Monastery, Loretto, Pa., last Saturday, is to be presided over by the Very Rev. Alfred I. M. Dove, Ph. D., T. O. R., dean of St. Francis College and Seminary, who will also deliver a sermon.

Persons desiring to share in the prayers of the community during the novena in preparation for the feast of the nativity of the Blessed Virgin, to be offered by the Carmelite nuns beginning Monday, August 31, are sending their petitions to the Rev. Mother Prioress at the monastery.

Turkish Pretender Held U. S. Citizen

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(AP)—Emir Mohammed Al Raschid—claimant to the throne of the Ottoman Empire and lineal descendant of the renowned Haroun Al Raschid—was adjudged a native-born American in an order signed by United States Circuit Judge Julian W. Mack.

For many years Al Raschid's citizenship has been disputed. He was deported from the United States both in 1925 and 1930, although he maintained he was born in Detroit February 22, 1895, while his parents were on their honeymoon during his father's exile from Turkey.

BEAVER FALLS PROBES BLAST

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 28—Bombers are sought by police for the explosion early yesterday morning which wrecked the home of Joseph Mammone and damaged four other buildings.

Fire Chief Richard Timmins and Chief of Police William Davidson declared the bomb, a new inflammable type, had been placed in the basement of the Mammone two-story frame home. Mammone, his wife and two children and a roomer were absent at the time. It was learned Mammone, who is employed at Homestead, told police he knew of no reason for the bombing.

Parents of 7 Held For Counterfeiting

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 28—(AP)—A man and woman, the parents of seven small children, were held under bond today for the federal grand jury on charges of passing raised government currency.

Bond for the father, John Pompili, 32, was set at $5,000, and that for Mrs. Pompili at $2,000.

Two Sick Children Reported Improved

The condition of Anna May Stackin, 5, and her sister, Alice, 18 months, was reported as fair today to attaches of St. John's Hospital. The sisters are victims of a mysterious disease that has already taken the lives of their brother, Leo, Jr., 3, and another sister, Leona, 7. Tests are still being made to determine the nature of their illness.

Patricia Pitt

These late August days are crammed with entertainments for brides to be, whether their weddings will be this fall, this winter, or not until spring.

Mrs. George A. Seavey, of Kittanning road, Fox Chapel, is entertaining this afternoon with a bridge luncheon at her home in honor of Mary Myers, daughter of the S. Dell Myerses, of Sharpsburg and Fox Chapel, whose engagement to Elliott B. Schuetz, son of the Elliott A. Schuetzes, of Hotel Terrace, Sharpsburg, has been announced.

There will be five tables of bridge at the luncheon. No date has been chosen for the wedding.

The bride-elect, Date Not Set, is a graduate of the Winchester School, Conn., and of Bucknell College, Lewisburg, Pa. Her fiance is a graduate of Penn State.

Gladys Mase Is Bride of H. E. Sears

At 5:30 o'clock last evening the Rev. Silas D. Mase, of Long Beach, Cal., officiated at the marriage of his granddaughter, Miss Gladys J. Mase, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Z. Mase, of Forbes street, to Harry E. Sears, Jr., son of Harry E. Sears, of Beverly, Mass. The ceremony took place in the Mase home.

The bride wore a princess gown of old ivory bridal satin, fashioned with a peacock train. Her veil of old ivory tulle cascaded from a cluster of baby gardenias and extended the length of the train. She carried white orchids, roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Gwendolin Niemann, who wore a gown of peach satin with touches of Madonna blue, and carried a Dresden bouquet. The bride's mother wore a gown of black satin having a salmon satin yoke, and the bridegroom's mother chose aquamarine blue lace. John Lemon, of Pittsburgh, served as best man.

After the ceremony there was a reception and wedding dinner for 26 guests, with covers laid for 10 at the bridal table, which was decorated with summer flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sears, Jr., will make their home in North Shore drive, Norfolk, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Mase, of Fairmont, W. Va., and Miss Betty Mortar, of Greensburg, were among the wedding guests.

Lucy E. Hendler Weds Edinboro Man

The marriage of Miss Lucy Eleanor Hendler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Hendler, of Oakwood avenue, West View, to Maxwell Henry Fellowes, of Edinboro, Pa., was solemnized Monday morning, August 17, at 10:30 o'clock in St. Luke's Evangelical Church, West View, with the Rev. Luther P. Spoehr officiating.

The bride wore a gown of brown and white crepe, with matching hat, and a shoulder corsage of white roses and lilies of the valley.

After the wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Fellowes left for a motor trip to the Great Lakes. They will be at home in Albany, N. Y., where the bridegroom is assistant art director to the city.

CLUB BOOK MAPS BUSY YEAR

Sheraden Women Schedule Interesting Program, Beginning October 2

From the time it opens on October 2 to its close on May 27, the Sheraden Woman's Club is to have a full and interesting year if the program committee's plans are carried out. The new year book, which has just made its appearance, will be outlined at the initial meeting, but, contrary to the custom of the majority of clubs, the first meeting will not be president's day. Indeed the president's reception will not be held until November 13, and on that occasion the string ensemble of the Crafton Club will furnish the music and Mrs. Frank T. Corby, of the Evanston Woman's Club, will give dramatic interpretations.

The Very Rev. Nathaniel Rue, High Moor, dean of Trinity Cathedral, is to address the club on October 16, speaking on "Fellowship and the Art of Living," a meeting to which guests will be invited. A third October gathering will find the members making an excursion to the Clifford B. Connelly Trade School. In addition to president's day, November's calendar includes a program on "The Effect of Standardization on American Life," by the members themselves.

Judge Elder Marshall is announced as speaker for December, and play, book and current event reviews, together with the usual "husbands' evening," will be January's two events. An all-day sewing, a George Washington pageant, 10-minute papers on "The Modern Woman—a Pioneer," a party for the juniors, an address by Dr. Samuel H. Williams, of Pitt, a garden talk by Mrs. Elizabeth Jordan, a musical, an address by Miss Tirza Marshall, advisor to girls at Langley High, and "achievement day" are other features which will go into the making of the busy year.

Mrs. C. M. Speed is president.

Date Not Set

Judge To Speak

At the garden party and tea to be given Saturday, September 12, by the Wilson College Club honors will be shared by Miss Elizabeth Riddle, assistant dean; Miss Margaret Didert, registrar, and the 31 Pittsburgh girls who will enter Wilson this fall. Members of the undergraduate classes as well as alumnae will be in attendance. The affair is to be held at Miss Kathleen Alter's home in South Dallas avenue.

To begin the club year, the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Woman's Club will hold a corn roast at Riverview Park next Thursday night. In charge of arrangements are Mrs. Caroline Fries Textor, Mrs. Mary Clark Myers and Miss Jane Park.

Opens Season

On Sunday a number of the local members will attend a mountain breakfast to be given at the Summit House by the Uniontown Club as a feature of the southwestern district meeting honoring Miss Helen Blair, state president.

The Margaret Morrison Alumnae Association, which has been raising an emergency alumnae scholarship fund during the summer, will have its first executive board meeting of the fall on Monday evening in the gymnasium building. The welcome dance is set for October 9 under the chairmanship of Miss Virginia Page.

The year book committee of the Bryn Mawr Farms Woman's Club has thoughtfully included in its new booklet a page devoted to municipal information and there one may find at a glance who is who in the borough's municipal, school and club life. The club will have an early opening—September 9, marked by a flower show for which Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay, president of the Rockledge Garden Club, will serve as judge, and Mrs. C. C. Taylor, State Federation chairman of work for the blind, will speak. Then in the evening a community mass meeting will be held and will be addressed by Mr. Lindsay and Judge Sara Soffel, both candidates in the coming primaries.

New Interests

Several new committees indicate new trends of activity for this little neighborhood organization. The press committee, for instance, is also to be responsible for the publication of "Bryn Mawr Brevities," a monthly bulletin which will call attention to community happenings. Then, too, there is a new drama, art and literature committee, a house and gardens committee, one on child health and education and a Girl Scout division. The membership committee name has been changed to "membership and transportation," the hospitality committee has been combined with flower committee and the program committee's title enlarged to "program and music," all of which suggests greater efficiency and a broadening horizon.

Among the speakers listed in the year book are Mrs. Roswell Johnson, who will talk on "Early American Weaving Crafts," Mrs. A. D. Kirk, whose subject is "The First Christmas Tree," Mrs. James Toddie, who will discuss "Soldier of Fortune," Miss Mary Louise Succop, Mrs. Graham Netting and Miss Dorothy Auerswald. A garden party with a garden hat review will finish the year.

In the new home of Mrs. Arch W. Powell, Hoodridge drive, Mt. Lebanon, the South Hills Council of Republican Women will give a tea in honor of Judge Sara Soffel on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Aides will include Mrs. F. B. Goddard, Mrs. L. E. Dovee, Mrs. Charles Mai and Mrs. R. D. Roberts.

Jamestown Girl Marries in N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt C. LeRoy, of Jamestown, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mabel Barrett, to Daniel W. Miller, Jr., of Erie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Miller, of Beaver. The ceremony took place on Tuesday in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Jr., are honeymooning in Atlantic City, at the Traymore Hotel.

ORIGINALITY AND CLEVERNESS SHOWN IN THE BACK NECKLINE

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Aug. 28. — The dressmakers here are still counting on back interest to draw the attention of the onlooker to their models. It would seem that the originality and cleverness expended on this part of the frock is endless and the back neckline, or perhaps one should say waistline, comes in for the major share of attention. Every house is presenting all sorts of clever and attractive back decolletages and so it is now necessary to view a frock from all vantage points, before one can criticize it or pass on its smartness. And frequently the dresses seen present two distinct views, the back of the dress being vastly different from its front. Of course the back decolletage is most important, but a dress can be made by a clever sleeve, collar or revers. Details tell the tale of the mode more effectively now than do fabric or color.

WE SHOW TODAY sketches of some very new necklines and other important features of the newest frocks. First comes a draped bolero bodice from Redfern that belongs to a dress of soft, supple blue satin. At the front the bodice is simply bloused above the crushed sash, but as it goes round to the back it is detached from the skirt, drawn into a twist and looped to form a sash that ties in front.

GOES FOR DRINK, GETS BEATING

Lured from a barbecue stand in Upper St. Clair Township to a nearby field by the promise of a drink, police said, William Robertson, 23, of R. D. No. 1, Library, was beaten and robbed by two men early today.

According to police, Robertson was dancing at the Green Lantern barbecue in Washington road when he was invited out by the strangers. He accompanied them and two girls in an automobile, police said. The men left the machine, beat Robertson, robbed him of $15, and left him lying along the highway where he was found by a passing motorist and brought to the Mt. Lebanon police station.

He was treated by a physician at the police station for a broken nose and severe lacerations about the head and body.

Girl Killed When Hit By Plane Propeller

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Eleanor Matthews, 23, was killed by the propeller of a plane in which she had just taken a 15-minute spin with Frank Cordova, well-known pilot.

Miss Matthews, employed in the Roosevelt Field Hotel, climbed from the forward cockpit to the front of a wing as the plane alighted. As the girl leaned over as if to leap to the ground, a steel propeller blade struck her on the head.

Flinn Estate Granted U. S. Tax Abatement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The George H. Flinn estate of Pittsburgh was granted an abatement of $676,717 in federal tax by the Internal Revenue Bureau. The abatement represented an allowance for payment of a similar amount of state inheritance tax.

24 TIMES AROUND THE EARTH

The newsprint paper used every month in producing the eleven publications of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., when laid sheet to sheet, would stretch twenty-four times around the world.

A vast industry, this organization—and profitable, too. Consider its tremendous circulation and advertising revenue—its many millions of daily readers eagerly seeking the latest news of local, national and international events.

The properties forming the Hearst Consolidated group have averaged net earnings of $10,500,000 for the past five years, three times the dividend requirements of the 7% Class A shares to be presently outstanding. Earnings for the first half of 1931 amounted to $2.64 per share available for dividends, against dividend requirements of $.87½.

Such earnings during a period of general curtailment classify these shares as an ideal investment for everyone interested in a good return* with a three to one margin of security.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

People I've Met

MITTY DEVERE. I often get to thinking of him. But I don't know why. I never knew him very well. Not many of the Broadway boys did know him too well, I guess. They never had much of a chance. Mitty trouped for plenty of years before he got his first crack at a Broadway show. And even then the part wasn't very large.

To Mitty, however, that role was just about the biggest thing in town. He played, as some of you may possibly recall, the character of Boze, a ham burlesque comic in "Burlesque," which was one of the smash hits of 1927-28. And if Arthur Hopkins hadn't recognized his merit during a try-out, the probability is that Mitty never would have hit a Broadway success.

It took Mitty some 25 years to achieve his ambition. He played town after town and split a week after week. Sometimes he worked six times a day and sometimes more. But he took the socks without a whimper.

It's almost four years now since Mitty wrote me his one and only letter. I had met him backstage at the Plymouth Theater and he seemed to be a thoroughly likeable chap. We talked for some time. And perhaps it was that which encouraged him to write to me.

At any rate I still have his letter.

Dear Mr. Hellinger: it reads. I don't write this letter to tell you about myself. It's just to let you know about a chap named Jack White. White is an old pal of mine and he's down in Virginia now with a bum lung.

Maybe you can give him a break. He's running a little magazine that I think is pretty good. He's an old-time trouper and anything you can do for him will be appreciated more than you know. You'll get a copy of the magazine under separate cover.

The reason I'm doing this for White is because I just got my first break for myself. I've trouped and trouped until I got mighty sick of the racket. But now things are different.

I'm playing as you know the part of Boze in Burlesque. I've got a little money saved up and I'm trying to do a little something for Jack White. I'd like him to get the same kind of break that finally came my way. See what you can do will you Mr. Hellinger?"

There was a strange angle to that letter. A week after Mitty sent it he died. And I don't know whether Jack White is still alive or not. I do know, however, that he lived long after Mitty had gone.

So I tell you that I often get to thinking of Mitty Devere. But I don't know why . . .

LEON ERROL. For no good reason the previous story brought his name to mind. Maybe there is a reason at that. Leon who later developed into one of our great comedians was a burlesque actor when a famous Broadway producer saw him. The producer bought his contract for a large sum and placed him on Broadway immediately as a featured player. But unlike Mitty Devere Leon kept going. And he can still get top money I imagine if he wants to leave Hollywood and return to civilization.

Ever hear the story about Errol and Calvin Coolidge? It's true and it's something that only an actor would dream of doing. See if you don't agree with me.

Some years back when Leon was playing in Washington his press agent moved everything in order to get the comedian an audience with Mr. Coolidge President of the United States at that time and now a retired columnist. After much pulling of strings, an appointment was finally made for noon of a certain day.

The set hour arrived and Errol failed to arrive. At 15 minutes after the hour he had not put in an appearance. At 12:30, the President began to grow nervous. When 1 o'clock rolled around and Errol was still asleep in his hotel, Mr. Coolidge grew irritated and called off the appointment. Leon, incidentally, did not show up at the White House at all that day.

The following morning, Mr. Coolidge's secretary received a picture of Leon Errol. It was a large affair, almost half the size of the comedian himself. And with it was a note from Leon.

"I'm sorry I could not keep that appointment with the President yesterday," he wrote, "but I know Mr. Coolidge will understand. Will you kindly have him autograph the picture that accompanies this note and send it back to me as soon as possible?"

MYRON G. A nice kid, and I don't want to identify him too closely. One of the best looking juveniles on the American stage. And until recently, a boy with plenty of future. At the present moment after what he's done I'm not so sure.

The boy was in love. The girl of his choice is a damsel in a current revue. He met her in a production in which they appeared together last year and went daffy about her. They were all set for that thing called marriage as soon as the fall rolled around.

On a party one night Myron was introduced to a society woman who is old enough to know better. This latter lady is in the neighborhood of 40, but she acts as though she stepped out of a nursery.

At any rate the wealthy woman fell head over heels in love with the handsome juvenile. She began to send him presents, to call him at all hours of the day and night, and to pester him mightily with her attentions. She wound up a short time ago by begging him to go to Europe with her.

Myron knew that he'd have to put a stop to the situation right then and there. So he told her the truth.

"I'm afraid we'll have to stop seeing each other, Mrs. V——," he asserted. "I can't go on with this thing. I must tell you that I'm engaged to one of the sweetest girls in the world and that we're going to be married in the fall."

When he reached home that night he told his sweetheart exactly what had happened. Instead of being sensible and sympathetic the girl he left decided that that was the spot for some first-class hysterics. She carried on in splendid fashion, accused him of double-crossing her with the society woman and said any number of things that were both stupid and impossible.

More than that, she refused to let up. Somebody at some time or other must have told her that the proper way to hold a man was to nag him. Myron pleaded and begged her to be reasonable. But the girl was having a fine time and wanted to continue. So she did.

She did it so long that Myron gave it up as a bad job. He tossed over a fine contract for this season and went to Europe with the wealthy widow. And now that he's there and she can't have him, the girl who made him so miserable writes him every day and tearfully begs him to come back to her!

LEGION BUGLERS COMPETE

Drum and bugle corps from 20 cities and towns took part in the competition sponsored by Burt Foster Post No. 361, American Legion, of McKeesport, at the World War Memorial Field, McKeesport, last night.

Among winners were Greensburg, first; Tarentum and Jeannette, tied for second, and Vandergrift, third.

The welcoming address was made by Mayor George H. Lysle of McKeesport. Following an address by Senator W. D. Mansfield, the corps paraded on the drill field. Featured in the parade were exhibition drills by the Claude Beltz Post, of Duquesne; the Burt Foster Post Drum and Bugle Corps; the state championship corps of Uniontown and the championship corps of West Virginia.

Candidates for major offices to be elected at the coming primaries were introduced by J. Denny O'Neil, and KDKA announcer Louis I. Kaufman, who acted as master of ceremonies. M. E. Goldberg was general chairman. Honor guests were introduced by Leo Seigle, commander of Burt Foster Post.

ROBBER BEATS MUTE WOMAN

Mrs. Sadie Fritzges, 34, of 136 East Jefferson street, North Side, was suffering severe bruises and cuts inflicted by a Negro thug whom she detected ransacking her home late yesterday.

When Mrs. Fritzges, a deaf mute, discovered the intruder in her home she was beaten by him and left semi-conscious for an hour and a half until her husband, Charles Fritzges, also a mute, returned from work. Police, summoned by neighbors, took the victim to the office of a physician where her injuries were treated.

The thug, who ransacked every room in the house, apparently obtained no loot, police said.

The home of George S. Ebert, at 5440 Forbes street, was entered by burglars who ransacked the place. Police were unable to determine if anything had been stolen because members of the family have been away for a month.

LITTLE SISTERS THANK DONORS

The Sun-Telegraph has received a letter thanking it for its cooperation in the successful drive for funds for rebuilding the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged as well as all those who by contributions and efforts aided the campaign.

The letter bearing signatures of the Rev. John P. Gallagher, chairman, and the Rev. R. I. Hayes, secretary of the executive committee, stated that "expressions of sympathy and generous donations were received from every section of Western Pennsylvania from Protestants, Jews and Catholics and from men and women of no religious profession."

Two Pickets Held On Attack Charge

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Thomas Brown and Fred Washington, union pickets, were arrested on charges of assault preferred by Joe Deahl, miner in the plant of the Connellsville By-Product Coal Company, near here. Deahl said he was attacked while on his way home from work. He suffered cuts and bruises.

MOTHER FRANTIC AS BABY SUFFERS FROM ECZEMA

Resinol heals him quickly

"When my baby was a few weeks old eczema broke out on his body. I tried various treatments but none of them seemed to give him any relief. He only grew worse and cried all the time. I was almost frantic. A friend of Mother's suggested Resinol Ointment. I got a jar and in about a week's time the improvement was amazing."

Helen Twelvetrees Again To Play Heroine in Tropical Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.

Wise producers shift their plans as the wind blows. Consequently, Charles Rogers, head of RKO-Pathe, has arranged to give Helen Twelvetrees a melodrama for her next starring picture.

It will be "The Secret Shot." Before going to Europe he went on location, by Garrett Fort, with [illegible] "Charisma" to direct a Central American and African background.

POLA REMEMBERS

Few of his Hollywood friends remembered the fifth anniversary of Rudolph Valentino's death. A wreath from Pola Negri was about the extent of the flowers sent from the film colony. Rudy's body still lies in the borrowed crypt of June Mathis. The proposed mausoleum never materialized.

BROWNING BUSY

His European vacation over, Tod Browning is busy on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot preparing a mystery story to feature Lionel Barrymore. It will be the first picture under his new contract.

In the old days Browning was a familiar figure on the M. G. M. lot. He wrote and directed many of the Chaney vehicles and later on did "The Thirteenth Chair."

New Play

Grace George, one of those stars who come back year after year in successful plays, will be seen in a comedy, "The Golden Cinderella," the coming season. The producer is her husband, William A. Brady.

Next Showboat Drama To Be 'Camille'

"Camille" dramatic version of the Dumas novel, will be next week's attraction on Capt. Mendes Golden Rod Showboat at Montrose. It is the story of a woman who loves, not wisely, but too well.

Holdup Men Get Cash, $60 Watch

Two armed Negroes held up Fred Rachini of 521 Indiana way early today and escaped with $7 in cash and a $60 watch. The holdup occurred at Lowell and Reine streets.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Third Act

So we agreed at last to say goodbye,
For love was dead and we were strangely old;
A listless moon rode slowly through the sky,
And looked on us, austere and proudly cold;
I took your hand and held you close again,
And whispered words that meant so much before;
And, suddenly, we quitoe forgot the pain
That parting brings—and at your little door—

We kissed and clung—I brushed away your tears,
And smoothed your hair, and looked into your eyes;
We dwelt again on old departed years,
When we had made the town a Paradise;
And though of course we both were insincere,
I think we did it rather well, my dear!

—Kid Kazanova.

Rivalry

Lew Brown, one of the "Scandals" authors, was fretting because Mark Hellinger, a rival sketch-writer for the "Follies," had written a lukewarm line about the Brown skits.

"What mal's you think so?" we asked Brown.

"Oh," said Lew, "he wrote that he saw 'Scandals' at Atlantic City, but that he didn't think it ought to be criticized while the show still was out of town, and he would wait till the show played Broadway."

"Did you see Mark's sketches in the 'Follies?'" Lew was asked.

"Yes," was the retort, "but it would be unfair to criticize them while thes're still playing on 6th Ave."

O, Mr. Wilstach

A Slur?

It was during the premiere of the season's first show, "Three Times the Hour," and Harold Heaton, one of the better actors in it was the subject of discussion.

"That Heaton chap," remarked one of us, "talks exactly like Dudley Field Malone, the lawyer."

"Yes," replied Wanger, "but he is hardly as good an actor."

Are Printers People?

Yesterday it was recorded here that at the dedication of the new Earl Carroll Theater everybody concerned had to enter the house by walking under a ladder. Little did we suspect that ill luck would follow so soon.

Terrible confusion, however, in the seating accommodations is anticipated at the inaugural performance this evening. The printer, it appears, printed more tickets than there are seats, and many of them were sold.

The critics probably will be the only auditors who will be seated in their right pews, for their locations are on file.

And they drown sorrows!

Ouch!

The recent paragraph here about Nat C. Goodwin brought a new punch-line. The item dealt with Goodwin visiting another theater where an imitator

Davis Opens Labor Day

The Davis Theater, closed since early spring, will reopen on Labor Day, September 7, with a straight picture policy. The regular opening day thereafter will be each Monday.

"Fifty Fathoms Deep," featuring Jack Holt, Mary Doran and Richard Cromwell, will be the first attraction.

This picture is to be followed, September 14, with "Secrets of a Secretary," with Claudette Colbert. "Tabu," with Reri, one of the most widely heralded pictures of the year, will come September 21. "Daughter of the Dragon," with Anna May Wong, also is a future booking.

Stone, Soap And Fate In Film

By MARGARET RUSSELL

If you've reluctantly set aside your artistic dreams for the business of living a comfortable, happy life, and look back with regret on "what might have been," you'd better see what happens to Lewis Stone, who makes such a bargain with life in the Enright.

"The Bargain" of Philip Barry's "You and I" is not clearly apparent. A man who believes that "business is the dump of dreams" takes a middle-aged year off from the soap business to indulge his long-thwarted talents for painting.

MAKES HER A LADY

He makes his wife's maid into a lady on canvas. But he cannot get the soap out of his long-neglected brushes. And an ironic fate boomerangs his portrait of a lady back into the soap business for an advertising campaign.

Doris Kenyon, as an incredulously perfect wife and mother, does her best to take the bar out of the bargain. Their son, Rickey (John Darrow), profits by his father's new perspective on life. At any rate, he gets the girl, Evalyn Knapp, and his chance at art as well, which is more than his poor father did.

OF NO CONSEQUENCE

Charles Butterworth, with a persistent reiteration of phrase, "However, that is of no consequence," and Una Merkel's constant desire to be a lady, keep "The Bargain" from being solely a Lewis Stone performance. The sound reproduction of dialogue was frequently ineffectual.

A Universal Newspaper Newsreel, a Hugh Cameron and Dave Chasen, "Travel Hogs" comedy, views of the unburied city, Pompeii, a Nine O'clock Folks picture, with Whitey and Ed Ford, and a dramatized detective story magazine advertisement are mediocre additions to the program.

CLOTH COATS

They'll Be Higher in Season!

These two final August Sale days bring you actual $70.50 and $80.50 coats that won't be offered in season at $55.

The lavish fur Sets on these coats—such as Badger and Blue Fox—the first time at this price—are growing scarce and that alone will send identical, new coats to higher levels.

These coats represent the finest fabrics, the most desirable furs, accepted styles, Boggs & Buhl quality (the town's finest) at the lowest price they have ever been offered, $55.

You won't find smarter coats at any price. You assuredly won't find the same coats later at $55.

SOME OF THE "HITS" OF THE SALE

Blues Singer Entertaining War Veterans

MARGIE NELSON
Miss Nelson, "blues" singer among the vaudeville acts contributing to the entertainment of ex-service men at the Sun-Telegraph's veteran's reunion.

Full Day of Fun Assured Veterans On Park Reunion

All Ex-Service Men Urged to Attend Picnic Tomorrow

What a day of fun and entertainment tomorrow will bring for veterans of all American wars at the twelfth annual reunion in Kennywood Park under auspices of the Sun-Telegraph.

Ex-service men of all conflicts—Civil, Spanish-American, Mexican and World War—are invited. It is the yearly meeting of wartime buddies to revive memories. War-day experiences will be relived by the veterans, many of whom look forward to this annual outing as the only opportunity to rejoin former comrades.

A day full of entertainment and fun has been provided through the paper and its general picnic committee under direction of General Chairman John Bingham and Vice Chairman Harry S. Hall. Free amusement tickets, free vaudeville, free motion pictures and free doughnuts and coffee for all veterans and Red Cross workers are among the highlights.

GUESTS OF HONOR

The guests of honor will be Civil War veterans and the disabled soldiers now in local hospitals. They will be guests of the paper at a 6 o'clock dinner. Every Civil War veteran is urged to attend. Committee members will greet them at the park and provide tickets for the dinner. A special street car, through courtesy of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, will carry the disabled veterans from the Marine Hospital at 2:30 p. m. and return them at 7:30 o'clock.

The latest feature of the picnic has been the arrangement for an eight-act vaudeville show scheduled for 4 o'clock at the bandstand. The entire program is the contribution of Steve Forrest, local theatrical booking representative. It will be but a continuance of this one-time Lew Dockstader Minstrel star's work among veterans. He served the government during the war by entertaining and staging shows on various battleships. After the armistice, Forrest was assigned to continue the work at the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW

Headlining the program will be the big-time plantation jubilee singers, Musical Magpies, an attraction which recently closed a six-month Loew circuit contract in New York City. Other numbers on the bill include Margie Nelson, blues singer; Rose Marie Decker, dancer; Davis & Jeffries, comedians; Elinor O'Neal, personality girl; Smoke Ford, comedian and dancer; Ramona & Cuban, seven-piece Rumba Band from Havana, and six Singing Sailors.

The day's full program follows:

1 to 6 p. m.—Veterans register for free amusement tickets. Identification as a veterans will be made through service buttons, veterans' organization membership cards, uniform or discharge papers.

4 p. m.—Free vaudeville program at bandstand to be followed by a daring motorcycle act in a steel latticed cage suspended 16 feet in the air, by the Looping Nixes on the outdoor stage.

6 p. m.—Dinner to Civil War veterans and disabled veterans brought to the outing from hospitals.

8:45 p. m.—Free motion pic-

HELEN KUZIA

'LOST' GIRL, 10, BACK HOME

Several hours after her disappearance had been reported to police, Helen Kuziak, 10, of 3113 Hamlet street, marched into her home last night and told her mother she had been visiting a friend of the family on the South Side.

She had been gone since Tuesday, and her mother who reported her disappearance expressed belief that she had been lured away or kidnaped.

YOUTH FELLED ON LEAVING TROLLEY

Four Others Injured in Traffic Accidents; Two Drivers Held for Inquiry

David Jenkins, 17, of 200 Nobles lane, was in a critical condition in South Side Hospital today from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car at the Carrick car barns late last night. A. F. Bever, 30, of 431 Olivet street, Mt. Oliver, alleged driver of the automobile, took the boy to the hospital and later was arrested by Carrick police and held on a suspicious person charge. Police said the automobile ran 150 feet after hitting the boy.

CRASH VICTIMS

Daniel Cunningham, 40, of 5637 Harvard street, suffered a probable skull fracture when an automobile which he was driving collided with another machine at Chislett and Hays streets last night. He is in West Penn Hospital.

Mrs. Margaret Condoy, 40, of 2223 Larkins way, a passenger in an automobile driven by Harry Laughlin, 25, of 104 Brownsville road, was injured when the machine was struck by another car driven by Joseph Cadonic, 22, of 4829 Hatfield street, at Western avenue and Chateau street last night, police said. Mrs. Condoy was treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

Injured in an automobile collision at Western and Galveston avenues last night, Michael Chuck, 32, of 1907 Termon avenue, was in a serious condition in Presbyterian Hospital. He suffered a probable fracture of the skull when the machine he was driving collided with another car driven by C. M. Hendricks, of Cleveland, according to police.

BELLEVUE MAN HURT

Frank Smythe, 30, of 7322 Trevanion street, Swissvale, was in Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue, suffering injuries which may necessitate the amputation of his left arm. He was hurt, police said, when his automobile collided with one driven by Justice of the Peace Fred W. Roll, of 206 School street, Glenfield, on the Dixmont road near the Dixmont Hospital early today. Roll, his wife, and a nephew, John Roll, 14, of 856 Beech street, were treated for slight injuries. Smythe and Michael Pusateri, 26, of 61 Gregory street, a passenger, were held for Bellevue police.

Two Women Leave Estates to Families

The will of Mrs. Regina Rotter, of 4784 Cypress street, filed for probate today, disposing of an estate estimated at $13,000, provided a monthly income of $30 for her husband, Aloysius N. Rotter. The bulk of the estate was left to her daughter, Mrs. Anna Schneider.

Mrs. Edna Kiehl, of 731 Ridge avenue, left $16,000 to her son, George W. Kiehl.

MRS. BENJAMIN F. REBER

Ohio Observer Sends Report of Weather Over Mountains

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 28.—A woman and a toy balloon control the destiny of Uncle Sam's mail planes over the dangerous and hilly section of Ohio, West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania, and every two hours throughout the day, the little balloon soars aloft for information valuable to the pilots.

Columbus and Pittsburgh landing fields for the air mail hourly receive the complete weather report from the little weather station managed by Mrs. Benjamin F. Reber, airways observer.

The report is wired to Columbus and Pittsburgh and it is from this that pilots of all air lines receive their information before taking off.

The balloon, inflated with gas, plays a big part in the weather report. Mrs. Reber's station is not equipped with modern instruments, so she sends the toy balloon aloft to determine both the direction of the wind and the height of the "ceiling."

Never, since last fall, when Mrs. Reber started her station, has she ever missed computing the information so necessary to safe flying. Many times in the night, during bad weather, she is called out of bed to send her information on to the airports, and pilots never start without receiving the "high sign" of clear weather ahead.

Mysterious Wave Of Sound Slays 18 Frogs in Test

Valuable Scientific Discovery Kills Amphibians Here

A thousand years from now, when bearded sages are seeking the great scientific martyrs of the past, who knows but what they might list the 18 frogs of Dr. N. P. Rashevsky, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company engineer at East Pittsburgh.

The 18 specks and all were slain by a sound—one higher pitched than the human voice and somewhat mysterious. Snapping like the report of a field gun, the destructive waves moved from a testing laboratory through two walls and a partition, hit the frogs in their glass containers and snuffed the life out of them.

A nineteenth frog which had been placed apart from the others because it was sickly, still lives, the company reports. It had been isolated beyond the path of the waves.

The wave followed a test of big screw threads, during which its destructive force was discovered.

Dr. Rashevsky, who had been using the amphibians in his biologic-electric laboratory, expressed as his theory that a "supertonic wave of air compression, radiating from the focus of detonation at a speed of 1,100 feet a second, rolled up the wall and hit the frogs."

The discovery was considered valuable in wars on insects.

Politics at New Low Level, Like Old Rubber Heel

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Coin Harvey bobs forth with the first Presidential nomination. Coin advocates free silver, government ownership of post-offices and less table rapping at seances and directors' meetings.

Coin got the nomination in Arkansas where oil is a dollar a barrel if you have a gun. He used to be a Democrat but got out of the racket and stands on record as the only Coin ever refused by the Democratic campaign committee.

Outside of that, politics is deader than an old rubber heel. There is a lot of shillabering going on. But August politics are like the man who tried to wash the Mexican hairless dog. He soaped him all day and couldn't work up a lather.

Tammany is enjoying another week-end investigation. The main guy in it is a hoss doctor who was saved by a big petition signed by his patients.

COUNTY FORCES DOING WORK OF CONTRACTOR

Scores Employed on Grading, Which Already Has Cost Million and Half Dollars

Allegheny County is spending upwards of $500,000 regrading its still unfinished $3,500,000 airport, it was learned today, after having paid the Vang Construction Company $1,430,952 for the work accepted as finished by the Department of Public Works.

The field level over which the County Road Department has been laying a paved surface was found to vary from 22 inches above grade to three and four feet below the required level, and as a result county employes have been cutting and filling for months to make the finished surface level.

CONTRACT TERMS

Paragraph 104, page 23 of the contract specifications for the grading of the county airport defines "finished grade" and specifically provides for the removal of all outjutting rock as follows:

"All large, loose rocks or boulders, extending close to the surface of the finished grade shall be broken off six inches below the surface of the finished grade and removed as directed. . . . Where the rock has been so removed, such excavations shall be refilled with suitable material in a compact form to the finished grade."

Notwithstanding this provision for the removal of rock, the county engineers accepted as finished Vang's grading project, but before payments had been made finally the outcropping rocks were brought to the Controller's attention.

$20,112 STILL DUE

There is still coming to Vang, under terms of his contract with the county, $20,112, withheld by Controller Robert G. Woodside originally as a guarantee for the removal of between 12,000 and 15,000 tons of gravel dumped on the airport site without authority. When the outcropping rocks, in some instances almost two feet above the specified grade, were giving the county workmen trouble and it was decided to deduct the cost of removing these high spots.

There is no provision, however, to recompense the county for the expense of making thousands of cubic yards of fill which has been in progress for six months or more. With the official opening of the airport only a matter of days, a score or more trucks under contract at $2.50 an hour, several score county employes and county road equipment are engaged in digging, carting and spreading earth fill at the rate of 200 to 300 truckloads a day.

LOW SPOTS FILLED

From a cut just off the airport proper, but still on county property purchased for airport development, a steam shovel has been loading the county-hired trucks since the latter part of May. Approximately 10,000 truck loads of fill have been carted from this place to fill low spots on the flying area. Each truck hauls about three cubic yards.

MANIAC'S AX VICTIM DIES

Joseph Eashysky, 55, of Renton, one of three persons struck down with an ax by a demented man in a mining settlement at Renton, Sunday, died in Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington, last night.

Eashysky's skull was fractured when he was struck with the ax by John Kiski, 45, who ran amuck in the community, attacking two others, Catherine Zummerling, 3, and George Andrews, 45. The condition of the girl and man was still regarded as serious at the hospital.

The ax-wielder's wild charge was brought to an end when a man felled him with a wrench. He was returned to a state insane asylum at Torrence, from which he was reported to have been released.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 28.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

A lot of different nationalities were working with us on a movie set, all representatives of different countries. We all sit around and gab between scenes. The Chinaman: "My country very bad. What will be the end?" The Russian: "Poor Russia. What hopes can it have?" The Englishman: "We were never in such bad way. Who knows how we will come out?" I said: "Boys, I sure would like to help you, and I will just as soon as I find out where we're going ourselves." Yours, WILL.

Boy Skater Hurt When Truck Starts

James Legge, 14, of 3620 Frazier street, was in Montefiore Hospital today suffering from a broken right arm. According to police, he was leaning against a truck in Ward street, near Semple street, yesterday, to rest himself after roller skating, when the truck started without warning, throwing him to the street.

UNION BARBERS AT BRASHEAR SETTLEMENT, FREE HAIRCUTS FOR NEEDY CHILDREN SO THEY'LL LOOK NICE AT SCHOOL

Needy South Side Children Get Free Haircuts

All the needy South Side youngsters are going to have regular haircuts when they start back to school if the union barbers have anything to do with it, C. A. Monetti said yesterday, as he and his six fellow barbers started on the first batch of children at the John A. Brashear Settlement, 1209 Bingham street. The free haircuts will be given as often as the children need them and the service will extend through the winter, the barbers said.

Mrs. M. A. Lewis, superintendent of the Settlement passed out more than 75 tickets yesterday as the neighborhood kiddies crowded around for the free haircuts. According to Mrs. Lewis some of the fathers, who are out of work, place bowls on the heads of their children and clip away, but the youngsters prefer the regular barbers. The seven barbers were kept busy all yesterday afternoon by the crowd.

Mrs. Lewis said:

"The kiddies don't feel right when they haven't regular haircuts like the other children. The union men have promised to help us out, and by school time most of the needy youngsters will have been cut. After all no one likes to go around with their head clipped."

Astronomers Here Balked By 'Dancing' Comet

Rives comet, the 10-day-old baby of the heavens, may be visible near the sun shortly after sunset today or shortly before sunrise tomorrow. But again it may not.

Discovered last week by an astronomer in Saragossa, Spain, astronomers at the Allegheny Observatory have been hunting it—in vain.

Not only is it supposed to be very close to the sun, but the comet is much like an eccentric dancer and its course is difficult to follow, according to N. E. Wagman, astronomer at the Observatory. He said:

"On account of the brightness of the sun and the proximity of the comet to it, we have not been able to see it. But it may be visible before sunrise, or a half hour after sunset. We tried before sunrise, but failed. It's eccentric, too, with about as much elasticity in its orbit as a rubber band."

ROUTES TO AIR RACES GIVEN

Western Pennsylvanians who plan to drive to Cleveland for the National Air Races which open there tomorrow, are urged to use U. S. Route No. 30 by the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

U. S. Route 30 to Cleveland includes the Lincoln Highway through East Liverpool and to Lisbon, O., State route 45 from Lisbon to Salem and State route 14 to Ravenna and Cleveland. Distance 137 miles. There is a paved detour, in good condition for 15 miles west of East Liverpool. Arriving in Cleveland on route 14, drivers should turn left on route 43 and follow this road to the airport.

ELECTRICIANS' STRIKE LIKELY TO SPREAD

Other Trades May Join in Sympathy; 3 More Firms Involved in New Walkout

A broadening in the electricians' strike, which is expected to spread to other trades, was seen today when union electricians were called out of three more shops of members of the Allegheny County Electrical Contractors' Association.

The newly affected contractors are D. E. Ross, the Elliott Electric Company, and Charles Murray. About 10 men are involved and will be replaced today with non-union workers, contractors said.

Ross has a contract for 10 houses and compass stations at the county airport, as well as the construction of the Ellis School and the Coolidge Creamery buildings. The Elliott company's largest job under construction is the South Hill Bank.

Negotiations for settlement of the difficulty, which involved the wages of electrical foremen, have broken down, contractors said. Electric shops in which the strike was started were those of the Hemme & Hale and Clodfelter companies.

Mortgage Interest Payment Authorized

E. C. Eppley and S. V. Sawyer, receivers of the Pittsburgh Hotel Corporation, operators of the William Penn and Fort Pitt hotels, were authorized in a decree signed by Federal Judge Nelson Mis'Hart to pay $278,561.25 to the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh. The money is to be used to pay the 5½ per cent interest due September 1 on $10,097,500 principal amount of the corporations outstanding first closed mortgage 5½ per cent sinking fund gold bonds, dated March 1, 1928.

OUT OF one package OF Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

THINK of all you get! Many delicious treats for breakfast. And there's lunch — what could be better than Kellogg's and milk with fruits or honey added?

Then, the children's evening meal — Kellogg's are wonderfully wholesome and easy to digest. And many a man knows them as a delicious and healthful bedtime snack.

Always ready to serve — no trouble or work. Costing only a few cents a package. Of all the foods you buy, Kellogg's Corn Flakes are indeed one of the most economical and convenient. No wonder they are the most popular ready-to-eat cereal in the world.

Wise buyers put the name Kellogg on their grocery lists. No other corn flakes have ever been able to duplicate the matchless flavor and crispness of genuine Kellogg's. More than 12,000,000 people prove this every day by buying Kellogg's Corn Flakes.

Look for the famous red-and-green package — with the inner-seal waxtite wrapper that keeps the flakes crispy-fresh even after opening. Still another exclusive Kellogg advantage. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

RADIO — You'll enjoy Kellogg's Slumber Music, broadcast over WJZ and associated stations of the N. B. C. every Sunday evening at 9:45 E. D. S. T.

13 VOTE POSTS FILLED, TWO POLLS MOVED

Bethel and West Deer Twp. Places Shifted; Judge Gray Appoints Election Officers

Two polling places have been changed and 13 new election officers appointed by Judge James H. Gray in Quarter Sessions Court.

The polling place in the Third District of Bethel Township was moved from the residence of W. H. Phillips, Brookside Farms, to the office of the Pittsburgh Suburban Development Company, Oakhurst.

BANK SUSPECT UNDER BOND

John S. Duvall, of Monessen, former cashier of the Citizens National Bank of Monessen, was arrested on a federal warrant charging him with misapplying $5,393.40 of the bank's funds on December 8, 1923. The United States Commissioner set his bond at $10,000 pending a preliminary hearing.

The defendant voluntarily surrendered himself to United States Marshal James C. McGregor when he learned a complaint had been filed against him.

VANDALS STRIP NEW HOUSE

Police today were searching for vandals who are alleged to have stripped a new house owned by Mark S. Quin, of 120 Wood street, Wilkinsburg. The house, valued at $16,500 and located at 1614 Graham boulevard, Wilkinsburg, was stripped of three truckloads of equipment, including boiler, furnace, wiring, bathroom and chandelier fixtures and radiators.

Mail Rates Changed To Canada, Britain

Postmaster James B. Anderson today issued notices on postal rate changes affecting Canada and Great Britain. The rate for Canadian points on first class mail is three cents for each ounce, two cents for single and four cents for double postcards. Air mail is six cents for the first ounce and 10 cents for each additional ounce.

For Great Britain the rate is five cents for the first ounce and three cents for each additional ounce; single postcards three cents and double cards six cents.

Wonderful New STOMACH WASH Rids Thousands of Acid STOMACH TROUBLES

Are you cursed with a sick, upset acid stomach, constantly bloated with gas? Are you miserable with heartburn, belching, indigestion, sick headache? Does your food lie in a lump for hours and press against the pit of your stomach? Do you sleep restlessly and wake up groggy with a thick ugly taste in your mouth and a foul disagreeable breath?

Thousands of folks troubled this way are finding glorious relief. All they do is wash out their stomachs every morning. Results are amazing!

A glass of water and a spoonful of Acidine are all you need. That makes a refreshing bath for the stomach. It swishes and swirls this stomach-wash around, until it cleans away the slime film of sour matter that covers your stomach. Now the glands can start to pour the 35 to 50 ounces of gastric juice your stomach needs daily to digest your food. The trouble-making acid is neutralized instantly. Now you feel clean inside. Now you can eat and enjoy it—with no acid indigestion, no gas, no agony. You find life is sweet after all.

Try this morning stomach-wash with Acidine. Today get an economical package from your druggist. The cost is trifling—the results astonishing. Used according to the plain directions, Acidine is guaranteed safe and harmless to the most sensitive stomach.

TROLLEY STOPS ELIMINATED

Several changes in the car stops along Highland avenue were announced yesterday by William H. Boyce, commercial manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

The stop at South Highland avenue and Howe street will be eliminated beginning tomorrow, and the stop at Rippey and Station streets will be combined into one, which will be established between the two.

The stops at Wellesley and Hampton streets will likewise be eliminated and combined into one located between the two of them.

LIQUOR SEIZED, BROTHERS HELD

James Terenzio and Jack Terenzio, brothers, of 134 South Beatty street, arrested by State Police while they were alleged to have been transporting 30 gallons of moonshine in an automobile in Patton Township, were turned over to prohibition agents yesterday. The moonshine and automobile were taken to the government warehouse.

In a shed on a farm at Linhart the raiders reported seizing a 100-gallon still and destroying 4,200 gallons of mash and arresting Antonio Janzanto.

Swissvale G. O. P. To Hear Candidates

The Young Men's Republican Club of Swissvale, supporting the candidacy of Dan S. Stone for member of the Swissvale School Board and Charles C. Thomas for Swissvale Borough Council tonight will hear campaign issues discussed by a number of candidates for county offices. The meeting will be held in Eagle Hall.

2 NO-PARKING ZONES URGED

The Better Traffic Committee has recommended to Public Safety Director James M. Clark two no-parking and two one-way traffic 60-day trial provisions. The one-way traffic regulations call for traffic southbound only on Randolph street from Penn avenue to Eva street and for traffic westbound on West Park way from Federal to Arch streets.

One no-parking regulation would apply on the south side of Aurelia street from Luther street to Beechwood boulevard, between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. The other no-parking regulation deals with the east side of Randolph street from Penn avenue to Eva street, 24 hours a day.

2 HELD IN TAXI FARE FIGHT

Two men were arrested by North Side police last night after a fight over their alleged refusal to pay a taxicab driver his fare in Royal street.

The two, Charles Heger and John Lombard, of Gershon street, hired a cab driven by Albert Vonox, of 6160 Aurelia street, in the downtown district and upon reaching their destination they refused to pay the fare, police said. Vonox said both men attacked him during the argument.

Lombard struck on the head, suffered a deep cut. Lombard and Heger were charged with disorderly conduct.

City Band to Give Woods Run Concert

CHOCOLATE MOCHA Heat a square of chipped chocolate with ½ cup of milk in the top of a double boiler. Beat until smooth. Add 6 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ cup very strong coffee. Pour gradually over the beaten yolks of 2 eggs. Return to double boiler and cook slowly until mixture coats a clean spoon. Chill thoroughly to the same temperature as the ¾ cup of whipping cream which is in the ice box. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites, then the whipped cream and a teaspoon vanilla. Pour into freezing tray and freeze about 4 hours.

VEGETABLE SALAD Choose a half dozen firm, ripe tomatoes. Wash and cut in cubes about half inch sizes. Peel a cucumber and dice it. Wash and chop 6 or 8 green onions and 3 hard cooked eggs, and shred a small head of lettuce. Season well with salt and pepper to taste. Mix lightly place in a jar or covered container. Salad dressing should be taken in a jar and added just before serving the salad. This amount will serve six.

CHEESE PASTE FOR SANDWICHES You may indulge your own fancy as to cheese, grate enough to fill a cup, combine it with a half cup of tomato catsup, 2 tablespoons of chopped nuts, a teaspoon of grated onion, ½ teaspoon salt and pepper. Beat thoroughly.

CHOCOLATE NUT BARS Cream ½ cup butter, and a cup granulated sugar, and continue creaming. Add 12 squares unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces and melted over hot water. Combine thoroughly, add 2 beaten eggs and beat. Sift ½ cup flour, a pinch of salt and add to first mixture. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and finally a cup of chopped walnuts. Turn into a buttered shallow pan and bake in a moderate 350 degree oven for half an hour. Turn out of the pan and cut into bars while hot.

LOBSTER SALAD Dissolve 1 package lemon gelatin in 1¾ cups boiling water, cool and let get thick as honey. Add ¼ cup diced cucumber and ½ cup diced celery (the last two having been marinated in ¼ cup French dressing for one hour). Chill for several hours in molds in ice box. Serve on lettuce with a garnish of sliced cucumber and radishes in French dressing. Serves eight.

MACAROON CREAM One tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 2 cups scalded milk, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup macaroons, dried and rolled, 3 egg whites.

Soak gelatin in cold water. Make custard of milk, egg yolks, sugar and salt; add gelatin and strain into a bowl set in ice water. Add macaroons and flavoring; stir until it begins to thicken, then add egg whites beaten until stiff. Mold, chill and serve garnished with macaroons.

STUFFED EGGS Two chicken livers, ½ teaspoon onion juice, 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup grated cheese, 4 hard cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper, Worcestershire sauce to taste.

Clean and chop liver, sprinkle with onion juice and fry in butter. Add egg yolks, rubbed through sieve, the parsley, salt, pepper and Worcestershire to taste. Refill the whites with mixture, cover with grated cheese and bake until the cheese is melted. Serve on toast rounds with tomato sauce.

APPLE PUNCH

Apple punch is mighty good. To make this:

Cut 6 tart apples in quarters, core, but do not pare.

Then put them in a preserving kettle and add 1 cup of raisins,

Let come to a boil, add 2 quarts more of cold water, cover and boil 30 minutes.

Drain and then add the juice of 3 lemons and 2 pounds of sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then serve at once.

2 quarts boiling water.
Juice of 2 lemons.
Juice of 2 oranges.
1 lemon, sliced thin.
1 orange, sliced thin.
1 small bottle of red Maraschino cherries.
1 small bottle green mint cherries.
1 cup grape juice.

Steep the tea in freshly boiled water for 15 minutes, then strain. Add other ingredients, chill thoroughly and serve.

Serves 10 people.

This is delicious and simple to prepare.

Add the juice of 1 orange, 1 lemon, 1 cup each of weak cold tea and unfermented grape juice.

To the juice add 1 can of pineapple.

Then heat to the boiling point and add ½ teaspoon of ground cinnamon, 1 clove and 1 cup of granulated sugar and boil 5 minutes.

Pour this mixture over the well-whipped whites of 3 eggs, stir vigorously and serve at once in small cups with toasted salted wafers.

was using his material. The manager of the house recognized Goodwin as he left the theater and queried:

"Well, what do you think of him?"

"All I can say," groaned Goodwin, "is that one of us is lousy!"

"I'm glad," flipped the manager, "that you finally admit it!"

Novelette

He is one of the town's toughest characters. You've read about him a lot lately in the public prints.

He is having a mess of girl trouble, however. One of the "Vanities" babes has him a little dizzy. Because he was busy straightening out gang matters he assigned a handsome bodyguard to escort the girl. The bodyguard is too good-looking. And he is married.

Some person connected with the show (who was born with a police whistle in her mouth) informed the bodyguard's wife that the pair were carrying on plenty. The wife visited them at the seashore, in the surprise manner, and when she was finished sweeping the floors with the intruder, she informed the gang boss about her husband stealing his woman.

So there ought to be another murder in a day or two.

Reminder

It is just as dangerous for a married woman to come home without rouge on her lips—as it is for a married man to be caught with it on.

Don't Wake Me Up!

('I'm Dreaming')

Hello Mr. Dreiser. I just saw you leave the Criterion where "American Tragedy" is playing. Like it? You did?—well, now! . . . You mean, Ethel Barrymore, that that chap is your new beau? He's a dramatic critic? Mymymy. . . . What a headline that is—looka: "Harry Richman Finally Marries The Girl" . . . Imagine! . . . Look! There's Earl Carroll at a rehearsal and he isn't wearing a smock! . . . And, of all things! Here's Robert Garland giving Jack Pearl of the "Follies" a good notice! After all these years! . . . A first-night and no autograph askers! . . . Sardi's at dinner-time! And only people there you like to meet!!

Sotto Voce

Mrs. Fred Carter: Well, there's a night club called "Country Fair" in Greenwich Village and the only other Country Fair in town starts August 31 to September 12, at Bloomingdale's.

Observation

The chief fault with the elegantly upholstered theaters on Broadway is that they usually remind you of a man with a mouthful of gold teeth.

Add Sillies

"Why do Santa Claus and Coolidge look alike?"

"I give up—why?

"Because they both have beards except Coolidge who hasn't any!"

First-Night

The first First-Night of the 1931 Season: John Anderson, the critic, is putting on tonnage. He used to be thinner than a Broadway promise. . . Percy Hammond has a new idea—white starched collars on soft blue shirts. . . That chap in the butler uniform carrying on things and taking them off so mysteriously in the new play is really Brock Pemberton's auditor. All year around he sits in a tiny office and juggles numbers. . . And that Heaton chap, they say, was one of the first cartoonists to make a comic strip when the Chicago Inter Ocean was a big paper. . . Doesn't seem like a typical first-night crowd—where's Fannie Hurst?—there's Fannie Brice! . . . George Jean Nathan's cravat has class. . . Wonder who that attractive girl is in the tiny red hat? . . . Gosh it's my sekkaterry! . . . No show, it seems, is complete without the line: "Pull y'self together, kid," which has been in almost every play since "Broadway". . . Oop!. There it goes it again!

The World Is Full of Gossips, So Watch Your Step

Is it okay for a girl to [illegible] to call her new friend by his first name?

What's the conventional way to introduce Mamma to a fellow? Shouldn't Mamma [illegible] Mamma's friends?

Shall we shake hands when we have completed introductions?

Can't a girl give gifts to a fellow without arousing suspicions? Is it proper for a girl to send flowers to a fellow?

I am a constant reader of your column and would be writing you [illegible] but I don't need help so badly. I'm only trying to help a friend who is in trouble. She is [illegible] with her mother.

We [illegible] our future.

MOTHER OBJECTS

I have been keeping company for four years with a fine boy. He is everything I have been taught to desire in a fellow. He is [illegible] and he treats me with the most perfect respect and consideration.

But Mother insists that the fact we're engaged doesn't warrant me staying home that way. And I can't understand her side of the argument although maybe I should as I am 22 and consider myself reasonably level-headed.

I am taking the liberty of writing to you because you have helped so many other people and I am hoping you can help me too. At least certainly you can help me to understand Mother about this and she won't give in to me. So you see why I give it to you. Perhaps what you say and [illegible] which one of us do you think is right and why? I'll be looking for your answer. JULIE Who's right, Julie? Well to be frank with you, youngster, I think mother is. No, I don't mean that you must not be permitted to see him as often as he wishes, if you feel safe so far as the Boy Friend is concerned. You probably are if what you think and say of him is true.

FEW EXCEPTIONS

But you won't be safe even though this is 1931 so far as gossip is concerned. If you keep on visiting this young man, no matter how innocently and no matter how safe you may be from harm from him . . . there will be plenty of people who will raise their eyebrows and sniff and think evil of you. And they will quite likely be people who will count in your world.

You don't believe that now. You're quite sure that you can live your own life regardless of what people think. Hasn't it been done?

Yes, Julie. It has been done. It has been done by a few exceptional people who were willing to pay for "liberty" with a very terrible price of loneliness. Most of them had resources within themselves which, to a small extent, compensated for that loneliness. But I doubt if there was ever one who didn't sometimes long for simple, friendly human companionship . . . for all the dear common confusing joys they had sacrificed to be different.

Do you think you want to be different at such a price, little girl? I doubt it. You'll want friends as any normal girl wants them. You'll want to have kindly neighbors running in and out of your home. You'll want people to speak well of that home—to help you make it popular—to welcome your babies when they come along.

DON'T START WRONG

Then don't start your home with a secret smirch on its name.

If you want a conventional world to stand by you in the years to come, play the game with it now, kid.

That's my advice. But maybe yours is different. Stranger. If Julie were your daughter, your sister, your friend or your sweetheart, what would you tell her to do?

Sad to See Pretty Faces Marred by Marks of Dissipation, Says Fay King

DRINKING SOON SPOILS BEAUTY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

I protest against drinking even more from an artistic viewpoint than a moral one.

No one appreciates a pretty face more than one who can draw. None sooner sees the destruction that drink brings to a face than the one who views it with an artistic eye.

It is sad to see the fine face of a man or the pretty face of a woman marred by the tell-tale marks of drinking. But to voice one's protest is to be ignored as a "pest" by those who do know better, but prefer to waste the gifts God gave them in the dung-heap of dissipation.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:-

By ADELE GARRISON

Two Letters Arrive for Katherine

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

One special delivery for Mary and one for Marion," Jerry Tiger proclaimed at the top of his voice as he came up the veranda steps. It is wasted time to expect deference and decorum from playboy Jerry, who nevertheless is of the material described as "salt of the earth."

And two letters for you, Miss Graham and three for Mr. Underwood and two for Mister Underwood and four for Mister Graham and two of those ones with funny stamps for Miss Bickett. Oh, yes, and there's some magazines in the car. I'll go get 'em."

He hurried down the steps while we looked at the postmarks on our letters. I knew by the decision with which Lillian put hers aside, that they were from clients wishing work, and she has an odd little rule that she never will open a professional communication unless it is a telegram, except during the hours which she sets aside for her work. Dicky's, I knew from the superscription, were from art editors, and mine were perfunctory notes from women whose chirography I knew, and whose messages would keep indefinitely. But Katherine's . . . I packed them up with a feeling of unreality . . . surely Dicky would describe this as the "long arm of Old Man Coincidence working overtime"—for one was in Hal Meredith's writing with a Norwegian postmark while the other had come from that wild part of South America where Jack Bickett was working—but his handwriting was not on the envelope. I was rising to take it up to her when I heard excited voices upon the stairs and the next instant Mary and Marion appeared on the veranda in the bizarre costumes which modern girls affect regardless of past ideas of decorum, unstockinged feet hastily thrust into slippers, silken pajamas covered but not disguised by beach robes. But Jerry Tiger, unlike many of the "natives," is used to modern feminine dress—or undress—and besides he is so much a member of the household that the girls pay no more attention to him than they would to Jim or Katie.

"Seems to me those fellers of yourn mustn't have anything to do except write letters," he said, "and no way of spending their money except to pay it out for special delivery stamps. What good does special delivery get you out here on the farm? The man at the postoffice just sticks 'em into your box with the rest of the mail, and you don't get 'em one mite sooner. You'd better tell your young men to save their money to pay a hired girl with. Neither of you'll ever want to cook or wash dishes, I'll bet."

"Why, Jerry Tiger!" Marion protested. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself? I'm going back to Whitney Hall for another year, though I'm ready for college, just to take a P. G. course in Domestic Science. You wait till I come home my first vacation. I'll bake you some biscuits."

"Biscuits! You! Ha ha! that's a good one!" Jerry guffawed and brought down the hand that held the letters with the evident intention of striking his other hand with them for emphasis. But Mary, who as her uncle says, "has any cat tied to the post for quickness and agility," sprang and caught the letters as his arm descended, and danced back toward the stairway.

"Thanks for the tip, Jerry," she called back. "We'll pass it on to the boy friends."

"That's the time she did you, Jerry," Marion added maliciously. "Serves you right for making fun of my biscuits."

She followed Mary up the stairs, and Jerry, with no further prospect of raillery to enliven his morning, went around the house to the kitchen, while Lillian, carefully skirting the topic of Katherine's letter, which neither of us wished to discuss, took refuge in smiling comment upon the eagerness of the young girls for their mail.

"I was wrong when I said nothing would drag them out of bed before 3 o'clock in the afternoon," she said. "There must be some sort of telepathy about those letters to bring them down this early, for I'll swear even Jerry's calliope voice wouldn't waken them ordinarily."

They were expecting them, I think. I explained, laughing, and therefore subconsciously wakened at Jerry's voice. You see when nobody goes for the mail in the evening, as happened last night, Jerry always gets it on that early trip to the Harbor which he makes every morning for his father. And of course you must remember it's all of 24 hours since either of them had a special delivery."

Love's young dream, she commented banally, and I knew that her mind was not back of the words, but was rebelling at the patent delight of her young daughter in the youthful adoration proffered her by Ronald Brixton.

I must take Katherine her letters," I said awkwardly, and hurried away.

Household Hints

When washing the youngster's woolen beret, it is well to dry it over a dinner plate to prevent shrinking.

Sharp carving knives should be kept separately from each other or their edges will be lost through contact with the other blades. Either devise strips of leather in which to encase them or keep them in separate compartments of the dresser.

If one wishes to warm over rolls or biscuits and have them taste freshly baked, sprinkle them first lightly with water and place the pan in which they are in still another pan containing water. They will steam slightly and heat without drying.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Don't overlook elbows. Rub them with cocoanut oil now and then. At least once a day scrub well with a hand brush and soapsuds. For the gala occasion, when the grand evening frock is worn, powder the elbows with brunet powder. Elbows are hinges. Seldom pretty.

There's a lot of talk about the gardenia complexion. Why the gardenia? Until it starts to fade, it is ghastly white and waxen. The perfect complexion is that of the tea rose, a delicate ivory with a shadow of rose. There are ivory-pink powders now offered that impart an appearance of velvety loveliness.

There is a belief among those specialists who are supposed to know that superfluous hair is caused by disorders of ductless glands. Heredity has something to do with it.

An exercise that is not easy, but which is effective as a destroyer of fat cells collected on hips and thighs, is to place the feet under a radiator as one is extended on the back on the floor and to lift the upper portion of the body. Keep the hands at the sides. The return to first position must be slow, so there will be a hard pull of muscles that extend from waistline down toward the hips.

Typhoid Inoculation Wise for Vacations

Summer is the season when there is a great migration of people to the country. The automobile carries the vacationists in search of happiness. All through the year, travel is more extensive than ever before.

Dr Copeland

City dwellers rarely appreciate and hardly realize the protective measures at their disposal. Among other advantages of careful supervision of the water supply by the health authorities guards against typhoid fever. No such supervision can be had in the broad countryside. It behooves those who camp by the wayside, or put up in small isolated sections, to be careful of the water they drink.

In the past 30 years the advances in science have been so great that among other advantages there is no reason for anyone to contract typhoid fever. Typhoid fever is prevented not only by supervision of the public water supply but by individual typhoid inoculation.

There are too many districts where the water is contaminated. Because of this and also because most persons are apt to be careless, it is advisable to be inoculated against typhoid fever. This is particularly important if you contemplate traveling abroad.

It is rare indeed for a case of typhoid fever to be found in the United States Army. This is because every soldier has been inoculated against typhoid fever. I see no reason why every civilian should not take advantage of this protection.

The injections are simple and do not require loss of time from work. They are given once a week—a total of three injections. Occasionally, following the second injection, there may be a mild fever, but this rarely lasts more than 24 hours.

I recommend that all individuals who contemplate any absence from home consider this means of protection.

Answers to Health Queries

B. A. B. Q.—What do you advise for dandruff?

T. G. G. Q.—What should a girl of 15, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weigh?

A.—She should weigh about 112 pounds—this would be about average for her age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons.

Correct Manners

Introducing the Divorcee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the proper way to introduce a divorced woman? I have a child. Several friends have asked me how they should introduce me—Mrs. P. or Miss S. Please enlighten me on this subject. DIVORCED.

I cannot tell you which name you should use, dear friend, for that depends on which name you choose to use and, on whether you wished to return to your maiden name this was made definite and allowable when you got your decree.

Usually women who are divorced choose to retain the Mrs., especially if they have a child.

The form of name that in the social world has been accepted by most divorcees is the use of Mrs. before the last name of the maiden name used as a first name, and then the last name of the married name. That is, if Helen Mary Giles marries and divorces Harry South, she would take the name of Mrs. Giles South. And some women prefer to be known as Mrs. Helen South, though this is not, in the world that makes our social forms, considered good taste.

A Gift for a Salesman

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a married woman and my husband and I buy furniture in a place on Blank avenue. We have a salesmen and he is very nice to us. Every time we buy anything in that store—it makes no different how much we spend—he always gives me something for my home for nothing, and the things he gives me are always worth between four and five dollars.

What I would like to know is, would it be proper for me to show my appreciation by giving him a box of cigars. But first of all, I would like to know if it is proper to give him anything?

What would you advise?

THANK YOU.

Your impulse to make some gesture of appreciation to this kind salesman is a very generous one, and I should like to have you act on it. I like the idea of the box of cigars, if you are sure that he smokes cigars. And I suggest that you have your husband give them to him, in both your names. That would obviate all social difficulties, and be in the best of taste.

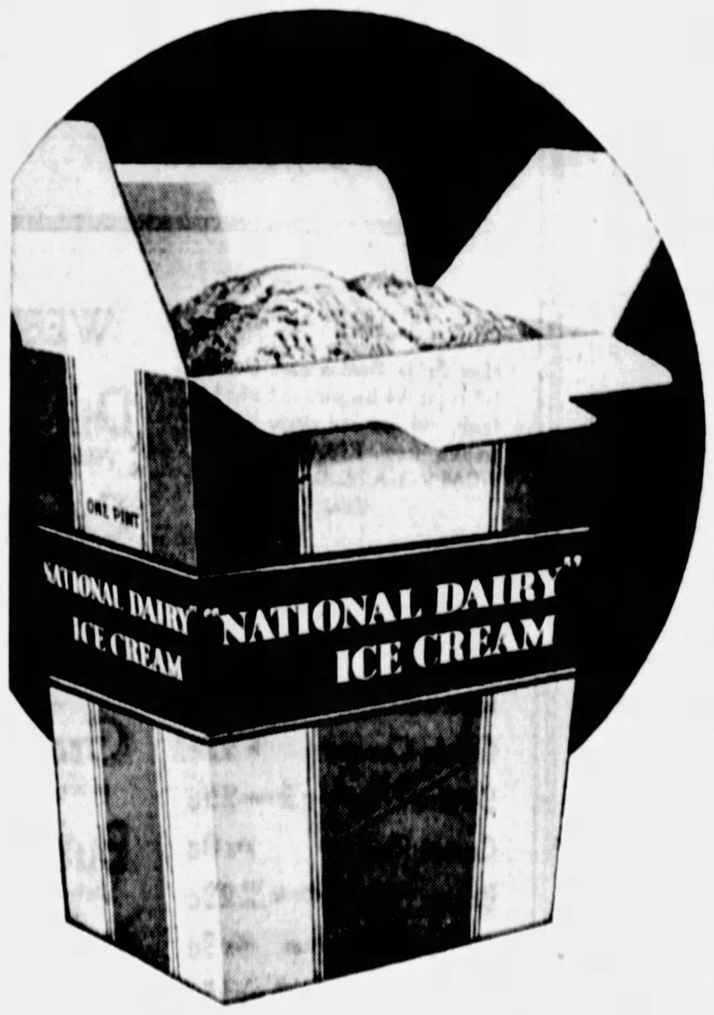
HENNA RINSE

Jo-cur Henna Rinse is now sweeping America. It started in French beauty parlors and quickly spread over all Europe. This exclusive Egyptian henna does wonders in quickly glinting the hair. It is not a dye. Women are amazed. Get it at any toilet counter. The cost is trifling. Also get Jo-cur Waveset for finger-waving the hair in a few minutes.

don't judge it by the price!

This new, Extra-rich "National Dairy" Ice Cream is finer, better than ice cream ever was before. Don't accept any other that claims to be "just as good"

See if you ever tasted anything to compare with these glorious Strawberry, Chocolate and Vanilla flavors. Make appetizing sundaes with fruits or berries; serve with cantaloup. Remember luncheons, teas, children's parties — glorious desserts for every dinner. Serve it this evening — for the health of every one!



RIECK'S set out to make a better and a more delicious ice cream. To make it possible for the children and grown people to have, every day, the precious vitamins and other vital substances in these great dairy foods.

And how our plan succeeded! People may have doubted, at first, that Ice cream could be better. But they found out fast. They carried the new pints home, tasted and discovered an entirely new ice cream flavor and enjoyment. Each day and each week, more thousands of homes, all over the city, enjoy this great new ice cream.

Here is a warning. The record-breaking success of this great new ice cream prompted others to make hurried attempts to make something "just as good" and to try to substitute it when you want to buy the genuine "National Dairy" pint. Avoid, instantly, all imitations and substitutes. Rieck dealers will gladly sell you this great new ice cream in the modern "National Dairy" package. For your protection, go to them. They will not try to practice substitution. Enjoy—this very evening—the finest ice cream—at the lowest price—that Pittsburgh has ever seen. Insist on the "National Dairy" pint. Rieck's the "National Dairy" Ice Cream.

TUNE-IN on the Rieck Revelers program every Tuesday evening at 7:15 (D. S. T.) over KDKA. Also, don't miss Rieck's Trips to Wonderland every Friday evening at 6:30 (D. S. T.), over WCAE.

LISTEN TO the National Dairy Radio Program every Tuesday night from 8:30 to 9:00 (D. S. T.) over WCAE and associated N. B. C. stations.

SEVEN GREAT HEALTH FEATURES!

Seven great health features are combined in this superb new pint of Extra-rich ice cream. Study them and see what "National Dairy" means to your health and enjoyment.

1 Only pure, fresh milk and cream, from inspected dairies.

2 Only the purest and best of flavors — fruits, berries, nuts, chocolate and real sugar.

3 Every ingredient tested for purity by "National Dairy" chemists, in spotless modern laboratories.

4 Pasteurized, as with the finest milk and cream, for the protection of you and your family.

5 Homogenized — a special process that bursts the millions of tiny cream globules, spreading their silken smoothness and digestibility throughout the ice cream.

6 Quick-frozen — an extra process that captures and holds the smoothness, freshness and glorious flavor.

7 Glassine wrapped and sealed, to protect the delicious purity.

IMPORTANT NOTICE This new ice cream is sold only in the modern "National Dairy" pint package and this price of 15 cents does not apply to any other ice cream in either bulk or package, sold or handled by Rieck dealers.

CASEY JONES ON RADIO :-: Star Soprano Back From Vacation

The Loud Speaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK Aug 28 No longer do newspapermen have to wait for editors to die before matching onward and upward to the cabin cruiser and the four-car garage. They merely wax not run to the nearest broadcasting station and proceed to air their adventures from covering murder trials to hobnobbing with revolutionists from sharing permican with polar explorers to witnessing war from front-line trenches. And gosh how the money rolls in!

Journalism is paying as it has never paid before—on the air. Bend your ear in any direction and you hear the informative or diverting voices of newspapermen, or who used to be newspapermen and who have gone on to the pastures of plutocracy. And most of them are high-commissioned officers of the radio arms.

Of all who depend upon words for microphonic money Floyd Gibbons is the grand panjandrum of the studios. He has the largest audience if only because he has the largest network. It was he who introduced speed in speaking over the microphone the staccato speed of the machine gun.

Most of the noun-and-adjective men on the microphone, fortunately, are making no attempt to copy his technique. And while their greenbacks have not turned to the yellow of Gibbons', there is no south-sayer who is able to predict when some cigaret-maker or tooth paste blender will appreciate the quality of pulse and its appeal to the armchairs and place the leisurely talkers also on the high road to heavy sugar and surtaxes.

Yet the rapid, staccato style seems appropriate to the dissemination of news on the air. It is in keeping with the breathless din of the city room, the swift, unending roar of the presses. Gibbons sensed this idea and capitalized it to the tune, they say, of 3,000 smackers a week.

H. V. Kaltenborn, the first newspaperman to be regularly heard on the radio, has the knack of seeming to be spontaneous though he talks fast.

FEW COACHES EQUAL WALLY'S SERVICE

IT IS PRETTY well known that Wally Steffen, Carnegie Tech football coach, is dean of all the gridiron mentors in the East, but to go a step farther there are few coaches of major eleven's anywhere who hold records for longer continuous service at one institution than the Chicago chief. When he gathers his Tartan candidates together here next Tuesday to start the 1931 training campaign it will mark the eighteenth consecutive season that has seen Steffen on duty at Carnegie.

Of all the coaches of major elevens only three come to mind immediately as having served a single school longer. They are Alonzo Stagg, Steffen's only tutor starting his fortieth year at Chicago; Bob Zuppke, at Illinois, and Dan McGugin at Vanderbilt. Certain others, notably Pop Warner, have been in the collegiate coaching field longer than Steffen, but have not held forth at one place for such a length of time. They have worked for two or more institutions during their careers as active pigskin tutors.

Judge W. F. Steffen

WHEN THE JUDGE broke in at Carnegie a young lawyer graduated from Chicago only a short time before and with his all-American quarterbacking honors still fresh in Indiana's memory there were some strange theories advanced in football. Jess Harper was actively in charge at Notre Dame (he is now in charge of football returns). Jack Wilce was at Ohio State and Gil Dobie at Washington.

Bill Hollenback was at Penn State (he immortal Frank Hinkey at Yale. Skip Wynard at Fordham. Bob Folwell at W. & J. Joe Duff at Pitt. George Brooke at Penn, and Charley Dale at Army. John Heisman was earning fame with his jump shift at Georgia Tech. Andy Smith later to do wonders at California was at Purdue, and Jess Hawley was bossing the State University of Iowa.

RIDING ALONG WITH the Minnesota staff was Dr. H. L. Williams. Fielding Yost, still was building point-a-minute teams at Michigan. Dana Bible, now at Nebraska, was at Texas A. & M. Mississippi Tar Baby was head coach at Phillips Exeter Academy. Wilmer Crowell was at Ohio, was coaching Lafayette and A. Sharpe was at Cornell.

These are only a few whom the Judge has seen rise to fame and later either pass out of the game or change positions. Still, a young man there is no immediate prospect of his severing his connection with Carnegie Tech.

THE CHICAGO CLUB wound up its Forbes Field schedule for the season with yesterday's doubleheader, and was the first outfit in the National League to complete its Pittsburgh bookings. The Bruins did plenty of damage here this season, capturing seven out of 11 games on the Oakland lot. In Chicago they have trimmed the Rooters five times in eight tilts. The capture of the second contest yesterday gave the Hornsbys the honors in the season's series of 22 engagements, as it was their twelfth victory over the Pirates. It is the first series debacle lost by the Corsairs.

Tony Piet

THAT THE PIRATES have one of the outstanding minor league players of the year in Tony Piet, who made his first Forbes Field appearance yesterday, is attested by the fact that he has been chosen as the second baseman on the fifteenth annual all-Western League club picked by the club managers of that loop.

Among the seven regular positions, only three players received the awards without opposition, being the choice of all the managers, and Piet at Wichita was one of them, the others being Centerfielder Parker, of Denver, and Rightfielder Kreevich, of Des Moines.

NOR WAS PIET the only Pirate farm hand picked for the first team, as the managers gave further honors to Wichita by selecting Floyd Young as utility man. Warren is catcher and Jacobs as pitcher, while on the second team Vaughn got a tie in the voting for shortstop. Kroner, of Oklahoma City, who may come to the Bucs, was picked as third baseman on the first club.

Young, who has played shortstop, second base and the outfield for Wichita this year, was the only man receiving more than two votes for the utility job on either the first or second team. Evidently there's a lot of promise in some of the young material that will be tried out by the Rovers this fall or next spring.

THE CUBS DID not break any records when they made seven consecutive hits in the eighth inning of the second game here yesterday. The major league high mark for successive hits in one inning is 10, made four times in the National League—By the Cardinals in 1920 and 1922, by the Cubs in 1929, and by the Robins against the Pirates on June 23, last year. The Red Sox set the American League record at nine in 1929. The Cardinals against the Braves in 1920, and the Robins against the Pirates in 1930 made 12 hits in succession, but on each of these occasions the hitting spree took in two innings.

WITH 24 VICTORIES to his credit, and 10 shutouts included in that total, Dizzy Dean, the Cardinals' eccentric farmhand at Houston, continues his big drive through the Texas League and promises to set up a flock of new records for that loop before the finish.

The latest mark for which he is aiming is the Texas League record for strikeouts. By fanning 14 Fort Worth batsmen in a recent game, Dean boosted his season's total to 253. This beats the 244 piled up by Bill Hallahan in 1928 for Houston, and gives Dizzy a fighting chance to reach the all-time league mark of 325, set by Harry Ables in 1910 for San Antonio.

THE POSTPONEMENT OF the Schaaf-Campolo fight until next Monday, the day before the date to which the Retzlaff-Sekyra bout has been set back, caused a tangle in the schedule of Steve Hamas, former Penn State athlete, rated one of the country's most promising young heavyweights.

Hamas had signed to meet Mike DeSanto in a Schaaf-Campolo preliminary in Brooklyn and to take on George LaRocco in one of the bouts preceding the Tommy Loughran-Jack Gross fight in Philadelphia next Monday. The Brooklyn postponement left Steve booked to fight in two different cities on the same night. The New York commission has straightened it out by releasing Hamas from his Brooklyn engagement and permitting him to go through with his Philadelphia contract.

Gar Wood

GAR WOOD, whose world motor boat speed record has been bettered twice by Kaye Don, is expected to turn the tables on Don by foiling the Englishman's attempt to lift the Harmsworth Trophy in the coming big annual race at Detroit. Don's Miss England II, weighing the staggering figure of six tons, the largest, heaviest and highest-powered motor race boat ever built, holds the world record of 110.223 miles per hour and is admittedly faster than Wood's best craft, yet it is not being conceded a chance in the approaching contest. How come? Well, it's all due to a difference in conditions. The English boat's world record of better than 110 miles an hour was made on a straightaway course. The Harmsworth Trophy race will not be a straightaway affair, and it is figured that the turns will beat Don, as his big and heavy boat will have to be slowed down a great deal to make them in safety.

LOCALS MAKE HIGH SCORES IN PRELIMS

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—The skies of the Hapsburg section swimpered today in the world's premier target shoot, the Grand American Handicap, after a morning of some promising warmup and preliminary firing yesterday.

Firing from the 27-yard line Harry S. Hornsby, Hillsdale, Ill., shattered 99 targets out of a possible 100 to take first place and $750 in cash prizes and a silver trophy yesterday.

Guy Kaiser, 17, of Paducah, Ky., won a shoot-off from Fred Thompson, of Lincoln, Neb., for second place. They had tied with 97s.

KING GETS 89

Rufus King, 15-year-old Wichita Falls, Tex., lad who will defend his Grand American title today, slipped to an 89 yesterday.

"I'll do better today," said Rufus "that is, I think I will do better."

Twenty-one shooters have been assigned handicaps of 25 yards for the big show. Young King will shoot from 20 yards. At least 1,000 marksmen will face the traps in the Grand American.

LOCALS DO WELL

Pittsburgh was well represented in the preliminary shoot yesterday. Eight shots took part. G. I. Clark leading the contingent with 94 birds from the 17-yard line. H. B. Walters shooting from the 19-yard line broke 91 birds as did Miss A. S. Harrod from the same line. Capt. J. L. Carnes scored 90 hits from the 17-yard mark. Other Pittsburgher scorers included:

Gammins Gill, 18-yard line, 89.
Otto Nagamy, 18-yard line, 89.
J. Painter, Jr., 17-yard line, 87.
Ed Nagolyn, 20-yard line, 83.

PITT GRIDDER REINSTATED

By JESS CARVER

Ralph Daugherty, who, if he was a petrel, would be a stormy one and a stormy one indeed, is back again in the good graces of the University of Pittsburgh and will be a candidate for Jock Sutherland's football team this fall.

Daugherty, until last semester, always has been rated a first class student suddenly fell by the wayside and apparently went gathering too many daisies along the path of scholastic endeavor. He was suspended from class for a semester by the college department and Coach Jock saw an A-1 center on the shelf.

But Doc, determined to make up for his unpleasant 1930 campaign when he once left the squad and generally had a tough time getting along, went out this summer and knocked off a row of A's and B's in summer school in the very tough organic chemistry course, and yesterday his application for reinstatement was granted.

The men suspended along with him this spring, Frank Walton and Charley Miller, tackles, Bernard Leech, a basketball candidate and Jesse May, a track hopeful, still are out. Summer school to them was just another poor way of putting in the time.

Daugherty is a pip of a center both offensively and defensively and to make matters a little more complicated, I'll say that on the defensive he is offensive to the other team. His return gives Pitt two crack pivot men for Joe Tor-

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MIRACLE OF THE CROSS—The "Miracle of the Cross" happened near Montlouvon, in the famous Chateau-Thierry sector, which was the scene of embittered fighting in the spring and summer of 1918. The ancient church was utterly wrecked, but none of the thousands of shells touched the crucifix at the entrance. Amidst the ruin and desolation caused by heavy bombardment, the image of Christ alone escaped unharmed. George J. Anderson, of 411 Chesapeake avenue, Newport News, Va., who took part in the famous drive of July, 1918, was one of the first to view the miracle. THE 432-FOOT HOMEWARD-BOUND PENNANT—In the spring of 1921, when the U. S. S. Pittsburgh left Manila, P. I., bound for Norfolk, Va., she had a 432-foot "Homeward-Bound Pennant" streaming out from her main mast. Supposedly it contained one foot of length for each member of the crew, and one white star for each commissioned officer. However, the crew of the Pittsburgh is more than 700, but they were unable to obtain 700 yards of silk in Singapore. When the company of a ship carrying the pennant breaks up, each member of the crew takes a portion of the banner as a souvenir.

MRS. PRESSLER LEADS, 2 UP

BULLETIN.

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, entered the final round of the women's western golf championships today by crushing Miss June Beebe, Chicago, 5 and 4, in their semi-final battle. Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, and Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, were all square at 14 holes in their match.

HIGHLAND Park, Ill., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Leona Pressler, of Santa Gabriel, Cal., led June Beebe, of Chicago, 2 up at the half way mark of their 18-hole semi-final match of the women's western golf championship today. Mrs. Pressler won the first and eighth holes in par, while the others were halved.

Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, made the turn 2 up on Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, winning two holes by stymies and another when Mrs. Hill sent two shots in succession into a lake.

Brookville Golfer Scores Hole in One

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Aug. 28.—H. G. Means, former Pinecrest Country Club golf champion, scored a hole in one yesterday when he sank his tee shot on the No. 3 hole, the distance measuring 127 yards. It was the first time this feat had been accomplished on this hole.

Means, who is 67, made the ace during an interclub match between Brookville and New Bethlehem.

THRILLING PLAYS IN PIRATES' WIN

Tony Piet, the Bucs' new second baseman, making his Forbes Field debut, figured in one of the closest plays of a hectic day of baseball battling in the seventh inning of the first game of the Pirates-Cubs doubleheader here yesterday. Tony won the decision and got a hit on his infield tap. Tommy Thevenow, shortstop, was the hero of the Bucs' 3-2 first game victory. In the fourth inning he tripled to score P. Waner and Jensen, and then tallied on Phillips' fly to Barton to register the victory run. The Cubs won the second fight.

Johnny Chiodo Wins Over Steve Nugent

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Johnny Chiodo, Johnstown, won a decision in 10 rounds last night over Steve Nugent, Cleveland, each fighter weighed 127 pounds.

In another 10-rounder, Ross Fields, Cleveland, 118, won a decision over Joey Dragon, Cincinnati, 117.

Karo Angelof, Johnstown, 135, won by a technical knockout over Eddie Conrad, Cleveland, 136½, in the second round of a six-round bout. Teddy Welsh, McKeesport, 148¼, and Jimmy Vaughn, St. Michaels, 149, fought to a draw in another six-rounder.

Macks Buy Hurler From Beckley Club

BECKLEY, W. Va., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Doff Daniel, president of the Beckley Black Knights, yesterday announced the sale of Wilbur Dumford, rookie right-handed pitcher, to the Philadelphia team of the American League. The price was not made public.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28.—The Pirates landed here this morning on their last pilgrimage of the season at the home of the Cardinals. The baseball card of the Buccos at this western end of the circuit calls for four battles in three days. Single games are listed for this afternoon and tomorrow, the series to end on Sunday with a doubleheader.

As they have yet to clinch the pennant, the Redbirds are likely to be very warlike athletes in the impending series. The Cards are better than a 100 to 1 shot to win, but Gabby Street and his players are like other ordinary mortals and they will take nothing for granted.

FRENCH MAY HURL

The first clash of the Pirate-Cardinals series may bring a sterling scrap between two clever lefthanders. Larry French is ready to do the honors for Jewel Ens while Binghamton Bill Hallahan is ready to flip for the league champions.

Stopping over in Pittsburgh yesterday, the Pirates and Cubs divided a doubleheader at Forbes Field. The Ensmen won the early scrap 3 to 2, the Cubs staging an eight-run drive in the eighth inning of the second contest that broke a deadlock and decided the contest in their favor. The score of this game was 11 to 4.

Glenn Spencer held the cubs to four hits in the opening clash. He was opposed by Les Sweetland.

BRAME, MAY CLASH

Ervin Brame and Jake May mixed in the second fight, but neither went to the full distance. The Pirates tied the contest in the seventh, but the Cubs put on the big blowoff party in the eighth.

CADDIES PLAY AT SOUTH PARK

By VERN SWARTSEAGER

It's a big day for the caddies at the South Park Allegheny County golf course. Al McBride, professional, and Jimmy Conrad, caddiemaster, have combined forces with John Jay Burke to make the inaugural caddie tourney there one of the finest any bag-toter ever played in, and many really fine prizes are in the offing for the winners.

Al McBride

No less than 150 were expected to tee off this morning in the caddie tourney, which will be marked with interest, in that a number of the boys are playing with clubs borrowed from South Park players.

WIN MIXED TOURNEY

Yesterday, Jonn Graham and Mrs. R. F. Phillips won the mixed tournament at the South Hills Country Club with a card of 87-9—78. Low net honors were deadlocked between Mr. and Mrs. E. Broderick, and R. H. Finger and Mrs. V. P. Jordano, who had 75s.

Two fathers and sons championships were decided at district clubs. W. H. Nichols and his popular son, Tom, who is president of the club, won at Aleoma, with a gross 88, while L. W. Morgan and P. W. Morgan copped at Edgewood with a net 67.

Donald and W. E. Pritchard were second low gross at Aleoma, with a 90. E. L. and E. A. Volkwein were third, with 91, and Homer and W. H. Hochberg fourth, with 92.

James and J. W. Schreiber won low net with a tally of 103-29—74. The Volkweins had second low net, 91-16—75. It was the second year in a row for the Nichols.

The Morgans at Edgewood captured high honors with their 88-21—67. W. S. Rockcliffe and his son, Junior, were second low net and first low gross with their tally of 87-15—72, and F. B. Hanker, and junior, were third low net, with 92-15—77.

GREER BUTLER VICTOR

Sam W. Greer, former Butler champion, won the Sons of the American Revolution tourney at the Butler Country Club yesterday with a low gross of 79. Dr. H. R. Decker, chairman of the golf committee for the Pittsburgh Chapter, had low net, his score reading 89-24—65. W. H. Coswell was second low net, having 87-12—75.

POLOISTS HEAD FOR SOUTH

A special pullman bearing two full teams of Pittsburgh Polo Club riders, their friends and supporters, will leave tonight for Lexington, Ky., for two matches with the Iroquois Hunt and Polo Club at Lexington. The second squads of the Lexington and Pittsburgh teams will meet for a match tomorrow afternoon and on Sunday the first teams will meet. Three weeks ago the Pittsburgh club defeated the Iroquois team in Pittsburgh by a score of 11 to 5.

Among the players who are making the trip are Bliss Flaccus, George Vang, David I. McCahill, Jr., Charles Gilliland, Elliott Perriott, W. C. Kline, King McCreery and James Groyden.

CUBS BUY HERMAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—The Chicago Cubs have announced the purchase of Second Baseman Billy Herman from the Louisville American Association Club. He will join the club tomorrow.

AUTUMN BLOOM VICTOR IN WHEELING HANDICAP . . . . ROUNDING FIRST TURN IN FOURTH EVENT ON OPENING DAY PROGRAM

Autumn Bloom, with J. Knapchick up, shook off Participate, with J. Pardick in the saddle, in a driving finish to annex the Wheeling Handicap, feature event of the opening day program of the annual Wheeling (W. Va.) race meeting at the Wheeling Island track yesterday. The fourth race attracted one of the biggest fields of the day, and the thoroughbreds were closely bunched as they rounded the first turn in the gallop of six and one-half furlongs.

TODAY'S SELECTIONS

First race—Soleil, George K., Polly Leach.
Second race—Golden Bloom, Courset, Ray Jr.
Third race—Saturday Night, Sam Flat, Passenger.
Fourth race—Hargis II, Charlatet, Billie N.
Fifth race—Autumn Bloom, Dry Nation, Sir Harley.
Sixth race—Regularity, Broadmoor, Armour.
Seventh race—Strong Tackle, Pandorset, Peter Prize.
Best bet—Autumn Bloom.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 28.—Autumn Bloom, by Actuary out of Red Leaf, carrying the colors of W. T. MacGruder, took the Wheeling Handicap, feature of the first day of the fall race meeting at the Wheeling Island oval yesterday afternoon from a field of four other thoroughbreds nominated for the five furlongs dash. He won with so much ease that he finished four lengths ahead of Participate, pulled up.

Participate was 10 lengths ahead of Flying Fantom, which copped third place money. The rest of the field was stretched almost over the entire route.

Autumn Bloom won three straight races here in 1930, and is sure to go to the post favorite this afternoon in the feature race, the McLure Hotel claiming purse, in which 10 are named to traverse the six and one-half-furlong route.

The distance in this event was extended to its present route when Secretary Monroe encountered difficulty in lining up enough entries for the prescribed five furlongs.

SOCCER CONFAB TONIGHT

The M. and V. Soccer League will hold its first organization meeting of the season this evening. The clubs will meet at Bobby Briggs's home at Castello at 7:30. All of last season's clubs and any new teams wishing to join should be on hand. The West Penn referees will hold an important meeting tomorrow evening. All members should attend.

LINCOLN FIELDS MUTUELS

Grant, in Sub Role, Wins Over Hermans

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Bobby Grant, 149, Charleston, was given the judges' decision over Jackie Hermans, 149, Wheeling, in a 10-round go here last night.

Grant substituted for Fred Edwards, who was scheduled to fight Hermans, but who was forced to withdraw because of two broken ribs received in training.

BROOKLINE NET PLAY OFF

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 28.—(INS.)—Play in the four national doubles tennis championships today again was postponed, marking the second time this week that the leading men and women tennis stars of the country were held idle by the weather.

Officials at Longwood Cricket Club canceled all of today's matches, putting them over until tomorrow.

Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, furnished the big upset yesterday when they entered the semi-final round at the expense of Ellsworth Vins and Keith Gledhill, the sensational Californians. The scores were 4-6, 10-8, 10-12, 8-6, 6-3.

Giants-Yankees Benefit Game Is Assured

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Owners of the New York Giants and New York Yankees baseball clubs have notified Welfare Commissioner Taylor they are willing to stage a game or series of games for the benefit of unemployment relief. The games would be played either immediately after the close of the league seasons or soon after the world series.

MERMAIDS SET FOR SWIM

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 28.—(AP.)—Hopeful for warm and smooth water, 33 mermaids were here today for the annual ten-mile women's marathon swim in Lake Ontario. Prize money totals $10,000.

Margaret Ravior, of Philadelphia, who won the race last year, expected strong competition, led by Ethel Gary, of New York, who finished third last year; Iren Yurack, of Elmhurst, N. Y., another 1930 money winner, and Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit, May Looney, of Warren, O., and Leah Riley, of Keansburg, N. J., who have shown themselves to be dangerous contenders.

City League finalists Dormont and Whitaker figure in a classic of fussers on the occasion of spotlight on the sandlot baseball stars this evening. The City loop champs have taken the measure and one of the battle between the Books and Dormont for the lead. This game is carded for Dormont.

Originally slated for Wednesday the contest was postponed because of rain and rescheduled for this evening. The Books strengthened their position somewhat last evening by downing the North Side Cubes 6-3 and can afford to lose to the first half champions today.

DORMONT NEEDS WIN

Dormont is anxious to cop the second half of the league chase and avoid making a post-season series to find the representative as it might develop Dormont has a strong club backed by a whale of a lot of pitching and to sew up the City League flag without having to battle through an extra series is exactly what the Dormont citizens desire.

In the other games this evening the J. J. Thomas and Homewood nines trade wallops again while the Cubes battle the Bucks in a North Side feature.

Reliance defeated last evening in the West Penn League meets another tough one this evening in Turtle Creek in the only West Penn circuit clash scheduled.

GRAYS FACE MONARCHS

In the Greater Pittsburgh loop North Braddock takes on Immaculate Heart Whitaker faces Edgewood and Arizona engages Fintex. Beechview and the North Siders have a date to keep in the North-South League and in the Central League Colliers meets Curry.

The Homestead Grays and the Kansas City Monarchs open their five-game series under the lights at Akron tonight. The teams will meet here tomorrow in a double-header at Forbes Field. The two nines battled through an eight-game series last year.

HEAVIES SIGNED CARD TOURNEY AT GREENSBURG

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The Greensburg Country Club will sponsor an invitation tennis tourney on its clay rectangles, beginning Sunday, September 6 and terminating precisely one week thereafter. Definite announcement to the foregoing effect was forthcoming from the Westmoreland County seat late yesterday.

The event marks important advance in district net play for while the Greensburg group has been wont for many years to stage tournaments the impending affair will be the first to which talent from beyond the confines of the Westmoreland bailiwick will be admitted.

Men's singles and doubles, women's singles and mixed doubles will comprise the program of competition, the man-to-man affair being likely to be made up of at least half a hundred entrants, with the other divisions proportionately smaller. A large delegation of Pittsburgher luminaries will certainly be on hand for the contesting.

mey, of Erie, who was Doc's understudy last year, was all set to grab off the varsity position while Daugherty languished on the sidelines.

It is not beyond the range of the possible that Doc will be converted into a quarterback. The quarterback situation at Pitt is not what it might be, and Daugherty, when he was at Kiski, was a backfield man. He is fast and better than that, he is smart.

Wright, Calumet Farm Owner, Dies

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 28 (AP).—William Monroe Wright, 80, owner of Calumet Farm, famous for its trotting horses, died at his home on Versailles pike today. He had never recovered from a paralytic stroke suffered last May 5.

Wright had been unconscious since stricken in May and his family was never able to tell him that his bay colt, Calumet Butler, had won the greatest harness horse honors, the Hambletonian Stakes, at Goshen, N. Y., August 14.

Trotting horses were the pride of Wright's later years and he took particular pride in having bred the great Peter Manning, world champion trotting horse. He had numbers of others that made their names famous on the Grand Circuit tracks.

Youngstown Boys Lead in Shoot

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 28 (AP).—The Hughes brothers, Robert, 17, and Roger, 11, of Youngstown, O., yesterday swept into first place in the National Junior Rifle Association's prone-sitting title shoot here.

Making 389 points out of a possible 400, Robert topped the 15 to 18-year-old division, while Roger took the Class B title for boys and girls under 14, by making 375 out of possible 400. Robert defeated 80 competitors and Roger 70. Each contestant fired 20 shots in prone and sitting positions from 50 feet.

U. S. Team Loses To Hurlingham, 7-6

Lewis Lacey returned to back for Hurlingham and played well in spots.

On the opposition were Averill Harriman, C. V. Whitney, Earle Hopping, Jr., and Dunbar Bostwick. Hopping stood out for most of the game with his hitting and riding.

GRID MEET CARDED

There will be a meeting of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Football Conference in the sporting department of the Sun-Telegraph next Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. All of last year's members and any new clubs in this class should be on hand.

YANKS BEAT SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 28.—The New York Yankees won over Scranton of the New York-Pennsylvania League, in an exhibition game here yesterday afternoon before a crowd of more than 7,000 fans. The score was 9 to 6. The game was halted in the seventh by rain.

BOJARSKI GETS KAYO VICTORY OVER BAXTER

By JAMES MILLER

Chalk victory No. 42 for Frankie Bojarski, Erie southpaw sensation.

The Erie farmer lad kept his umph over Charley Baxter, a a thrilling technical knockout triumph over Charles Baxter, a lightweight formerly of Columbus, O., and now of the North Side in the second round of their scheduled 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, last night.

With two minutes and 50 seconds gone Bojarski unleashed a savage two-fisted attack that raked Baxter's body and head and sent him sprawling through the ropes to the outer ledge of the ring. Baxter's head hit the boards with a resounding smack and it looked like the fight was over. He managed however to pull himself back into the ring and staggered to his feet as Referee Red Robinson's arm descended for the ninth time. Bojarski, standing in a neutral corner, rushed towards the wavering Baxter and let go a right to the body and a left to head and Baxter toppled for the second time. At this point the referee intervened and stopped the affair.

BAXTER STARTS WELL

The first round went to Bojarski but not until he felt a couple of stinging rights thrown by Baxter, who looked as though he was going to give the hay pitcher from the lake town an interesting night. Tommy Ryan, a former bantamweight, of McKeesport, was in Bojarski's corner.

This rugged youngster, Bojarski, is one tough and ready fighter in any man's country. He uses his right as frequent as his left and it carries plenty of power, but with the punch he tags around in that left mitt, he can demand respect from the best of them in the 135-pound class.

As a result of his spectacular win, Bojarski has been matched with Johnny Farr, veteran lightweight, of Cleveland, for the main go in Erie next Friday night.

Wynn (Red) Lyday, of Columbus, O., Bunny Buniachi's find, who was kept under cover for three months (maybe that was the reason) before he was turned loose on the local fans looked like he trained for an alderman's fight instead of a ring contest, when he entered the ring last night in the eight-round semi-final against Henry Attell of Girard, O., and lost the decision.

BOUT BURLESQUE

It was a burlesque of the funniest, with the fat Lyday taking breathing spells on the ropes when the going got too tough, and Attell punching away at him without any real effect. Before the fourth round both fighters were tired. Lyday, in a few of his fighting spells, landed a couple of hard rights to the chin and dazed Attell, but he could not finish him.

At the finish the crowd cheered both fighters, probably for the fun they derived from the go. Both judges agreed on Attell with Referee Jack Henderson voting a draw. Attell weighed 161. Lyday's weight was announced as 168¾, but he looked 10 pounds heavier.

In the opening bout Bobby Vogel, of Erie, won a decision over Jimmy Scott, Negro, of the Hill, in a tough go. Vogel was on the floor for a nine count in the fourth round from a right to the jaw. He came back, changed his stance to that of a southpaw, and battered Scott plenty from then on.

Baby Kid Barry, of Kittanning, and Casey Rhodes, of the Hill, a last-minute substitute for Lee Sale, of Donora, fought an uninteresting second bout with the nod going to Barry, after the judges disagreed and Red Robinson voting for Barry. Frank Hogan voted for a draw and L. K. Meininger for Barry.

Tommy Grant and Steve Russel were the timers, and Harry Klaas the announcer. Dr. J. W. McMeans was the Commission physician. A good crowd was on hand.

Natie Brown, California heavyweight, who aided Max Schmeling in his preparation for his title bout with Stribling, will oppose Billy Jones, Negro light-heavyweight, of Philadelphia, in the main bout at Hickey Park next week.

Fight Results

At Hickey Park, Millvale—Frankie Bojarski won by technical knockout over Charles Baxter, 2 rounds; Henry Attell defeated Wynn (Red) Lyday, 8 rounds; Baby (Kid) Barry won a referee's decision over Casey Rhodes, 8 rounds; Bobby Vogel defeated Jimmy Scott, 8 rounds.

At Johnstown—Johnny Chundo defeated Steve Nugent, 10 rounds; Rose Fields defeated Joey Dragon, 10 rounds; Karo Angelof won by a technical knockout over Eddie Conrad, 2 rounds; Teddy Welsh and Jimmy Vaughn drew 6 rounds; Al Bastian, Stanley Poreda defeated Babe Hunt, 10 rounds.

At New York—Sully Krieger defeated Hans Mueller 8 rounds; Patsy Fasciglli defeated Bobby Hitz, 6 rounds; Al Gainer won by a technical knockout over Leo Rouge, 4 rounds; Louis Jalina and Charley Miller drew, 4 rounds.

WALKER SOLD

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 28 (AP).—Dixie Walker, outfielder of the Jersey City International League club, has been sold to the Toronto Maple Leafs and will report today, James Dunn, vice president of the Leafs, has announced. The addition of Walker is expected to add some strength to Toronto's somewhat crippled lineup.

Says Nick Altrock

Baseball's Comedian

EN ROUTE EAST, Aug. 28.—Funny how the value of base-stealing has declined. Here Ben Chapman, of the Yankees, has stolen more than 50 bases this year and no one has even asked him to put them back.

Nick Altrock

Today folks aren't any more interested in the theft of 50 bases than a payroll robbery of $50-600. You couldn't even get 'em stirred up about the larceny of Teapot Dome and that was before the rabbit ball, too.

I see the Cubs and Giants conceded the Cards the pennant and are now experimenting for 1932. The way the Athletics are going the best the other American League clubs can do is start experimenting for about 1937, when maybe the A's may start to crack.

WINFRED HURLS ONE-HIT FRAY

The turning in of a one-hit game and the announcement from President Elmer Daily that the league would return to eight-club size next year featured the doings in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday.

President Daily said that it had been decided that the 12-club plan under which the loop is operating this year, was all wrong out of step and what have you and that it would line up next year with only eight clubs.

Pitcher Winfred of Scottdale turned Wheeling back with a single hit in the second game of a double-header yesterday, the Little Cardinals winning, 8-0. Wheeling took the first game, 4-3.

Charleroi defeated Beaver Falls twice, the Guys winning 4 to 2 and 4 to 0. Clarksburg took two from Charleston 8-4 and 2-1 and Cumberland defeated Huntington 9-2. Fairmont toppled the leaders, Johnstown 4-1.

LINEYS ANNEX NO-HIT WIN

A no-hit, no-run game in the North-South Twilight League and the second defeat in a row for the Reliance nine featured last evening's doings on the sandlots.

Pitcher Leon Schutzman, of the J. A. Liney club, turned the St. George Lyceum team back, 1-0 at McKinley Park. The game went seven innings. Schutzman did not walk a man, an error depriving him of a perfect game.

In the West Penn League, Marty Griffins defeated Reliance, 1-0 and Linwood gained a tighter hold on the lead by defeating the Homestead Aces, 5-3. Books nosed out the North Side Civics, 3-3, in a City League engagement.

The Homestead Grays had an easy time defeating Punxsutawney, 16 to 3. R. Williams limited the Punxy nine to six hits.

STOCKS RALLY UNDER BOND LEADERSHIP

Shorts Seek Cover as Buying Gains Impetus; 2 to 5-Point Gains Made

For the third successive day, the bond market was inclined to recuperate. News of the marshalling of a private banking credit of such staggering size as effectively to still anxiety over London was generally viewed in financial quarters as highly constructive.

Bulls were encouraged to make further tentative efforts in the stock market, and a quiet but broad recovery quickly developed, apparently gaining momentum on short covering. Advances of a point or so appeared throughout the list, while several issues pushed up 2 to 5 points, including United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse Electric, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Eastman and Case. Divided uncertainties, however, continue to crop out. Chicago and Northwestern preferred traded after a protracted period of inactivity, at 58, off 34 points from the last transaction.

The weekly Federal Reserve Bank statements showed that the system is again injecting credit into the open market, primarily through purchases of bankers' acceptances. This may help the recovery in bonds, and facilitate the autumn pickup in trade.

Call money is again being offered in the outside market as low as 1 per cent.

BROKERS LOANS UP $6,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve Member Banks in New York City increased $6,000,000 during the week ended August 26 to $1,349,000,000, comparing with $1,343,000,000 in the week preceding, and the record high of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

Bank in New York Fails to Open Doors

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Bank of Europe and Trust Company failed to open this morning. The State Banking Department has taken over the institution.

On January 1, Bank of Europe and Trust Company had capital of $1,000,000, surplus of $819,650 and deposits of $13,767,510.

Imports of Copper Declined in June

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Imports of copper in unmanufactured form by the United States in July totaled 15,456 metric tons, against 21,056 tons in June, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Exports by Great Britain totaled 11,946 tons in July, against 13,112 tons in June. Refined copper exports by the United States in July were 16,540 tons, against 16,637 in June.

Federal Reserve Ratios Take Drop

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Ratio of reserves of the Federal Reserve System stands at 79.9 per cent this week, comparing with 80.8 per cent last week and 81.9 per cent a year ago. New York Federal Reserve ratio is now 81.6 per cent as against 83.6 per cent a week ago and 85.2 per cent last year.

N. Y. Reserve Bank Rate Unchanged

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Following meeting of directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, no announcement was made regarding the rediscount rate, which is 1½ per cent.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Raw sugar was steadier early today, with refiners less aggressive and buyers showing a little more interest. Prices advanced about 1.32 of a cent with a sale confirmed of 20,000 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment at 3.40c.

Futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower under scattered September liquidation caused by the circulation of notices, but the offerings were not aggressive and the market firmed up later on increased covering, trade and commission house buying, the latter including some for Far Eastern account. Refined was unchanged at 4.60c for fine granulated, with a full withdrawal d[emand]

Hoover, Green Soften Stand on Wage Cuts

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

THE UNITED STATES Steel Corporation as to [illegible] wages.

[illegible] example will be followed by [illegible] large industrial corporations.

I learn that the lowering of railway wages is now under serious consideration, and, I understand, is likely to be brought to the front [illegible] the next [illegible].

PRESIDENT HOOVER [illegible] understand, has had his former flexibility in wage reductions greatly modified by the stern logic of events. Early in 1930 and this year [illegible] contention originally was that any cutting of wages would hurt purchasing power and thus tend to aggravate business and depression. Since the President enacted his promise in November, 1929, that wages would not be cut, the general price level has declined very substantially. Different computations give different figures as to the extent of the decline, they range all the way from not much more than 10 per cent to 35 per cent and even more.

This drastic fall having occurred, the President, I am told, does not now feel that he can maintain the stand he then took. If the cost of living has gone down 25 to 30 per cent or more, it is easy to see that 10 per cent lower wages would now purchase not less, but more than the full wage rate of 1929.

This fact President Hoover does not feel disposed to dispute even though his belief in the payment of the highest possible wage has not undergone the slightest change. Did he regard it as possible to continue the highest wage rates on record, regardless of how far commodity prices and the cost of living might tumble, he would not budge from his old-time attitude. But I am informed the long duration of the downward movement and the very serious extent of the price drop have caused him to face stern realities and to reach the conclusion that wages are not a thing apart from universal economic conditions but must inevitably be affected, governed by them.

ANOTHER PERSON whose attitude towards wages is of the highest importance and who has been quite as outspoken as President Hoover in opposition to reductions has also, I hear, felt obliged to soften his hostility.

This person is none other than President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Please understand that I cannot vouch for the authenticity of this information since I have not received it direct from either Mr. Hoover or Mr. Green. But events I think you will find will substantiate it before very long.

NATURALLY, MR. GREEN is quite as anxious as President Hoover or any other human being to have the highest wages paid at all times and under all circumstances. But Mr. Green knows better perhaps than any other individual just how far wage "readjustments" already have been put into effect. It is farcical to maintain the pretense that 1929 wage scales have been rigidly maintained. They haven't. They have been lowered in far more instances than the public has been told.

Admittedly, lowering of wages among unorganized employes has been more common than among highly-organized employes. But it is only human nature for a union workman, long out of a job and in dire need, to be tempted to take work at less than union rates or to grab at something outside his own craft. Should the gap between union scales and the rates at which employers find it possible to obtain all the help they need continue to widen month after month, what would be the effect upon the American Federation of Labor and its component unions? A. F. of L. officials have no desire, of course, to see the membership melt away.

THE INFORMATION gathered by this reporter is that there will be no wholesale cutting of wages by the steel corporation all along the line at one fell swoop, but that re-adjustments will be made here and there, beginning with the wage scales which are regarded by the management as most out of line with current conditions. Similar action is contemplated by other large industrial organizations. The railway problem is regarded as more complicated because of Federal regulation and other considerations.

IN THE HIGHEST financial circles the feeling is more widespread now than ever before that the sooner contemplated wage changes are affected, the sooner will the foundation be laid for rebuilding sound prosperity.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—It is probable Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation will retire before the end of the year its present outstanding 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock, which is callable at 110.

Change in Census Growth To Affect Industry

By GEORGE B. SNYDER

BUSINESS MEN WHO LIKE to make long range studies, and by long range we mean more than a matter of five or 10 years, are beginning to take an interest in population figures. There is nothing in these dry studies to worry us just now but some statisticians see a trend which may cause a far reaching change in business in the distant future.

The entire economic history of the United States has been predicated on the most sensational gain in population ever recorded in history. This growth, due to a high birth rate as well as to the rush of immigration, had the effect of covering up most of the mistakes made in industry. It did not matter if there was an excess of productive capacity in any particular line. Within a few years the rising tide of population justified the most extravagant expansion. It did not matter if the high powered salesman sold you a lot miles from the center of the city. Sooner or later expansion would justify the purchase.

The remarkable growth in the value of American corporations and the building of great American fortunes in almost all cases can be laid to the fact that there was a year by year increase in the number of buyers. Of course, the speculative enthusiasm due to such a rapidly developing civilization was responsible for occasional periods of acute depression, such as we are experiencing at present. But in the long run the prosperity born of growth was uninterrupted.

Change In Trend Seen

THE POPULATION OF THE United States is still growing and business may expect its yearly increases in buyers for a long time to come. But the rate of growth is slowing down perceptibly. Not in 10 years or 20 years will this cause a serious change in economic conditions but it seems quite probable that young men entering business today may find a much different state of affairs before their careers are over.

A study of this subject made by the New York Trust Company declares:

"In the first half of the nineteenth century, this country's population increased nearly five-fold, or from 5,000,000 to 23,000,000. Between 1850 and 1900, it more than tripled, rising to nearly 76,000,000 in 1900. Thus the population increased 15 times during the century. In recent years, however, the rate of increase of the United States' population has been declining and it is now believed that by about 1980 it will be virtually stationary at approximately 180,000,000."

Immigration a Factor

RESTRICTIONS PLACED UPON immigration shortly after the war had an influence in checking the increasing population. A lower birth rate and the fact that there are few unsettled portions of the country remaining has also had a bearing on the changing state of affairs.

In conclusion the New York Trust Company survey says:

"The most significant conclusion to be drawn from a study of American population trends is that, in the future, the number of consumers will not increase with anything like the same rapidity as in the past. Industry can no longer rely, as in the past, upon a doubling of the population every 35 or 40 years."

GOLD HOLDINGS UP IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The huge gold holdings of the United States were augmented in the week ending yesterday by $9,000,000. This was added to the $4,983,000,000 which the week before had established a record. In the last year the gold holdings of this country more than twice as much as held by any other nation, increased by $489,000,000.

Last week there was also $42,000,000 more currency in circulation than on August 19. During the last year money in circulation increased $547,000,000 and officials have recently attributed the increase as being chiefly due to hoarding throughout the country.

WHEAT TRADING TURNS STEADY

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Wheat trading had a fairly steady tone at the start today in sympathy with news from abroad. Less pressure of Russian wheat was reported. Corn encountered selling on reports of heavy rains over part of the belt, but firmed quickly after scattered buying orders revealed a lack of selling pressure. Wheat firmed in sympathy with corn. Wheat started steady to ¼ lower. Corn was unchanged to ¼ down, but reacted sharply to above yesterday's finish.

Corn rallied to above yesterday's close when small buying orders disclosed a marked lack of offerings. Report of heavy rains in Iowa were regarded as bearish at the start. Unofficial reports from Nebraska said corn had deteriorated 34 per cent in the last month. Light frosts were forecast for parts of Wisconsin tonight. Oats strengthened with other grains. Provisions were stronger with hogs and grains.

HEARST SHARES PAY DIVIDEND

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—(Universal)—The board of directors of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 43¾ cents per share on the Class "A" 7 per cent preferred shares, payable September 15 to stockholders of record September 1, it was announced today.

A dividend of 43¾ cents per share was also declared on the common stock.

The earnings ratio of three to one over dividend requirements has been maintained during the first seven periods of 1931, it was asserted.

Traders Complain About No Public Following For Pools

Trader members of the various groups which were operating in the market recently have been complaining because of the lack of public following. Buying in most cases came from those who frequent the customers' rooms of commission houses and attempt to scalp small profits when individual stocks show an upward movement. Several of the pools withdrew from the market recently because the public did not join as buyers. One reason for the small public interest is the continued attitude of conservative observers in keeping clients on the side lines. Their theory is that the market should be permitted to prove its ability to carry through on rallies before a long position is adopted.

Considerable discussion is heard regarding railroad wages. Many authorities are of the opinion that officials of the leading carriers would rather have a reduction in wages than an increase in freight rates. A higher charge for transporting products could divert some traffic to trucks, etc. The effect of a wage cut would be certain and could be estimated accurately by every carrier. Should the Interstate Commerce Commission fail to grant the necessary relief to the roads, it is probable that strenuous attempts will be made toward reducing wages through agreements with the workers, as the latter could then be made to realize the precarious position of many of the roads.

Importance is attached to the continued expansion of the outlet for quick-frozen food products of Birdseye Packing Company, an affiliate of General Foods. In this connection considerable comment is heard on the fact that distribution is now in progress in the New York territory. One of the leading department stores has installed facilities to display and handle the quick frozen products. This should increase further the volume of this branch of the company's business, which has been increasing steadily in recent months.

Houses interested in the market for Curtiss-Wright have been emphasizing the importance of the control over expenses which the management has obtained. One of the important factors in this program was the plant consolidations which were accomplished in the early months of the current year. They have been responsible for an encouraging reduction in costs. A reflection of this change was seen in the earnings for the second quarter, which showed a loss of only $375,029, compared with a loss of $3,730,740 in the corresponding period of last year. For the six months ended June 30, last, the net loss amounted to $1,463,154, contrasted with a loss of $5,551,661 in the first half of 1930.

Seeking an explanation for the recent selling in the tobacco shares, in additon to the fact that there was a good sized July production drop, some interests have been calling attenton to the fact that about 12 states are levying a tax ranging from 2 cents to 5 cents on cigarets. Many of the financial district believe, nevertheless, that liquidation in these shares has been overdone. Short selling has been reported in some of the leaders, so that their technical position must have been strengthened.

Compulsory restriction of crude oil production in the Southwest, substantially strengthening the price structure for crude and refined petroleum products, has helped restore confidence not only in the oil industry but in general business as well, according to reports from Oklahoma and Texas centers. If the industry can demonstrate its ability, with the help of civil authorities, to adjust output to demand, stabilizing prices on a level satisfactory to producers and consumers, general business will quickly improve, in the opinion of O. R. Seagraves, chairman of the Republic Gas Corporation, for many years a successful oil and gas operator in the midcontinent fields. Increased expenditures in the oil industry for royalties, supplies, wages, etc., may be expected to have a beneficial effect in many directions, he pointed out.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The curb market perked up a little today, in sympathy with the further run in of shorts on the big board. Utilities showed group firmness and oils were very lightly traded.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded. (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list.)

RESERVE ACT AMENDMENT PROPOSED

Member Bank Depositors Would Be Safeguarded Against Loss of Funds

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

Author and Financial Editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—One thing as certain as anything can be about the doings of the next Congress is that it will pass stringent laws to prevent bank failures. United States senators already have been canvassed by a group in Louisville, Ky. Of about one-half who replied, 22 positively stated they believe the present banking laws inadequate.

This view the public agrees with. Although the record of bank failures this year will be much better than last, it is bad enough so far. In 1930, 1,345 banks in this country suspended payment.

SAFETY ATTAINABLE

Banking should be conducted so as to make loss by depositors impossible. This perfect safety is attainable. In the interest of furthering discussion on this important subject the following proposal is offered: Require by law each of the 12 Federal Reserve banks to guarantee payment of all deposits in its member banks.

To do this amendment of the Federal Reserve act is all the law-making necessary.

The results would be banks safe for depositors under all circumstances, a banking system sounder than any "branch banking" system in the world.

BANKERS RESPONSIBLE

Such a system would require no guaranty by the government of the United States—no federal sponsorship beyond that already expressed in the Federal Reserve act. No government paternalism enters into this proposal. It is founded on the theory of insurance.

Responsibility for proper banking would not be thrown upon the government, but upon bankers, where it belongs.

The United States furnishes none of the capital of the Federal Reserve banks. Every dollar of it is subscribed by member banks. If a member bank failed, any loss to depositors would be made up out of the capital of the Federal Reserve Bank in the district. This loss would be prorated back on the other member banks.

ENORMOUS PROFITS

The Federal Reserve banks have made enormous profits since they were established in 1914. They have paid member banks in dividends more than $100,000,000; have transferred to capital approximately $275,000,000.

Federal Reserve banks now have ample power to examine the condition of member banks. If they had to guarantee deposits of those member banks the examinations would be as rigid as they ought to be.

Furthermore banks unworthy of receiving people's deposits would not be allowed to become, or to remain, members of the Federal Reserve System. Banks that did not become members of the Federal Reserve System could not expect to engage the highest public confidence.

PLAN TO FIGHT OIL MERGER

BRISTOW, Okla., Aug. 28.—It is reported here that if Bristow owners of Prairie Oil and Gas Company stock have anything to say about it, there will be no Sinclair-Prairie merger, at least not until the offer of Sinclair takes into account the 60,000,000 barrels of crude oil owned by the Prairie.

Protests against the reported merger plan are being sent to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., because he is believed to be one of the factors in the owning group of Prairie who can block the move.

The basis of the protest reported to be concurred in by some stockholders at other points, is that only 2,000,000 shares of Prairie stock are outstanding, while the book value of this stock is estimated to be at least $40,000,000.

Bristow stockholders understand that Sinclair wants to take in the stored oil at 10 to 20 cents a barrel. Where their information came from was not stated as there has been no definite announcement of the merger deal.

Bids Asked on Big Pipe Line Project

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 28.—Stanolind Pipe Lines Company, subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, is to receive bids on August 29 for construction of a series of loops along its main line from Healdton, Okla., to Chicago. The loops consist of 190 miles of 12-inch line, 90 miles of 10-inch, and 100 miles of 8-inch pipe.

The addition of these loops will increase the capacity of the line to 140,000 barrels daily from 85,000 barrels at present.

Real Estate Firm Appoints Manager

The Commonwealth Real Estate Company, the oldest-established real estate organization in Pittsburgh, has evidenced its faith in the real estate of Pittsburgh by the enlargement of its force in the appointment of J. F. McClurg as sales manager. Mr. McClurg has a large acquaintance and is well and favorably known among real estate interests.

New Bond Offerings Drop During Week

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—New bond offerings during the week ended today, totaled $8,150,000, comparing with $8,446,000 last week and $67,907,000 in the like period of 1930.

Mart Will Remove Local Utility Issue

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The New York Stock Exchange will strike from the list on September 8 Philadelphia Company common stock, $50 par.

WALL STREET HEARS

That the recent selling in Kreuger & Toll has largely come from abroad, principally London.

That Bendix Aviation has the sponsorship of a new pool.

That further meetings of large copper producers will be held shortly to discuss further curtailment of production.

That United States Steel will make no wholesale wage reduction, but will make certain readjustments here and there in the schedule.

Fanchon Learns of Evelyn's Indiscreet Affairs

CHAPTER XIV.

Fanchon's mind was working furiously. Evidently Evelyn had left Hawaii under some sort of cloud. Evidently this Collin Carstairs had had her looked up and had found out all about it. And, very evidently, she had given Jennie's name as her nearest relative and had refrained from telling the people in her last position anything of her Island experiences. Now that Fanchon looked back, she recalled that on the boat during their mutual journey, Evelyn had questioned her closely concerning her knowledge of the school in which Evelyn had taught in Hawaii, and, finding that she knew nothing, had dropped the subject.

"I dislike" said Fanchon coldly, "all this hinting and implying. Please endeavor to make yourself a trifle clearer, Mr. Carstairs."

He lifted an eyebrow.

"Must I, dear cousin?"

"I am afraid so. For" she went on "you labor very evidently under a false apprehension."

"I think not" he said smoothly. "In the first place, shortly after your arrival in Hawaii you compromised yourself rather severely with a naval officer. A married man.

"When the story broke and you were questioned you wrote in tears that you had not known Commander Gaines was married although his story did not agree with yours. He said he had told you and that very distinctly. Your employers, however, gave you the benefit of the doubt, whereupon you distinguished yourself by a very indiscreet, very sentimental—flirtations let us call it with a native who was employed in a minor capacity about the school.

REMAINS SILENT

"You interested yourself in his welfare, you gave him lessons in English; you entertained yourself with shall we call it getting back to nature—with Hawaiian nature? The man was young, handsome and gifted. He was also a rather simple soul. He understood that you were willing to marry him. When you refused, in righteous anger and horror, he made a scene. A scene which nearly cost you your life. When it came to the ears and eyes of the school directors, you were immediately persuaded to sail for San Francisco."

Fanchon was scarlet. Evelyn! Evelyn! She felt a pang of pity for the silly, weak, selfish and insincere girl who played with fire and led her way out of it. No use to protest. This man knew what he was talking about. Was she wondered, was everybody escaping from something? She had thought herself the only desperate person aboard that ill-fated plane. But Evelyn in her way, had been as desperate.

"Have you," she asked steadily, "adequate proofs of all you say?"

He looked at her with something approaching admiration. She had not, he told himself, turned a hair. And her eyes, very calmly on his own, very beautiful, were not the eyes of guilt or shame.

MRS. CARSTAIRS KNOWS

"Yes," he answered shortly, "otherwise I would not have made my accusations."

"Your mother, knows?" asked Fanchon, and leaned forward, curiously intent upon his answer.

"Well, naturally," he answered in some astonishment. "People . . . acquaintances of hers who knew your relationship to us, and who happened to be in Hawaii, and to have heard the general scandal, wrote her. It was that which determined her to write you and ask you to make your home with us. She did so, therefore, after you had been in San Francisco a time. It took her a little while to arrange matters, to find out your address after you had left the school. Naturally, you left no forwarding address." She said . . . that you should be given your chance. I agreed. She, therefore, wrote you and asked you to come. But in your acceptance and in your subsequent letters you told her nothing, made no mention of the circumstances under which you left Hawaii. That, I confess, is what antagonized me. I was willing" said Collin, "to overlook all that had gone before, your parents' attitude toward my mother, and what was at the time, obviously, your own. Loyal to them, you were. I could understand that, for I was loyal to my mother. But this silence, this naive acceptance of everything my mother offered in, I must say, having read your letters, a most righteous and I-deserve-it-spirit—was not calculated to make me wish to receive you with friendship."

Fanchon said, slowly, not heeding him.

COLLIN ASTONISHED

"So she knew—all the time!"

"Yes, of course." Collin answered, impatiently.

He was astonished to see the girl's mouth quiver, her eyes mist over. He could not know that her heart was going out to Jennie Carstairs in a rush of warm, if vicarious, gratitude. She was remembering the way in which Jennie had taken her to her heart, she was remembering the utter lack of reproach, of mention of any of this story to her. She was recalling Jennie's embarrassed little apology for what she knew Collin's attitude would be . . . "loyal," she had said of him. But she had not mentioned by word, look or gesture the things she knew about Evelyn Howard. She had merely waited for the girl herself to confess. The confession had not come, yet Jennie had not changed one iota toward her in her attitude of affection and consideration.

"Well," asked Collin, "have you anything to say—for yourself? Have you anything—to tell my mother—in your own defense?"

CONDEMNS ATTITUDE

"Just a moment," said Fanchon, suddenly. "Please tell me by what right you set yourself up as a judge of me? Is your own life so—perfect—that you can afford to judge and condemn me, Mr. Carstairs?"

He had the grace to flush.

"No. I don't condemn you . . . what you did . . . or left undone," he said slowly. "I simply condemn your attitude of self-righteousness toward my mother. That's all."

Fanchon said:

"I see. There is no use in my trying to deny your accusations. I think I know you well enough, even in this brief time, to realize that you would not have accepted mere hearsay. I am right, am I not, in concluding that you have been in communication with—" she hesitated, realizing that she did not know the name of the school or the people who ran it—"with those quite conversant with the situation," she went on, after a brief pause.

He nodded. His eyes were intent upon her own. Hers did not falter in their brilliant blue gaze, very direct, very lovely.

Synopsis

Young and beautiful Fanchon Meredith leaves San Francisco by airplane to escape arrest in connection with a murder in which her sweetheart, Tony, is implicated. She had not known that he was a gunman. Evelyn Howard, whom Fanchon had met on a voyage from Hawaii, is aboard. She is en route to New York to live with her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Allison Carstairs, whom she has never seen. The plane crashes and all but Fanchon are killed. Grasping the opportunity to start life anew, Fanchon goes to the Carstairs home as Evelyn. Mrs. Carstairs' affection wins her heart. At Southampton, awaiting the arrival of her son, Collin, Mrs. Carstairs warns Fanchon not to take him seriously. He arrives and accuses Fanchon of being there under false pretenses. Collin objects to "Evelyn." He alludes to Evelyn's Hawaiian escapades.

Now Go On

DAILY SHORT STORY

Diplomat's Proposal Accepted By Beautiful Girl

"When," said Mrs. Dutton, nodding her pretty head for emphasis, "a man is a woman hater, there is plenty of hope for him."

"I should say there was," drawled Mr. Dutton, winking at his niece.

Mrs. Dutton eyed her husband suspiciously.

"Just how do you mean that, Gwinnett?"

"Why—uh—if a man is a woman-hater, there is hope for him."

"In what way?"

"He may never get over it. Now being a woman-hater, a man does not become off his feet, morose, sad and inclined to suicide when, upon seeing you, he learns that you are already married and that your husband is healthy and inclined to frown upon any hint of relinquishing you."

Mrs. Dutton smiled a little but turned to Shelia Dutton, her husband's niece.

"Shelia, my dear—do you see?"

"Never," she said, "marry a diplomat. Your Uncle Gwinnett is a diplomat. He has been for years and even now, when he has retired from the service, he is more of a diplomat than ever."

"What is there so terrible about a diplomat? I think that Uncle Gwin is a darling," Shelia said.

"A large part of a diplomat's work consists of making people think he is a darling. That is the way he got me. But what I am driving at is that a diplomat can make you believe that white is black, and especially that black is white. Did you notice how he started to declare that a woman-hater was a fortunate man because it would keep him free from women—"

MAKE GOOD HUSBANDS

"But Aunt Vi, he didn't quite—"

"That's just it, Shelia. The moment he realized that I understood his remark he turned it into a beautiful compliment to me—and what can I do?"

"Accept the compliment, you deserve it," said Shelia.

Mrs. Dutton eyed the girl a moment.

"You have inherited some of your uncle's diplomatic traits, my dear, along with the Dutton auburn hair."

"It is downright red, auntie."

"It is downright pretty, my dear. Now what I was trying to get at is this—as I started to say, when a man is a woman-hater there is hope for him. In fact, probably 99 per cent of men who start out as woman-haters finally fully recover, fall madly in love and make fairly desirable husbands."

"Oh," Shelia suddenly exclaimed, "is this Harlan Mattherson a woman hater?"

"No, unfortunately, Harlan Mattherson is not a woman hater. If he were I would say that there was some hope for him."

"You mean some hope for Shelia," Mr. Dutton interposed, mildly.

His wife pretended to glare at him.

"If you are insinuating that I am out matchmaking for Shelia—"

POLITE TO WOMEN

She hesitated and turned rather pink. Shelia kept her eyes to the gray flagstones of the terrace.

"Harlan Mattherson," she finally went on, briskly, "is quite hopeless because he is not a woman hater. He is wholly indifferent to women and that means that he is hopeless. He isn't afraid of women, he isn't interested in women and he is always sweetly polite to them."

"Indifferent?" Shelia asked.

"Absolutely, and that is hopeless. A person who has any sort of an emotion is susceptible to a change in the emotion. A woman hater may become a woman lover, but a man who is utterly indifferent to women will always remain that way."

"Then," Shelia said, "I am not to exert myself to interest this wonderful Harlan Mattherson when he arrives?"

"You couldn't, my dear," her uncle said.

"For once" Mrs. Dutton remarked, "I heartily agree with my husband."

"Good—that's a relief. I rather half suspected, when I learned that this Mr. Matherson was coming for a week that you two were planning to marry me off."

"What an idea," gasped Mrs. Dutton.

"She means, what a swell idea," Dutton said, and then he added, hastily, "You're a Dutton, Shelia, you're the marrying type. But of course you will wait until you are suited, regardless of the wishes of others."

Shelia sighed.

"I suppose so. Only I haven't found the man who can make me sit right up and think in terms of trousseaus and honeymoons."

"You will, dear," Mrs. Dutton assured her, "only don't let this Harlan Mattherson make you think of trousseaus and honeymoons, for he is not and never will be the marrying sort."

"Ah, you dear, this has all been in the form of a warning—rather diplomatically put."

"Yes, Shelia, that's just about it."

"Why worry? Shelia wouldn't look twice at Hal," Mr. Dutton murmured.

But Shelia did look twice at Mr. Harlan Mattherson when he arrived at the beautiful country estate of the Duttons. The man was her ideal age, 35. He was her ideal in height and hair and eyes and chin.

Mr. Mattherson, who dabbled in international affairs as some men would dabble in stamps or some other hobby, was quite as Mrs. Dutton described, very polite and pleasant, but without the least light of interest in his eyes so far as Shelia was concerned. His face would become expressive and his eyes glow with interest when Dutton began to discuss international politics, but that was all.

"Did he make you think of trousseaus and honeymoons?" Mrs. Dutton asked Shelia.

"Not after your warning, but he made me think of West Point cadets, collar advertisements and plumed and armored knights," Shelia confessed.

"Don't fall, dear."

"Of course not. I shall be indifferent."

"That would work with some men, but not with Mr. Matterson."

Shelia laughed gaily. "I shall waste no efforts in his direction. There is one flaw that would make him undesirable as a husband—his wife would be constantly worried for fear some woman or women would steal him."

EXCELLENT SWIMMER

She wished that she didn't thrill so when Mr. Mattherson chatted with her or sat beside her at the tennis court and strolled beside her on the terrace after dinner.

There was, to Shelia's way of thinking, but one drawback to Granite Highlands, her uncle's immense country estate. There was no bathing, no seashore, no sylvan pond. The river ran down the glen full of torrents of white water and jagged rocks with not a swimming pool.

Shelia was an excellent swimmer. She loved the water. When there came an unusually sweltering night, even for the country, she crept out from her room about 2 in the morning and went to the long pool in the sunken garden. It was like fairyland, girt about with firs and shrubs and flower beds along the grassy edges.

In the center of the pool was a great silver gazing ball that reflected the sky and water, the greens and the flaming blossoms.

Shelia slipped out of her robe and plunged in. She might have been on a desert island, she was so alone there. The water was limpid, cool, refreshing.

Then came the morning when Mr. Harlan Mattherson, deeply engrossed in a problem of statecraft, could not sleep. He lighted a cigar and strolled out on the terrace, down the slope and through the hedge of firs and flowering shrubs to the pool in the sunken garden. His steps had crunched on the white gravel of the path, and Shelia, posing on the great silver gazing ball for a dive, heard and stood motionless and frightened.

The steps came nearer. By moving her eyes she could recognize Mattherson in the moonlight. His lighted cigar glowed as he paced up and down. And then he sat down on a marble bench and seemed lost in thought.

Shelia was ready to dive, to scream, she was so frightfully tired of standing poised on the great silver ball. Then she heard his steps. She struggled to steady herself as Harlan Matherson walked around the great pool and then disappeared.

Shelia climbed down, slipped noiselessly into the pool, got to the edge and picked up her robe. Never again would she go down there without a bathing suit.

She sneaked to her room unseen. Then the thing seemed terribly funny, the idea of her posing as a sort of statue of Aphrodite.

At breakfast Mattherson said, "Couldn't sleep last night, took a walk around the pool in the sunken garden. Couldn't sleep then, so I was back there soon after daylight, I say, Dutton, what happened to the statue of Aphrodite that was there in the pool about 2 this morning? It wasn't there at sunrise."

"Statue of Aphrodite? Man, you were dreaming! I have only a silver gazing ball there."

MATTHERSON PROPOSES

Shelia gasped and could utter no word.

"Shelia," he said, "I always said that no less than an Aphrodite would suit me as a wife, so I am proposing to her." He took her hand. She raised her eyes to his.

"What do you say?" he asked. "I wanted to propose last night but—"

"Oh!" said Shelia, her cheeks more crimson than ever, and her eyes sparkling.

"Well, Shelia, what do you say?"

"I say 'yes'——"

He kissed her.

"—— and 'thank you,'" answered Shelia.

Keeping a Promise

Gov. Pinchot Justifies the Faith of His Supporters by His Move to Prevent Election Fraud.

As a candidate for Governor, Gifford Pinchot promised to do what he could to stop election cheating in Pennsylvania.

The coming of a member of his cabinet, Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the Commonwealth, to Pittsburgh this week to see what was being done to insure that none but legal votes would be cast or counted in the approaching primary was in fulfillment of the pledge.

No other instance of a Governor's thus acting to preserve the purity of the ballot in Pittsburgh can be recalled. Pinchot has shown that he was in earnest, and it is a hopeful augury. In this at least the Governor has justified the faith of his supporters.

While wholesale fraud has already been attempted in the assessment of voters the activities of the Registration Commission are reassuring. There was complaint that they had favored this or that faction in the appointment of registrars, but it is asserted that they gave all of the contending elements representation on the theory that they would watch each other and prevent cheating. At any rate Beamish professed after an investigation to be satisfied with the commission's work.

There is talk of asking Gov. Pinchot to send state police to Pittsburgh on the three registration days to prevent fraudulent registration. It seems probable that if the commission deems this necessary Pinchot will grant the request.

Second only in importance to the prevention of dishonesty at the polls is the need of getting the qualified voters out to cast their ballots. It is gratifying to find the Building Owners and Managers Association, the Allied Boards of Trade and the Civic Club conducting vigorous campaigns to persuade citizens to do their civic duty.

Pay for Prisoners

System at Western Penitentiary Should Be Conducive to Contentment of Inmates.

The outbreak at the Michigan State Penitentiary at Marquette yesterday, in which five lives were lost, naturally raises the question, as every such affair must, if our own penal institutions are secure against insurrections of the convicts.

There chanced to be issued yesterday a report which has some bearing on the matter. It has to do with the payment of wages to Pennsylvania convicts for their work in prison industries.

Twelve hundred inmates of our state prisons are on the payroll, the Western Pennsylvania Penitentiary leading with 366, largely because of its weaving and automobile license tag departments, which use more than 100 men each. Many other prisoners are working, but are not on the payroll.

The chance of earning wages in prison should be conducive to contentment and thus tend to prevent uprisings like that at Marquette.

Minnesota's Farm Plan

The Procedure Followed in the Northwest Could Be Applied to Pennsylvania With Advantage.

Commenting on the current state crop report, we called attention Wednesday to the diversity of Pennsylvania's farm products and suggested that an important reason why Pennsylvania farmers are not so hard hit by low prices as agriculturists in other parts of the country is because they do not carry all their eggs in one basket.

Frederick E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, who has launched a nation-wide educational campaign from New York to interest the business leaders of the country in agriculture, states that farm income in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana was increased $700,000,000 in eight years by getting away from wheat growing and into dairying, livestock and general farming—that is, by diversifying the farm products.

The change was effected through the application of what is known as the Minnesota Plan, a plan containing provisions that could be applied with advantage to Pennsylvania agriculture.

The Chamber of Commerce and local bankers have shown interest of late in the improvement of farming conditions in the Pittsburgh district. It would be worth their while to look into the Minnesota Plan, especially its provisions for loaning money to farmers for the purchase of livestock.

The Minnesota Plan has worked wonders in the Northwest. We believe it can be made to promote prosperity in Pennsylvania.

A Sweet-Toned Bell

East Liberty Residents Will Be Glad to Continue to Hear a Familiar Tolling.

There is poetry and pleasurable emotion in the sound of bells, as Poe, Gray and a multitude of other poets have told us.

But for some reason or other bells have been going out of fashion in recent years, and many a church and schoolhouse that would have been equipped with a bell as a matter of course a decade or two ago is now without one.

Residents of East Liberty will be glad to know that they are not to be deprived, during the progress of the building of the new East Liberty Presbyterian Church, of the familiar tolling of the sweet-toned bell that stood in the old church.

The old church has been razed to make way for a magnificent Gothic cathedral donated by Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mellon, but the old bell has been erected in a makeshift belfry and will continue to send out its solemn and impressive message.

What Europe Sees

(Copyright, 1931.)

International bankers have decreed the cancellation of war debts owing to this nation.

Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, has charged that the debt moratorium merely paves the way for the entire wiping out of the moneys justly due us.

He said: "We now have a moratorium by which our country has lost two hundred and fifty million dollars this year. We are about to have a cancellation of debts by which our people will lose some eight thousand million dollars, all of which will have to be paid by American taxpayers."

Why cannot our head servants give some thought to America, to our long lines of jobless, to our heavily burdened taxpayers instead of puttering around with European affairs?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Because He Came

Because he came, because he went
And left no outward trace,
Another well might doubt his feet
Had trodden in this place,

For all who do not know how life
Can make one soul of twain
It might be hard to trace his thought
That speaks from out my brain.

It might be difficult to know
How with his eyes I see,
How every judgment I achieve
By him was given to me,

Another might not comprehend
Just how, through good and ill,
Within my life, within my heart
His presence lodges still.

Because he came, because he went
Like water or like wind,
Another might not recognize
This self he left behind.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Thoughts while strolling: Wonder what Shakespeare would think of our Rialto? Hope Williams and Beatrice Lillie have identical profiles. Delicatessen slogan: "Our fame warrants our name." The Park avenue club doorman whose name is Pat Noonan. But is called Toothunter Swonque!

Geraldine Farrar, a Melrose, Mass., girl who made good in the city. Those brimmed postage stamp hats ladies wear cocked on one side. The roly-poly Pitt Sanborn, music critic. Few offer the worldly diffidence of a cub reporter. Orchids $1.50 each. And not many takers.

The Chrysler spire reminds me of a stubby thumb. A New York branch of the Paris Hermes—leather things. Oscar of the Waldorf suggests one of those ruddy cheeked English curates. The terrific expense of the huge fur stores in summer. Now I'm a fur worrier.

A gathering of clouds, sudden blackness, a shower and all is sunny again. That's the way trouble vanishes. Thackery represented 40 as the age of settled sobriety. But that was long ago. Today the boys just begin to cut up at that age. Nobody seems jealous of Bob Ripley's amazing success.

Buster West and Eddie Foy, Jr., walk alike. And there's Charles King who walks like George M. Cohan. But the most graceful walker of all is Jack Dempsey. Bob Davis has finally talked me into playing a game of golf. Wellington Cross and his wife.

Chalked haughtiness on the sidewalk in front of the Vanderbilt home. Radio City is beginning to take shape. I always get off balance turning a Broadway and Fifty-seventh street corner. Just a flutterer in the wind. One of Broadway's squarest-shooters—Sime Silverman.

Lou Forman, the Palace conductor. Ragged tads with chewing gum on sticks fishing for coins through subway gratings. Tony Biddle wears the widest winged collar since Louis Mann's. Walking all through the white lights I remember but two signs—the girls swinging at Forty-seventh street and the news bulletin flashes.

Another one of those Beekman and Sutton Places has sprung up at the foot of West 86th street overlooking the bleakness of Welfare Island. It is four blocks along East End avenue and facing the clump of greenery known as Carl Schurz Park. On either side of the aristocratic area stretches a tenement neighborhood. Vincent Astor is reputed to have sponsored it and flung up one of the most pretentious apartment houses.

On the river side of Schurz Park is an asphalt esplanade with comfortable benches where a friend and I rested a moment. Out of the park came a well dressed, clean-cut and hatless young man. Approaching us he told excitedly of having just arrived from California and that he must have something to do—any sort of odd job for a meal and a place to sleep. His embarrassment was acute and both of us reached instinctively for a coin. "I'm not a beggar," he said and his chin quivered. Before we could stop him he rushed off. In the car going home we saw him on a corner a few blocks away, stopped and motioned to him, but again he walked swiftly on—the most pathetic picture of complete bewilderment I ever saw.

My friend and I drove on in a silence of self-accusation. Unfairly, we had judged a personable youth immediately as a beggar. I am satisfied the young man was a stranger, sincerely honest and frightened by a great city. Our treatment was impulsively thoughtless but nevertheless shabby, and if he tried to shame us he did the job thoroughly.

* * *

Incidentally, my friend, from out of town, is quite deaf but has found a way of enjoying the best shows and concerts while in town. By sending his seat number and $7.50 four days in advance to an agency an ear phone is installed. A sterilized ear piece awaits at the box office to attach to the handle.

* * *

Billy B. Van sends me a bottle of concentrated pine to sprinkle into a jar of sand, place near the bed "and woo sleep in the aroma of a great, clean forest. . . ." I'm trying it out tonight and with my imagination I'll probably show up for breakfast swarming with red ants.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"I don't always agree with you!" you say, looking mad.

Well, suppose you don't? Why get so smoked up about it? Why act as if you'd been insulted?

Personally, I don't care a hoot whether you agree with me or not. I'm not trying to make you agree with me. I'm just thinking aloud—trying to get at the rights of things. Sometimes I hit the truth. Oftener I don't. And even when I do find something that seems true to me, it may not seem true to you. For no two people ever see truth in the same way. But what of it? Why should I get mad because you don't agree with my notion of the truth? Why should you get mad because I don't agree with yours?

But this isn't a yes-column. It says things you don't like. Rude, upsettings things. Things that challenge your comfortable theories and raise Cain with your pretty day-dreams. You don't want to think . . . you don't want to be disturbed. But this column makes you think . . . makes you argue . . . makes you fight for your convictions.

And what happens?

Action happens.

Suddenly you find yourself out on the firing line, doubting, denying, wondering, rebelling, hurling yourself into new territories, risking new adventures.

GROWING.

Growth—that is what happens when you meet disagreement. And that's the greatest thing that could possibly happen to you. Yet how you try to avoid it!

Maybe that's what ails you—

For years you've been complaining because you can't get ahead. Other people get ahead but you stay stuck in the same old rut. Why? You blame it on fate. You say you never get the breaks. But is that true? Haven't you had your chance—again and again—

Yes, I know—it was never EXACTLY the chance you wanted. There was always a handicap.... an inconvenience .... something that seemed offensive or dangerous or tiresome. So you passed it up because you had always avoided offensive, dangerous or tiresome things—

And now you're complaining that you never get ahead—but whose fault is it? How can you get ahead if you're always dodging the main traffic—always seeking some pleasant, safe, secluded by-path?

Conflict, criticism, competition, they are what you need. Something to jolt your ignorance, swat your conceit, challenge your cowardice—

You don't agree with me, you say?

Then thank God for it!

Thank God for everything that makes life more upsetting, more exciting—for everything that puts you on your mettle!

Prohibition Is Vicious; It Destroys Man's Soul

By BRAND WHITLOCK

(Copyright, 1931, by Brand Whitlock.)

With all their mystical fervor and their acquired mastery of political technique, its proponents, alone and unaided, could never have accomplished their ends if they had not received aid from a more practical and cynical source.

There was a time when vested interests felt themselves bound together in a sort of comity and so long as this was the case the liquor interests were secure in the possession of their property and their rights acquired under the law.

Brewers and distillers might feel that their property was as sacred as that of other manufacturers. They were as good as anybody, and if they did not have quite so high a rank among the rich and grand as they would have in England, for instance—still, they enjoyed the consideration shown everywhere to wealth.

Many a peer of England brews

AT any rate, their rich friends had always stood by them, and effectively opposed any reform that might injure them. But, just as the merchants in Macochee, Ohio, when they got it into their heads that the money going over the bar of the saloon might just as well be coming over the counters of their shops, ceased to oppose Prohibition and voted the town dry, so these old friends and supporters, when they perceived that they might find something to their advantage in Prohibition, threw over the brewers and the distillers, came out for reform, and joined in the hue and cry after the saloon keeper.

Practical and material considerations came to the aid of moral and spiritual considerations.

Prohibition would be good for business. A new thesis was advanced; not only was it right, but there was money in it.

The base material could be won by appealing to his avarice, the lofty idealist by rousing that moral purpose which inspired the slightest action of his life.

THE combination worked like a charm.

The debate was conveniently shifted and an entirely new stock of arguments in favor of Prohibition was added to the old arsenal.

Instead of justifying the reform on moral grounds, it was now to be more convincingly justified on economic grounds.

This was the new age of industrial efficiency and mass production. More work, that is, more profits, could be got out of workingmen if they were sober; they could be speeded up to new exertions and be more completely Taylorized.

To hear people talk one would have thought that in the days before Prohibition all the workingmen in the land were nothing but a lot of lazy toss-pots who invariably got drunk on Saturday night and, after they had spent all of their wages at the saloon, went home and beat their wives, and that the only way to cure them of these distressing habits was to take away their beer.

Under the new regime they would go straight home from the shop, triumphantly pour their wages into the wives' aprons and turn up promptly on Monday morning, bright and smiling and keen for work.

Instead of spending their money in the saloons they would buy motor cars and gramaphones, and these agencies of moral uplift would keep them out of mischief and maintain a Higher Standard of Living on the Installment Plan.

BABBITT suddenly went in for altruism; he had new vision; he developed a new jargon and a new cant. It was revealed to him that he was not in business for profit, but for service; he was going to uplift humanity by advertising, and scientific salesmanship, and, exhilarated by the new evangel, he would go forth into all the world and sell the gospel to every creature.

We were to have mass production of everything—clothing, food, ideas, opinions, religion and morals. Optimism was to be universal and compulsory, stimulated by ginger ale and grape juice.

We were to breed a new and glorious race—fat, pink, and efficient, nourished on certified milk and chocolate tablets, with calories and vitamins scientifically rationed.

Poverty was to be abolished and prosperity assured by Coueism; everybody, on rising each morning, was to repeat the magic formula: "Every day, in every way, I am getting richer and richer."

One heard this philosophy noisily expounded at the dinner table after the five initiatory cocktails had been ingurgitated, and, if on seeing these enthusiastic Prohibitionists so convivial, one was tactless enough to betray any surprise at the incongruity, one was assured, with an air of great sophistication, that of course the law was "never intended for people of our class."

WE are living in an age of machines, and we have been more thoroughly mechanized than any other people.

Any one who had ever caught the vision, however vague and dim, of the kind of life that liberty would make possible for the individual, would not be very much impressed by the specious argument of the economic advantages of Prohibition; he would be no more impressed by that than by the argument of the wets that Prohibition was a mistake because it deprived the government of the large revenue it had once derived from the taxation levied on spirits.

IF PROHIBITION COULD ABOLISH ALL THE EVILS DUE TO THE ABUSE OF ALCOHOLIC STIMULANTS, IT WOULD BE WORTH ALL IT MIGHT COST IN MONEY.

There is only one price TOO BIG TO PAY for that, AND THAT IS THE LOSS OF LIBERTY.

THE old-fashioned American, in his incorrigible romanticism, had always cherished the illusion that the mission of America was to establish self-government; the ideal was not a nation of fat slaves, but a nation of lean freemen.

After all, there might be some hope for freemen, even if they were drunk, but there could be none for slaves, however sober.

But the alternative is hardly so narrow as all that, and because some men have not yet learned to control their appetites is no reason for depriving all men of their individual liberty.

For the important thing in a nation is the human being—the individual. Life is individual; liberty is individual; happiness is individual; and any code or any system that enslaves the individual is VICIOUS BECAUSE IT IS DESTRUCTIVE OF THE SOUL OF MAN.
